TWO RAILROADS CUT SHOP FORCES AS TRAFFIC SLUMPS

Pennsylvania Lays Off 1,350 Men at Altoona—Central 500 at Albany.

PLAN FURTHER REDUCTIONS

Officials of Both Roads Report Marked Decline in Business In Territory Served.

WESTERN ROADS NORMAL

Pennsylvania Statement Says Operations Will Be Cut to Bedrock of Efficiency.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 12.—The Pennsylvania Railroad system will cut down the number of its operating employes to the absolute minimum in anticipation of a traffic slump this Winter, signs of which are already appearing, it was announced by officials tonight.

The first step in the general reduction came today, when the railroad dropped from its payrolls 1,350 men employed at the Altoona shops, approximately 15 per cent. of the total number employed there.

It was said that the policy of the system henceforth would be to curtail the working forces to the greatest possible degree. A serious reduction in traffic has already set in, according to officials of the railroad, and a worse slump is expected in the near future. They expressed the belief that the present industrial depression would strike the railroads with full force in about six weeks, seriously hampering their operation.

"Notices have been issued today, dropping from the payrolls of the Pennsylvania Railroad at the Altoona, Pa., works, 1,350 men, or approximately 15 per cent. of the total force, effective at the expiration of the customary five days' notice. This is a permanent reduction in force and not a temporary layoff. It is necessitated by a reduction in volume of repair work now going into the shops. All departments are affected, except the iron and brass foundries, in which there is still sufficient work for the present force.

"This action is taken in accordance with the company's policy to cut its operations down to the bedrock of efficiency."

Central Lays Off 500.

ALBANY, Nov. 12.—Five hundred men employed in the West Albany car shops of the New York Central are to be laid off next Monday, according to notices posted about the various shops. This is the second 10 per cent. lay off, and the employes insist it is a blow at union men, it being rumored about West Albany that the company is planning to introduce the open shop. The lay-off, it is said, will be extended to other Central shops.

Central officials in Albany today included P. J. Crowley, Vice President in charge of operation, and William J. Fripp, General Manager.

Mr. Crowley is quoted as saying:

"The New York Central Railroad is doing what a considerable number of industrial and other concerns are obliged to do—laying off some help on account of a slump in business. The officers of the railroad have just completed a study of industrial conditions in the territory served by our lines, and we have found that there has been a marked decline in activity this Fall. We are feeling the effects of this slump in our business, and in the natural course of events it will be reflected in places like West Albany."

It is understood that the night force of car repairers has been taken off and that fifty men have also been relieved at the transfer house, where there is usually a rush of freight.

Western Roads Not Affected.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—Railroads entering Chicago, other than the New York Central and Pennsylvania, are not laying off shopmen or other forces to any appreciable extent or in excess of the number usual at this time of the year. The Chicago & Alton laid off some men in its Bloomington shops in September, but other railroad shops in this vicinity are employing their usual quota. The Pullman Company has employed several thousand additional men, being loaded up with business, and the same is true of the Barber Car Company at Michigan City, Ind.

The news from Altoona, Pa., and Albany yesterday that the Pennsylvania and the New York Central had posted layoff notices was not altogether a surprise here. It has been known for some time that a number of the Eastern district roads were well caught up with their emergency program repair work and would probably decrease their shop payrolls, and conditions in the South and West have been reported to be easier. At the same time certain of the Western roads have indicated that they would be able to take up a fair part of the slack.

Anti-Suffrage Forces Seek Referendum on Amendments

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—A combination of anti-suffrage forces, including the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, the American Constitutional League and the Maryland League for State Defense, today announced the opening of a new phase of their campaign, a drive for a Federal amendment "to restore the rights of the people" and to take away from Legislatures the power to ratify Federal amendments.

The proposed amendment will be submitted to conventions and will provide that all future amendments must be submitted to popular vote or to conventions of instructed delegates elected by popular vote. Every member of Congress, a statement on the subject said, is being polled in regard to the new amendment. The anti-suffragists claim to have the assurance of enough popular support to make the proposed amendment likely of passage.

FEAR MEXICAN REDS UNLESS WE ASSIST

FARM HANDS AGITATING

Mexican Government Must Compromise with Radicals if We Boycott It, Leaders Decalre.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 12.—A high Mexican official stated to THE TIMES correspondent today that immediate recognition of the Mexican Government was essential to end the rapid spread of Bolshevism here. Without recognition, this official pointed out, an increasing number of agitators would take advantage of the difficulties of the Government with the oil interests to pile up insufferable difficulties for the incoming Government, which might result in the Government being forced to compromise with the radical elements. Such a compromise would seriously endanger American interests and foreign investments generally, he said.

A flood of capital is required to put life into the industries of the country, and no financier will invest here until the country is recognized, he asserts. Without capital no Government in Mexico will be able to better conditions for the people.

The spread of radicalism is astounding the entire republic, especially among the farmers where the adoption of extreme ideas is due in many cases to the conditions of the farm hands, who probably earn the lowest wages paid in the world, and are forced to live under conditions described as unfit for cattle. The increased cost of living, which is daily rising, also causes discontent among the working classes.

Farm hands on the large haciendas, mostly in the States of Michoacan and Guanajuato, are demanding a living wage, with provision to be made by each hacienda for schools. While all the haciendas have churches for the workers, less than 1 per cent. have schools for the children, who help in the fields from the time they are able to walk. The wages of these laborers range from 6 cents, American currency, to 20 cents per day.

Continued agitation in the State of Michoacan has forced the attention of the Government to the problem, which, according to THE TIMES informant, is impossible of solution without funds to purchase the haciendas, whose owners threaten to cease working the lands if they are forced to pay higher wages.

From the attitude of Government officials with whom THE TIMES correspondent talked, it is clear that the Government will not accept recognition if accompanied by harsh terms. Government officials say that they prefer to try to struggle along without recognition under such a condition, but, said one leading politician, "we may be forced into the hands of Bolsheyism, It will soon come to a showdown. We must have the support of the United States in order to combat radical ideas, but if we are denied that support noth-

BASEBALL PEACE DECLARED; LANDIS NAMED DICTATOR

CLUB OWNERS COMPROMISE

LANDIS RETAINS OLD POST

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—With Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis of the United States District Court as arbitrator, a one-man court of last resort, peace will obtain in professional baseball for at least seven years, while the eminent jurist will also continue to strike terror into the hearts of criminals by retaining his position as a Federal Judge.

Sixteen club owners of the National and American Leagues reached this happy solution of their difficulties after a three-hour conference at the Congress Hotel today. They then adjourned, to wait upon Judge Landis in a body and present their proposition to him. After only a few minutes' talk with the major league magnates, the Judge accepted the highest responsibility that can be conferred by the promoters of the national sport, and in his acceptance made it plain that he was undertaking the task as a public trust, having in mind the millions of fans of all ages who are interested in baseball.

By this action the former three-man National Commission was permanently discarded, and the supreme authority over baseball was centralized in the hands of one man. Up to date this statement applies only to the major leagues, but it is expected the minors will join with the big fellows in submitting all their future disputes, which they cannot decide within their own ranks, to the decision of Judge Landis. The committee of six named at the Kansas City meeting of the minor leagues to confer with a committee of three each from the National and American Leagues will function only in the matter of drafting a new agreement and a set of rules to govern future relations. That committee has no voice in the selection of the proposed Board of Control, which has now been concentrated into a membership of one man, the unanimous choice of sixteen club owners.

Expect Minors to Concur.

If the minors fail to approve the action of the majors they will be permitted to handle their own affairs in any way they may choose, but it is not expected they will fail to concur.

The joint committee now will have only to prepare the rules and regulations of their combined business affairs. The interpretation and enforcement of those rules and regulations will be vested in a one-man commission.

In their conference with Judge Landis the major leaguers quickly sensed the fact that he was unwilling to leave his position on the bench despite his great interest in the game which he had characterized several years ago as a national institution. The club owners had made their financial argument so strong that they thought it would be unanswerable, but Judge Landis made it plain that his hesitancy was due solely to his great reluctance to quit the bench. They then suggested the plan which was accepted whereby the jurist could continue to interpret the criminal laws of the land and at the same time keep crooks out of baseball.

The Salary Arrangement.

When this point was reached Judge Landis proposed that the salary offered him by the baseball magnates be reduced by the amount of his salary as District Court Justice, so that instead of receiving $50,000 a year as the Supreme Court of baseball, he would get $42,500.

In accepting the responsibility Judge Landis gave out a formal statement, in

Thrift Course for Children Recommended by Educators

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Resolutions advocating the teaching of systematic thrift to school children were adopted today by a committee of State School Superintendents, meeting with Treasury Department officials in charge of the thrift stamp campaign and representatives of the American Bankers' Association.

"Instruction in the practical aspects of thrift and economy, we think, is the only means of stemming the tide of waste and extravagance," the resolutions said.

AUSTRIA REQUESTS LEAGUE ADMISSION

Germany Makes No Move to Enter—France Prepared to Bar Her Way.

OTHER ENEMIES APPROVED

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Nov. 12 (By Telephone to Paris)—The Austrian Government has formally filed with the Secretary of the League of Nations here a demand for admission to the League. It is understood that the allied Governments were first approached to find out whether the application would be favorably regarded and that an affirmative answer was given as Austria, like Bulgaria, has loyally tried to carry out the terms of the treaties of peace. So far no application has been received from Germany.

Though the meetings of the League do not begin until Monday, Geneva is already packed and jammed with delegates from the forty-one nations who have sent representatives, instead of sending three delegates, each country seems to have sent about thirty, including secretaries, stenographers and undetermined attachés. The Japanese delegation alone has engaged 104 rooms and Japanese flags are being flown from five separate hotels.

So far almost the most modest contingents are those from France and Great Britain, and these countries' flags are rare among the immense number of others.

The accommodations are completely inadequate for all who wish to come. The hotels have been able to supply only half the number of rooms applied for, and no one seems to have ever thought of making provision for the needs of the League members until a short week ago. The skating rink, where the meetings are to be held, is now being repainted, and the work can hardly be finished by Monday, when the first meeting is called. The delegates, all of whom are important people in their own countries, will find themselves sitting packed together on hard wooden seats and benches amid the smell of sawdust and new paint.

As seems almost inevitable now at every conference, not the least care has been taken to provide for the needs of newspaper men of whom there are already about 200 from forty-one countries. More are expected and they will find that they must rely on two telegraph lines to London and Paris and two telephone wires to each capital which are retained all day by bankers. The utmost capacity so far for transmission service is 3,000 words a day. An attempt is being made to bring a Marconi wireless into operation, but even should that succeed it is unlikely that anything like the desired publicity can be given to the work of the league.

Hesitate to Propose Germany.

GENEVA, Nov. 12 (Associated Press).—Austria's formal application for admission to the League of Nations, signed by Herr Mayer, Minister of Foreign Affairs, was received by the Secretariat of the League this morning. Attention is called in the application to the fact that Austria received assurance when she signed the Treaty of St. Germain that she would be admitted to the League at the proper time, and it says the proper time has come. Austria, it explains, being ready to fulfill all her international engagements, thinks she ought to belong to the family of nations.

The Secretariat has received no intimation that Germany will apply for admission. It appears that neutral countries which announced they would consider the necessity of retiring from the League if Germany was not admitted hesitate to take the responsibility of proposing her election in the absence of any steps on the part of Germany. By some interested persons here it is believed the chances now are that Germany must apply for admission herself, or the question will not come up, though certain circles hold that Lord Robert Cecil is likely to propose her election.

Some of the delegates who have arrived here for the meeting of the League Assembly decline to be put in the position of offering Germany membership which they believe she might or might not accept.

Delegations from Georgia and Danzig are among the latest arrivals. The Georgians hope their country will be admitted to membership, while the Danzig representatives expect the question of organizations of the free city of Danzig will come up during the meeting, although it is not on the agenda.

M'ADOO IS DRAWN INTO SHIP INQUIRY AS MORSE LAWYER

"GOT TOO MANY ADVANCES"

John T. Meehan Also Tells of Payments to Shipping Board Auditor by Morse Company.

EX-CONVICT WAS EMPLOYED

Many Cases of Embezzlement, Petty Graft and Attempted Swindles Are Revealed.

William G. McAdoo, former Secretary of the Treasury, was drawn into the investigation of United States Shipping Board affairs yesterday, John T. Meehan, Deputy District Chief of the Department of Investigation of the board, told the Congressional Select Committee, sitting in the Federal Building, that Mr. McAdoo's appearance before the Shipping Board in behalf of the Charles W. Morse shipping interests had been the subject of complaint by the Claims Department, which asserted the Morse interests were getting too many financial advances.

Mr. Meehan also testified that J. W. Martin, "former Secretary to Mr. McAdoo," had become Treasurer of the Virginia Shipbuilding Company, a Morse subsidiary, and that two weeks later he had appeared before the Shipping Board on behalf of his corporation.

He further testified that the Virginia Shipbuilding Company, with the knowledge of Ben Morse, had made money payments to Philip Rinehardt, resident auditor for the Shipping Board at Alexandria, Va., who in return signed blank vouchers for $100,000 against the Emergency Fleet Corporation and who approved bills for materials, supposedly for use at the shipyards, which actually were used in the construction of Rosemont, a housing project of Morse and his associates.

Testimony Teems With Graft.

Mr. Meehan made it clear that the connection of both Mr. McAdoo and Mr. Martin with the Morse interests was after they had left the Treasury Department.

Aside from this, Mr. Meehan's testimony teemed with revelations of graft, of padded payrolls, of confessions, of influence brought to bear to prevent prosecutions, of the employment of a paroled convict in a responsible position, of attempted swindles and of fraud in lumber deals.

When the substance of this testimony was placed before him last night Mr. McAdoo said:

"Some time after I left the Treasury my law firm, McAdoo, Cotton & Franklin, was associated with the regular attorneys of the Virginia Shipbuilding Company as counsel in a controversy which had arisen with the Shipping Board under a contract for the building of ships. Our relation to the matter was purely professional, entirely within the proprieties and beyond criticism. The resulting settlement was greatly to the advantage of the Government."

Mr. McAdoo then explained that W. J. Martin was not his private secretary, but a member of the secretarial staff attached to the office of the Secretary of the Treasury. He added:

"W. J. Martin was an excellent clerk. After my resignation he left the Treasury and accepted a position with the Virginia Shipbuilding Company. I had nothing to do with it, and fail to see any impropriety in it."

Asked About Political Influence.

The testimony concerning Mr. McAdoo was brought out by Representative Israel M. Foster of Ohio, who asked Mr. Meehan whether politics had influenced Shipping Board contracts.

"Yes, and any others," replied Mr. Foster.

Then Mr. Meehan said there had been cases in which members of Congress had gone before the Shipping Board "in behalf of their clients."

"Their 'clients' or their constituents?" asked Mr. Foster.

The witness explained that he meant constituents. Members of Congress had merely passed on to the Shipping Board complaints they had received from their home districts.

"Now you've covered the two houses," said Mr. Foster. "Do you know anything about Cabinet officers?"

"There has been complaint of the activities of William G. McAdoo, former Secretary of the Treasury," replied the witness, "but that was after he had left his post. However, I don't think Judge Payne or Admiral Benson would be influenced in the least by a man of that standing."

The witness then told of the connection of Mr. Martin with the Virginia Shipbuilding Company, and of the appearance of both Mr. Martin and Mr. McAdoo before the board in behalf of the Morse interests.

"There has been complaint in the claims department that Morse was getting more advances than he was entitled to," added Mr. Meehan.

Subsequently the witness was asked if it was true that a brother of John Skelton Williams, Controller of the Currency, was connected with the Virginia Shipbuilding Company. The witness did not know.

"Perhaps," said Representative Foster, "you would rather than I'd not

HYLAN AT STORMY HEARING TRIES TO SHOW HIS HETTRICK LETTER FAILED TO GAIN PREFERENCE FOR LIMESTONE IN SCHOOLS

Mayor's Claim That His Letter Was Too Late To Affect Contracts Hinges Upon Dates

Whether or not Mayor Hylan's letter, originally written by John T. Hettrick, representative of the limestone contractors, and copied by the Mayor, who sent it out to various officials, resulted in the substitution of limestone for terra cotta in public school contracts, hinges chiefly upon a question of dates.

The Hylan-Hettrick letter was dated Feb. 8, 1919. According to C. B. J. Snyder, Superintendent of School Buildings, who wrote a letter to the Mayor yesterday, saying: "The policy to be pursued with respect to the use of terra cotta and limestone was communicated to me by Vice President Frank D. Wilsey of our board on Jan. 23, 1919."

As this was more than two weeks before the Hylan-Hettrick letter advocating the use of limestone instead of terra cotta was sent out, Mayor Hylan took the stand yesterday that his letter could not have effected any change of policy.

Other evidence introduced yesterday, however, shows that the controversy over the subject continued after Feb. 8. Nothing in the evidence yesterday fixed a precise date when terra cotta was first substituted for limestone. Mr. Snyder was asked to explain why the Mayor on Feb. 8 should have written both Vice President Wilsey and Mr. Somers of the Board of Education, pointing out the advantage of limestone over terra cotta when, according to Snyder's testimony, the policy had been fixed on Jan. 23. Mr. Snyder was unable to explain this circumstance. In his letter he said the change from terra cotta to limestone cost the city only $250,000.

Mr. Snyder also admitted that the first change in the specifications in the contract for Public School 20, Brooklyn, had been made on Feb. 6, 1919. The remaining forty contracts were much later, thus showing the limestone victory was clinched after and not before the date of the Hylan-Hettrick letter.

SAYS POLICY HAD BEEN SET

But 40 Contracts Were Changed, Some After Letter Went Out.

CLASHES WITH UNTERMYER

BRINDELL GOT $32,000 BRIBE

Builder's Agent Willing to Pay Him $18,000 More for "Protection" on Cunard Piers.

The session of the Lockwood committee in the Board of Estimate room at the City Hall yesterday was the most turbulent meeting held since the committee began its investigation. Mayor Hylan and Samuel Untermyer, counsel to the committee, came together in several bitter clashes. A spectator tried to get at Mr. Untermyer to "smash him on the nose." Counsel to the committee called on the sergeant at arms to suppress Corporation Counsel John P. O'Brien, who was active in the Mayor's behalf, and the Mayor was applauded and hissed by men and women who jammed the room to suffocation.

Chairman C. C. Lockwood threatened to clear the room if the demonstrations continued. William Jennings Bryan, who dropped in for a few minutes "as an interested spectator," drew a round of applause. Mr. Untermyer waved his glasses at "the Commoner" and Mayor Hylan talked with him for a few moments.

Evidence presented showed that a systematic campaign to impress the Mayor and the city officials with the alleged advantages of the use of limestone for the exterior of school buildings was waged by cut stone contractors, walking delegates, stone cutters, stone setters, sculptors, carvers, derrick men, planers, stone workers, granite cutters, steam engineers, machine stone workers and others.

The "facts" presented by these interests were passed on by the Mayor to the President of the Board of Education and by him to the Vice President, Frank D. Wilsey, in charge of buildings. Mr. Wilsey added to the correspondence and then sent it along to C. B. J. Snyder, Superintendent of Buildings for the Board of Education. Mr. Snyder made reports on the use of terra cotta and cut stone, sent the letters to the officials of the Board of Education, and copies were sent to the Mayor, so that he could be in touch with the situation and in a position to inform "the interested parties" how the controversy of terra cotta versus limestone stood. Mr. Snyder was on the stand most of the afternoon, and part of the flood of letters passing among the city officials was placed in the record.

It appeared from the letters and the testimony that of the forty-six schools for which contracts amounting to about $16,000,000 were let decision was made by the school authorities to change the specifications in forty-one so that limestone might be used up to the second story. The specifications had called for either the use of limestone or terra cotta. It was too late on Jan. 23, 1919, according to a letter introduced, because of legal complications, to change the plans on five of the schools.

The first specification changed was that of Public School 20, Brooklyn, according to Mr. Snyder. The change from terra cotta to limestone was made on Feb. 6, 1919, he said, and subsequently changes were made on other schools, most of the changes being made after the Hylan-Hettrick letter of Feb. 8, 1919. Of the forty-six schools the change to limestone in the specifications was made in forty-one.

Although Snyder insisted that the change in policy was made on Jan. 23, 1919, two weeks before the date of the Hylan-Hettrick letter, a letter was read into the record from Hettrick to the Mayor. It was dated March 12, 1919, and Hettrick complained to the Mayor that terra cotta was being used by the contractor on P. S. 57 and asked the Mayor to stand by his position. Mr. Snyder could not recall anything about P. S. 57. The specifications on P. S. 57 could not be changed because the contract had already been awarded, he said.

Clash as Session Opens.

The first clash of the day between Mr. Untermyer and the Mayor took place at the opening of the day's session, shortly before 1 o'clock. The Mayor read a letter he wrote Thursday to Mr. Snyder. Mr. Snyder, in the letter, was asked to inform the Mayor whether any change of policy in regard to the use of limestone was arrived at after the Mayor received a protest on March 12, 1919, from John T. Hettrick, organizer of contractors' combines, against the use of terra cotta on P. S. 57, the Bronx.

The Mayor started to read Mr. Snyder's answer when he was interrupted by Mr. Untermyer, who objected to the use of hearsay evidence. If in the in-

'DRY' BUREAU LIMITS MALT AND HOPS BAN

Can Be Sold So Long as They Are Not Advertised as for Use in Brewing.

RESERVED AS TO CRUSADE

But Bureau Holds That Brewing Cannot Be Done Except Under Permit.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Stories that the Bureau of Internal Rvenue had put a ban on the sale of hops and malt to others than bakers and confectioners brought a statement from the bureau tonight. While it is set forth in the statement that the sale of materials advertised for the manufacture of home brew is illegal, the bureau declares that it does not wish to interfere with the "legitimate sale" of malt or hops.

Officials would not elaborate upon the formal statement, but there existed a doubt as to whether hops and malt would not be available if there was no mention by either party to the sale of their use for the manufacture of intoxicating liquors.

Neither confirmation nor denial could be had of a report that the bureau had sent out instructions telling its agents to prevent the illegal sale of malt or hops.

The statement reads:

"It appears from inquiries received in the prohibition unit of the Bureau of Internal Revenue and recent newspaper articles that the impression has gone abroad that there might be some ruling by the bureau which would interfere with the legitimate sale of malt extracts, dry malt or hops. It has never been the purpose or desire of the Bureau of Internal Revenue to interfere with any legitimate business, but on the other hand, it wishes to do everything possible to promote such business. Then, too, there appears to be some misunderstanding as to the right to manufacture malt liquors, such as beer, in the home for consumption by the family and bona fide guests.

"In connection with the so-called home brewed beer, the impression seems to prevail among some people that materials which ordinarily are, or may be used in the manufacture of intoxicating liquors may be sold freely and legally, even though sold for the purpose of making intoxicating liquors. When materials are sold for the purpose of being converted into lawfully manufactured intoxicating liquors, such transactions, of course, are legal if the law and regulations with reference to such manufacture are complied with.

"However, it appears that Section 18 of Title II. of the National Prohibition act may not be generally known to the public. It is as follows:

It shall be unlawful to advertise, manufacture, sell or possess for sale any utensil, contrivance, machine, preparation, compound, substance, formula, direction, or recipe, advertised, designed or intended for use in the unlawful manufacture of intoxicating liquor.

"It is unlawful under the act to make a liquor by the process by which beer, ale or porter is produced unless a permit is first procured for that purpose under the law of the regulations. If malt extracts, hops, isinglass, gelatine or other materials are sold or advertised for sale in circumstances which show that they are advertised or sold for use in the unlawful manufacture of intoxicating liquor, it is the purpose of the bureau to prosecute persons so offending.

"The so-called home brewed beer manufactured in the home for beverage purposes, even though for the sole use of the family and bona fide guests, is under the bureau's construction of the law illegal, and the sale of materials for the purpose of such manufacture is likewise illegal."

While no official utterances were made on the subject, the impression was gained this afternoon that the ruling is directed chiefly at advertisers who offer an alluring combination "Ready to turn into good, old-fashioned home brew."

END HUNGER STRIKE OF CORK PRISONERS

AMBUSH FIVE JOURNALISTS

Soldiers Kill Two and Capture Seven of the Attackers—Mrs. MacSwiney Coming Here.

CORK, Nov. 12 (Associated Press).—The hunger strike of the nine Irish prisoners in the Cork Jail was called off today, the ninety-fourth day of the strike. Nourishment is being administered to the nine men, it was stated at the prison this evening.

The end of the strike was revealed when the following message, received by Lord Mayor O'Callaghan from Arthur Griffith, founder of the Sinn Fein organization, was given out:

"I am of the opinion that our countrymen in the Cork prison have sufficiently proved their devotion and fidelity, and that they should now, as they were prepared to die for Ireland, prepare to live for her."

This message has been transmitted to the nine surviving hunger strikers in the jail.

The men were reported today in a deplorably low state.

"It will be anxious work, but we are quite hopeful of pulling all the men through," said Dr. Pearson to The Associated Press today. "The first nourishment will consist of infants' food, the white of eggs and beef juice. We are feeling our way with each case, and the outlook is distinctly favorable."

Dr. Pearson denied reports that the prisoners began to take food several days ago. He declared that they had had nothing whatever to eat until today. Some of the strikers at first showed reluctance to comply with Mr. Griffith's advice to cease their fast, but all finally consented.

The cessation of the strike created little surprise here, in view of the efforts begun last week by the Bishop of Cork to end it.

The announcement of the receipt of the Griffith letter closely followed an appeal made by Bishop Cohalan of Cork that there be a cessation of the strike, which, he declared, would only be a waste of lives. Bishop Cohalan's letter, made public today, voiced a strong appeal that the strike be called off immediately and expressed the belief that it was still possible to nurse the men back to health.

"Lord Mayor MacSwiney's strike accomplished the purpose of attracting world attention," he added. "The nation got value for his life, but the continuance of the present strike is only a waste."

The Cork hunger strike began on Aug. 11. There were originally eleven of the strikers. One of them, Michael Fitzgerald, died on Oct. 17, and another, Joseph Murphy, on Oct. 23, the latter within a few hours of the death of Lord Mayor MacSwiney of Cork in Brixton Prison on the 73d day of the Lord Mayor's hunger strike. The nine survivors are:

John (Sean) Hennessy, Michael Burke, Matthew Reilly, Thomas Donovan, Joseph Kenny, Christopher Upton, John Power, John Crowley and Peter Crowley.

DUBLIN, Nov. 12.—A statement issued tonight at Dublin Castle said the hunger strikers in Cork Jail, who had been without food since Aug. 11, resumed taking nourishment at 3 o'clock this afternoon, with an entire absence of unfavorable symptoms.

The meal, the statement added, was administered under the direction of the medical officers, who believe that with careful treatment the prisoners ultimately will recover.

Wilson Summons Nation to Thanksgiving; Cites Our Blessings, Calls for Service

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. — President Wilson issued his Thanksgiving proclamation tonight, saying that "in plenty, security and peace, our virtuous and self-reliant people face the future," and setting aside Thursday, Nov. 25, for the usual observances. The text is as follows:

"The season approaches when it behooves us to turn from the distractions and preoccupations of our daily life, that we may contemplate the mercies which have been vouchsafed to us, and render heartfelt and unfeigned thanks unto God for his manifold goodness.

"This is an old observance of the American people, deeply imbedded in our thought and habit. The burdens and the stresses of life have their own insistence.

"We have abundant cause for thanksgiving. The lesions of the war are rapidly healing. The great army of free men, which America sent to the defense of liberty, returning to the grateful embrace of the nation, has resumed the useful pursuits of peace, as simply and as promptly as it rushed to arms in obedience to the country's call.

"The equal justice of our laws has received steady vindication in the support of a law-abiding people against various and sinister attacks, which have reflected only the baser agitations of war, now happily passing.

"In plenty, security and peace, our virtuous and self-reliant people face the future, its duties and its opportunities. terest of fair play Mr. Snyder desired to be heard, an opportunity would be afforded him, said Mr. Untermyer. But he objected to having read into the record statements of Mr. Snyder, not under oath, when there was no opportunity for cross-examination. As a lawyer and former judge, the Mayor should see that the introduction of such matter should not be tolerated, declared Mr. Untermyer. The Mayor insisted on reading the letter. Mr. Untermyer again objected, and Chairman Lockwood ruled it out of order.

Trembling with irritation the Mayor appealed to Chairman Lockwood for permission to read the communication. Mr. Lockwood said that Snyder could be introduced as a witness if the Mayor desired to do so. Mr. Untermyer objected to the introduction of "immaterial and incompetent matter."

Despite Mr. Untermyer's objections and the ruling by the Chairman the Mayor began reading the letter in a trembling voice. He got as far as the beginning of the letter when he was interrupted by Mr. Untermyer.

"I appeal, in all fairness to me and to the people of the city, let me read this letter," he begged.

"The people of the city will take care of themselves. You are not here now on behalf of the people of the city," retorted Mr. Untermyer.

Mayor and Untermyer Quarrel.

The Mayor's pleading voice changed to anger and he snapped at Mr. Untermyer, "The people of the city ought to know the truth, and you should not object to my giving that truth."

Mr. Untermyer angrily shouted at the top of his voice, "The people of the city will learn the truth if Mr. Snyder goes on the witness stand. What more can you want?"

The Mayor turned to the committee and appealed to them "in all fairness" to permit him to read Snyder's reply.

"That word fairness is overdone," remarked Mr. Untermyer. Chairman Lockwood said that Mr. Snyder would be permitted to testify at the beginning of the afternoon session. The Mayor was displeased and he declared defiantly, "I am going to give Mr. Snyder's letter out right now." He turned to the well in the centre of room where the reporters were seated.

"Then you will do a very grave and very indecent thing and you ought to be ashamed of yourself for doing it," retorted Mr. Untermyer.

During the acrimonious debate, in which Corporation Counsel O'Brien attempted to aid the Mayor in having the letter placed in the record, Mr. Untermyer called on the Sergeant-at-Arms to "suppress" Mr. O'Brien. "I can't do it," Mr. Untermyer said. "Look at the size of him," pointing to Mr. O'Brien's corpulent figure.

Chairman Lockwood announced the meeting adjourned until 2 o'clock, but the Mayor stuck to his post as the crowd started swirling toward the doors, and declared in a loud voice, "Then I will read it for the benefit of those who want to hear it."

Some one started to hiss and in a moment the room was filled with hissing. A few handclaps were hardly heard in the uproar and unintelligible shouts were hurled at the Mayor.

"I hope you will observe the decencies of the case," was Mr. Untermyer's last shot. The encounter ended, and Mayor Hylan caused copies of the letter which he was unable to read to be given to the reporters.

Two men tried to force their way to the front of the room when the adjournment was announced. "Let us get at Untermyer, we will show him," said one.

"What do you mean?" asked a spectator near the front of the room.

Hylan Loses a Point.

Shortly after Mr. Snyder took his place in the witness chair at the afternoon session Mayor Hylan asked permission to put a question to him through the committee. Mr. Untermyer objected, and the Mayor asserted that if he had been agreed that he might ask Mr. Snyder some questions. Counsel to the committee explained that it had been arranged that the questions were to be submitted after Mr. Snyder concluded his testimony. The Mayor asked that Mr. Untermyer, in a letter, promised that he (the Mayor) would have the privilege of "straightening out anything" that came before the commitee and he demanded that right.

Mr. Untermyer started to go on with the examination of the witness when the Mayor interrupted. "No, Mr. Untermyer," he said. "As Mayor of the city I have the right to ask questions of this witness so as to show the people, the public, that the differences that he tried to raise yesterday were improper, absolutely."

"As Mayor of this city, the Mayor has no more rights than any other citizen before this State Legislative Committee," replied Mr. Untermyer. "He has the right of a citizen and he will be given those rights and they will be secured to him."

Applause followed this remark and also the reply of the Mayor, who said: "If there is a covert attack on me I have a right to come and defend myself and ask questions to bring out the truth, which you promised in your opening address and in your letter to me."

Mr. Untermyer objected to "turning the investigation into a bear garden."

At the end of Mr. Snyder's examination there was another outbreak when the Mayor attempted to question Snyder. Mr. Untermyer objected to a "circus" or any disorder. The Mayor shot back that he would see that he got a fair opportunity. He insisted on asking the question personally, but was told that according to the rules he would have to ask it through the counsel to the committee.

"If you will come down here and write it or give it to me I will be glad to put it, whatever it may be, whether pertinent or impertinent, important or not important," declared Mr. Untermyer.

Mayor Disclaims "Impertinence."

"I shall not ask impertinent questions, Sir," the Mayor said.

"I don't mean impertinent in that sense; I mean immaterial," Mr. Untermyer answered.

Q. (To Mr. Snyder)—The Mayor wants to know whether you received a letter from him this morning? A.—I did, Sir.

Q.—And whether you answered it? A.—I did, sir.

Q.—And you have it there? A.—Yes, Sir.

Mr. Untermyer—And I object to its introduction. Now, Mr. Chairman, the Mayor must know as a lawyer and as a man who sat upon the bench that self-serving declarations made by a man when he is on the stand, by having people write letters to him, abusing other people, are not evidence and cannot be put in. Now, if there is any question we have not asked Mr. Snyder we will ask him. If there is any question, when the Mayor goes on the stand, if he wants to make any statement he will be permitted to make it, but the idea of turning this thing into a scandal mill by permitting people to write letters, during the investigation, mind you, then reading them—why, what will happen to us with our one hundred or two hundred witnesses?

The Chairman—Mr. Snyder is on the stand. If there is any question the Mayor wishes to ask Mr. Snyder—

Mr. Untermyer—Mr. Chairman, will you rule on the question whether the letter should be admitted?

The Chairman—The letter is not admissible.

Mr. Untermyer—Letters written during the investigation are not very good evidence of anything, and, by the way, the Mayor has shown so much respect for the committee that although the letter is not in evidence the newspapers have all got it, so he ought to be satisfied with having defied every orderly and decent method of procedure to that extent, which was a great wrong, which he ought not to have done, and which he, as the head of this great city, should not have thought of doing.

Hylan's Opening Statement.

The statement Mayor Hylan had attempted to read at the morning session, including the letters exchanged between him and Mr. Snyder, which became the subject of the controversy just recited, was as follows:

"I desire to brand this a vicious and deliberate falsehood.

"In The New York Herald the following heading appears:

"'Terra cotta school contracts involving $16,000,000 changed by Board of Education after receipt of Hylan letter.'

"This is also a malicious, false and untrue statement. The records of the Board of Education will prove this to be a deliberate and malicious attempt to mislead the people of this city, and I submit the following official correspondence to substantiate this statement:

Office of the Mayor,
The City of New York,
Nov. 11, 1920.

Mr. C. B. J. Snyder.

Dear Mr. Snyder:

At the hearing today before the Lockwood Joint Legislative Housing Committee, the counsel of that committee, after a letter had been read into the minutes addressed by me, dated Feb. 9, 1919, to Frank D. Wilsey, Vice President of the Board of Education, wherein was discussed the use of terra cotta or stone for exterior trim, insinuated that after the receipt of this letter by Mr. Wilsey changes were made in the plans and specifications for new public school buildings. I am quoting from the minutes, page 1148, of today's hearing, the following transcript:

Q. (By Mr. Untermyer)—And you mean to say that upon a statement of that kind of an interested party you would go on and put the Board of Education in motion on a matter involving millions of dollars without making any sort of an inquiry? A. (By the Mayor)—No, I wrote the letter for their information to look into it.

Q.—Well they looked into it and changed from terra cotta to limestone on every building, didn't they? A.—No, not that I remember.

Q.—Do you know whether they did or not? I remember. A.—I am not sure they did.

Q.—You don't know whether they did or not? A.—I am not sure whether they changed or not.

On another occasion, during my testimony, a letter was read into the record, addressed to me by John T. Hectrick, dated March 12, 1919, in which was discussed natural stone or terra cotta in connection with the erection of Public School 57, the Bronx. Immediately after the reading of this communication the counsel of the Lockwood Committee intimated that there was a change made in the plans so that limestone was used in the construction of this building.

Will you be good enough to inform me at once if there were any changes of policy made in these respects after the receipt of the letters referred to? Very truly yours,

JOHN F. HYLAN, Mayor.

It was when Mayor Hylan began reading Mr. Snyder's reply that Mr. Untermyer objected and the dispute took place.

Snyder's Reply to Mayor.

Board of Education,
The City of New York,
Nov. 12, 1920.

Terra cotta vs. limestone on school buildings.

Hon. John F. Hylan, Mayor The City of New York:

My Dear Mr. Mayor—Yoursof yesterday as to changes alleged to have been made in plans and specifications as relating to terra cotta or stone for exterior trim for new school buildings subsequent to Feb. 8, 1919, quoting from testimony given yesterday before the Lockwood Joint Legislative Housing Committee, and also as to change made in the plans for Public School 57, Bronx, subsequent to March 12, 1919, so that limestone was used in the construction of the building, and asking to be informed at once if there were any changes of policy made in these respects after receipt of the letters referred to has been received.

In reply I beg to advise that there was no change made in the plans and specifications or in policy with respect to these matters subsequent to the dates mentioned.

The policy to be pursued with respect to the use of terra cotta and limestone was communicated to me by Vice President Frank D. Wilsey of our board on Jan. 23, 1919.

Mr. Wilsey had referred to me for investigation and report certain communications from representatives of the cut stone industry of this city on the subject upon which I reported under date of Jan. 6, 1919—copy of my report is attached hereto.

From this you will note that I approved the claim for the superiority of stone over terra cotta and stated that "I would not choose terra cotta for exterior trim and ornamental work if I believed we could meet the expense necessary to provide cut stone." Further, that "the estimated difference in cost as between the two materials on a typical school building is about $4,000 in favor of the terra cotta." Briefly, the practice prior to the war was that certain portions of the exterior trim of a building was in limestone and others in terra cotta.

During the war period — owing to conditions then existing—this was changed so as to make the terra cotta an alternate for the limestone, leaving it to the contractor to choose which he would use.

At the time of my report to Mr. Wilsey the plans and specifications for Public School 29, Brooklyn, and 57, Bronx, had been prepared complete on this basis. Bids for general construction of 57, Bronx, were opened by me on Feb. 11, 1919, those for 29, Brooklyn, on March 3, 1919. The exterior trim of both these buildings is of terra cotta, there being no limestone used.

As following the instructions of Vice President Wilsey, specifications for Public School 20, Brooklyn, which had been printed but not advertised, were amended under date of Feb. 6, 1919, providing for limestone in the lower part of the building and terra cotta above.

Bids for this job were opened by me on March 18, 1919. Plans and specifications as following were made to suit. In certain buildings, however, such as addition to Public School 6, Bronx; addition to Public School 144, Brooklyn, and other similar structures, the specifications required that the design of the existing building should be carried out. This, therefore, involved the use of more or less limestone, as the case might be.

I do not quite understand the reference to the matter as "involving millions of dollars," since it is estimated that the total cost of limestone—where used in the school buildings now under construction—will not exceed $250,000.

Inclosed herewith please find copies of my report and letters on this matter, together with a photo of Public School 57, the Bronx, dated July 9, 1920, showing terra cotta as used in exterior. Very truly yours,

C. B. J. SNYDER,
Superintendent of School Buildings.

Date of Change to Stone Not Fixed.

From the mass of letters read into the record during Mr. Snyder's examination there was no evidence which showed conclusively when the use of limestone was abandoned and when terra cotta was substituted. Mr. Snyder said that the change was made on Jan. 23, 1919, but there were many letters which showed that the topic was under discussion for a considerable period after that time.

Mr. Snyder testified that from Dec. 30, 1918, to Jan. 2, 1920, appropriation of $25,000,000 was made for forty-six schools. He said that Frank D. Wilsey, a member of the Board of Education, had charge of building matters for the board. He was asked if he noticed that in many instances the heating, ventilating and plumbing contractors at work on the new school buildings were contractors who were associated with John T. Hettrick in the "code of practice." Mr. Snyder had no definite list as to who were included among the contractors.

The letter which showed the campaign waged by the cut stone interests to have limestone used in the schools was sent in the form of a report by Mr. Snyder to Mr. Wilsey. It is as follows:

Jan. 16, 1919.

Vice President, Board of Education.
My dear Mr. Wilsey:

Recently you sent to me for investigation and report a communication from representatives of the cut stone industry of this city, relative to the use of cut stone, rather than ornamental terra cotta for the exterior trim of our new buildings.

I have also received, from various sources, other communications on the same subject, some of which have been addressed to His Honor, the Mayor, and others to this board.

From the Greater New York Cut Stone Contractors' Association:

Pointing out that there is now on storage in the various cut stone plants located in New York upwards of 100,000 cubic feet of block stone, and any additional amount can be obtained at once on demand; that there is an abundance of skilled workmen available, and that it is by far the best and ultimately the cheapest material when durability, dignity and architectural effect are taken into account, &c.

From the United Board of Business Agents:

Protesting against what it terms the "substitution of non-union terra cotta for school buildings for the City of New York in place of union cut stone as heretofore."

From the Planer Men's Association:

Protesting against the omission of cut stone for all new school buildings, and expressing the opinion that it would help greatly during the reconstruction period if stone was used on public schools to open up the shops that have been closed down during the war.

Two letters from the Machine Stone Workers, Rubbers and Helpers:

Stating that on investigation it finds that "the plans of the new schools call for the erection of the same of terra cotta, with stone as an alternative," pointing out that they think this is unfair to the stone trades of the city, which have been out of employment at their trades practically since the inception of the war, and citing the inferiority of architectural terra cotta over stone as exhibited in the buildings of the City College at 137th Street and Amsterdam Avenue.

From the stone industry of Greater New York, comprising stone cutters, stone setters, sculptors and carvers, derrick men, planers, stone workers, granite cutters and steam engineers:

Comprising stone cutters, stone setters, sculptors and carvers, derrick men, planers, stone cutters and steam engineers:

Referring to the interview had with you as Vice President of this board for the purpose of bringing to your attention the elimination of cut stone from the proposed new public schools, that the matter apparently was as yet unsettled, and asking for a decision:

Please permit me to advise that in previous work, executed under normal conditions, it was customary to include such an amount of cut stone in the lower stories, and terra cotta above, as would seem to be necessary for the proper carrying out of the design.

It will be recalled that with a very great advance in price of labor and materials I was directed to reduce costs in every direction possible, consistent with sound construction and with due regard to those factors which have controlling influence in the design and planning for a building of this type.

The design for the proposed new buildings, therefore, provide for a minimum amount of exterior work requiring either cut stone or terra cotta, and, as further possible saving, I have provided that the work may be executed in either of these materials, thus bringing them into competition.

The net result of this would be, probably, that the contractor will choose terra cotta as being of lesser cost and will use this material, therefore, not only in the upper stories, but practically down to the bluestone water table or skirting.

The statement of the representative of the cut stone industry as to the superiority of stone over terra cotta may be accepted as absolutely correct, and from my experience in the use of the two materials, I would not choose terra cotta for exterior trim and ornamental work if I believed we could meet the expense necessary to provide cut stone. The estimated difference in cost as between the two materials on a typical school building is about $4,000 in favor of the terra cotta.

It would be quite possible, should the board so desire, to return to our former practice of restricting the use of ornamental terra cotta to those portions of the building above the second story, which would then permit of the use of cut stone in the lower portions, where it is subject to close inspection.

Yours very truly,
C. B. J. SNYDER.

Admits Change in Specifications.

Examined on the letter, Mr. Snyder said that it was true that the specifications called for either limestone or terra cotta, but that later they were changed to call for part stone and part limestone. He said that had the alternative of using limestone or terra cotta been left to the contractor he would probably have used terra cotta, because it was cheaper.

In a letter from Mr. Wilson to Mr. Snyder, the former said he did "not intend to go further into the matter unless necessary." Other letters showed that the Mayor was kept fully informed as to the status of the limestone discussion, and copies of all letters and reports were ordered sent to him.

The first specification changed was that of Public School 20, Brooklyn, said Snyder. The specification was amended on Feb. 6, 1919, and called for the use of limestone for the lower story and entrance and terra cotta trim above.

In the examination that followed it was intimated by Mr. Untermyer that not only had the Mayor sent to Mr. Wilsey a verbatim copy of the letter on the advantages of limestone which the Mayor used as his own, but that he had also sent a copy to Mr. Arthur Somers, another member of the Board of Education. Mr. Snyder said he did not compare the two letters.

Mr. Snyder insisted that definite decision to substitute limestone for terra cotta had been made on Jan. 23, 1919; but he was unable to explain why the Mayor, on Feb. 8, should have written both Mr. Wilsey and Mr. Somers urging that cut stone be used instead of terra cotta.

Other letters were read showing that cut stone men were making complaints regarding the use of terra cotta.

Senator Abraham Kaplan, a member of the committee, elicited from Mr. Snyder the statement that limestone had been used for many years in the construction of schools up to the side of the second floor, but that during the war contractors had been permitted the use of terra cotta for exterior trim because of its cheapness. Replying to a question of Assemblyman Pete Hammill, he said that the difference in use amounted to not more that 1 per cent. of the cost of the entire building. On a building costing $400,000 limestone exterior meant that the additional cost was only $4,000.

Paid $32,000 Bribe to Brindell.

Hugh S. Robertson of Todd, Iron & Robertson, 101 Park Avenue, builders, told the committee that he agreed to pay Robert S. Brindell, President of the Building Trades Council, $50,000 for "strike insurance" and for advice on labor matters. He said he had a contract for the building of the new Cunard Line docks amounting to from $35,000,000 to $40,000,000 and that he tried to learn from Brindell whether any strikes would be called or whether there would be any labor trouble during the present year.

Robertson testified he paid Brindell $32,000 on account and still owed him $18,000. He intimated that he was willing to pay the remainder, because of help he received from Brindell. He said the Cunard job was taken on a cost plus basis, and the expenditures upon Brindell would be added to the expense of the construction of the docks.

In his testimony Mr. Robertson said that he was connected with two firms, the Todd, Sons & Robertson Company and the Todd, Robertson & Todd Engineering Company. He said he constructed the Guaranty Trust Company building and had contracts amounting to between $35,000,000 and $40,000,000 for the Cunard Line.

There was a strike on the Cunard Building on March 10, 1920, he said, and 300 men walked out. The strike lasted two and a half hours and was settled after he talked with Brindell in the latter's office at St. Mark's Place.

During his conversation with Brindell, he said he mentioned the large dock job he had on in New Jersey for the Cunard Line. He invited Brindell to his office to look over the plans, as he wanted to gain Brindell's friendship, knowing he was a power in the labor world.

During the conversation with Brindell, the labor leader used the term "strike insurance," said Mr. Robertson, and asked him if he wanted that kind of insurance on the Cunard dock job.

A week later Brindell came to his office and looked over the plans. They took luncheon together at the Hotel Commodore and Robertson said he tried to get from Brindell some intimation as to the future demands of the dock workers, members of Brindell's union. There was a further talk about the advisability of having "strike insurance" and Robertson said it would be a good thing to have.

On March 22 Robertson said he met Brindell on the third floor of the Guaranty Trust Building and suggested that it would be a nice thing to get this matter straightened out." Brindell demanded $50,000 for "strike insurance." He said he wanted Brindell's advice to prevent strikes.

Robertson said that Brindell told him that he thought he could be of great assistance on the Cunard job. Mr. Untermyer asked the witness what he said when Brindell demanded $50,000.

"I wanted to know how he wanted it," replied Robertson. There was a general laugh at the answer.

Brindell, he added, wanted $20,000 at once and the rest in payments "to come along on request."

He offered Brindell $10,000, but the labor leader said he needed $20,000 "right away," and Robertson agreed to pay it.

Paid $20,000 in Automobile.

On the following day he met Brindell at lunch at the Commodore. They drove around the block in an automobile, and before the builder stepped out he placed $20,000 in cash on the seat of the machine. He said to Brindell, as far as he recalled, that it was the first payment on account.

Robertson identified the check on the Fifth Avenue Bank, dated March 23, 1920, which he drew for the amount. He put the $20,000 item down in his books as "preliminary expenses."

On May 7 he again had luncheon at the Commodore with Brindell, who told him that there would be no further wage demands by the members of the Building Trades Council until January, 1921. Again there was the affair of the automobile, and this time Robertson left $6,149 on the seat as second payment on account.

Robertson said he gave Brindell $6,149 because he did not want to have an even amount appear on the books. He made the third payment, amounting to $3,851, on May 14. These two payments, added together, made $10,000. He gave the money in cash to Brindell in the vestibule of the Guaranty Trust Company.

He arranged to meet Brindell late in the afternoon, as that was the only time the labor man said he could spare.

"He didn't say he was busy with other customers the rest of the day?" asked Mr. Untermyer.

"No, Sir."

Subsequently, he said, he made two payments of $1,000 each. The first $1,000 payment was on Sept. 14, 1920, after luncheon at the Commodore. The money was placed on the automobile seat, as were the first and second payments. Robertson said he always paid the luncheon bill. The second $1,000 payment was on Oct. 14, 1920.

Still "Owes" Brindell $18,000.

Q.—You are still $18,000 shy, aren't you? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—And you are going to stay shy? A.—I hope so. I feel this way about it, Mr. Untermyer. I made a certain agreement with Mr. Brindell to pay him certain money. Mr. Brindell has been of a great deal of assistance to me in doing the work.

Q.—You mean in preventing strikes? A.—No; giving information as to how to run the work.

Q.—Giving you information as to when it was going to be raised in price? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—Is this a cost plus job? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—So that this goes in as part of the cost, does it? A.—Not necessarily, no.

Q.—But it does. It goes as part of the expense? A.—I expect so, yes, Sir.

Q.—And you get 10 per cent. on that, don't you? A.—No, sir.

Q.—No percentage on that? A.—No, Sir, not a bit.

By the Chairman: Q.—But the people constructing the building foot the bill? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—You charge some of this to the Guaranty Trust? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Or to the Cunard? A.—I did not figure the Guaranty Trust had any reason to have any charge to them.

By Mr. Untermyer: Q.—Is the Guaranty Trust a cost plus job too? A.—It was. We do not do our work on cost plus percentage though.

Zaranko Tells of Delay.

William Zaranko, Business Agent of the House Wreckers Union, A. F. of L., was recalled at his own request and submitted letters he wrote to Mayor Hylan and other city officials asking them to attempt a settlement of the differences between his organization and Brindell.

Zaranko's first protest was made in a letter to Mayor Hylan on May 26, 1920, after his men had been refused work because of Brindell's influence with the house wrecker employers and builders. The Mayor asked him to set forth his grievances in a memorandum. He did this and forwarded it to the Mayor, who informed him that it had been turned over to Tenement House Commissioner Mann.

Mr. Mann notified him Oct. 4 that he was not in a position to take up the matter and referred him to Commissioner of Accounts David Hirshfield. He was unable to get further than Commissioner Hirshfield's secretary, and Hirshfield sent for him Oct. 21 when he was under subpoena to appear before the Lockwood Committee to give his story.

Zaranko denied knowledge of the Wall Street bomb explosion so far as the theory of a plot engineered by any of his men was concerned. He desired to have a statement in the record that he caused a suit to be instituted against Vladimir Fanke, one of Brindell's agents, charging false arrest and obtained judgment of $450 after it was found that his (Zaranko's) account were correct.

The Lockwood Committee will meet next Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock to resume its investigation. It will meet with the members of the Board of Estimate Monday morning at 10:30 in regard to the school contracts.

McCOOEY KNEW HETTRICK.

Wrote Hylan to Get Him Job Welcoming Troops Home.

John H. McCooey, Democratic leader of Kings County, who introduced John T. Hettrick to Mayor Hylan, according to testimony before the Lockwood Committee on Thursday, yesterday gave an explanation of the circumstances of the introduction.

"I first met Mr. Hettrick about 32 years ago, when I was in the Brooklyn Post Office," said Mr. McCooey. "I had not seen him for a long time when, about two years ago, I chanced to meet him at a theatre. While we were leaving he told me that he had a desire to serve on one of the patriotic committees which were then being organized to celebrate the return of the troops from abroad. I suggested that he write me a letter about it and told him I would forward it to the Mayor. This was done.

"I don't think that I personally delivered the letter to the Mayor. I am quite sure that I did not, as such a proceeding would be unusual. My best recollection is that I forwarded it to him in a routine way."

STEEL COMPANY PROTESTS.

Threatens Legal Proceedings Against City on Court House Contract.

The Board of Estimate at its meeting yesterday referred to the Corporation Counsel a protest from the Bethlehem Steel Corporation against its contract for the steel construction of the new Court House being rescinded. This is one of the contracts being investigated by the Lockwood Committee, and the Bethlehem company has threatened legal proceedings for breach of contract.

The Mayor wanted the communication placed on file, but Controller Craig objected on the ground that it was a question of the city's liability in an action, and it was decided to let the Corporation Counsel pass upon it.

THREATENS 'VIOLENCE' TO LOYAL COALITION

Message Promises 'What Amalgamated Irish Societies Will Give Englishmen.'

BOSTON, Nov. 12.—The Loyal Coalition announced tonight that it had taken steps to call the attention of the authorities to a message received at its offices signed by "Patrick J. O'Brien," threatening violence "unless you keep quiet about business that does not concern you, such as Ireland and all Irish questions."

The letter, as made public by the coalition, asserted that unless the warning were heeded "you will get the same thing that the Amalgamated Irish Societies of America is going to give the rest of you.

"You will get all that is coming to you unless you shut up." The letter added, "Take it or leave it."

The Loyal Coalition, with headquarters in this city, has conducted a campaign of publicity against interference in Irish affairs by Irish sympathisers in this country.

WILL REFUSE $1 A DAY RISE

Cunard Superintendent Says Bosses Should Get Into Personal Touch with Workmen.

The threat of an attempt on the part of the employers to inaugurate an "open shop" policy in the building trades in New York City unless the American Federation of Labor remedies conditions disclosed by the Lockwood legislative committee investigation was made yesterday by Ronald Taylor, President of the Building Trades Employers' Association, in a speech at the Autumn meeting of the New York State Association of Architects at the Fine Arts Building, 215 West Fifty-seventh Street.

Mr. Taylor recalled the days of "Sam" Parks and said that there had been harmony in the building business from 1903 to 1915. He did not specifically mention Robert P. Brindell, head of the Building Trades Council, but said that the Council had its charter from the American Federation of Labor.

"I feel that we have gone as far as we can in our present relations with labor," Mr. Taylor said, "and next Wednesday night it will be right up to our association to determine our future relations. Within the week they have come to us wih a demand for a dollar a day raise in pay. I can say that this will be voted down unanimously by the employers' association.

"We will then still face the proposition of whether to go to the American Federation of Labor and say 'You have put a council in New York City, headed by men who have been proved lacking in character and honesty and we wish to know whether there is any possibility of our getting a representative body with which we can honestly deal.' If we can get that, it may be the best solution.

"Or it may be possible that after Dec. 31, when some of the agreements expire, it may be best for us to state our rates of pay, conditions, &c., without saying anything about unionism or non-unionism, whether a man is white or black or anything about his race or religion."

Mr. Taylor said he believed in the eight-hour day and double pay for overtime. He said he believed the unions should give back autonomy to each trade. Another difficulty, he said, was a shortage of men in certain trades.

"I am confident that the problem will be solved," he said. "I think the present trouble is a backwash of the war."

Mr. Taylor's address was part of a general discussion of the subject, "What Is the Matter with the Building Industry?"

Other speakers in the discussion were Robert D. Kohn, Vice President of the New York State Association of Architects; J. Riley Gordon, President of the New York Society of Architects; William P. Bannister of the Brooklyn Chapter of the American Institute of Architects; Allen E. Beals, W. G. Luce of the Hegeman-Harris Company, who represented the point of view of the general contractors and Louis Comstock, representing the point of view of the subcontractors.

Robert Glenn of Todd, Irons & Robertson, Superintendent in charge of the construction of the Cunard Building, said that much of the present difficulty in building operations was caused by lack of foresight on the part of the contractors in planning the work properly, and to the failure on the part of the "boss" to get into personal touch with the foreman and workers. He declared that the employer, just as much as the worker, needed to get back on the job.

Travis Gets More Time to Pay.

Chief Justice Kernochan of Special Sessions, yesterday granted another week to Eugene M. Travis, State Controller, in which to pay the $250 fine imposed for contempt of court. The delay was granted at the request of George Z. Medalie, Mr. Travis's counsel, who pleaded pressure of business because of the resignation from his firm of Isidor Wasservogel, who was elected Justice of the Supreme Court.

GERMANY PILING UP BIG FOREIGN ORDERS

By GEORGE RENWICK.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Nov. 11.—Since the end of the German business year of 1919-20 there has been a slump in trade and industry. In some quarters it is thought that the worst point has been passed, and the figures of unemployment tend to confirm this view.

Thirty-five trade unions, with nearly 5,500,000 members, reported last month that their unemployment rate was 4.4 per cent., while the month before the figure was 5.9.

Numerous companies continue to give evidence of their faith in the future by deciding on increases of capital. In the first week in November ninety-eight companies announced such a decision, involving sums almost equal to the amount subscribed by the public during October—between 600,000,000 and 700,000,000 marks.

The Frankfort Fair Gazette today gives particulars of inquiries from English firms for an enormous variety of German goods. One Edinburgh firm wishes to buy its pre-war supply of German bonbons, and a London firm wants large supplies of hardware, shirts, perfumes, penknives, gold thread and soap for the Straits Settlements market. Italian firms inquire about automobiles, and French firms ask for sewing machines and electrical apparatus.

The Gazette mentions the German General Electricity Company, which has English orders to the value of £200,000. The Hansa Lloyd Works in Bremen, too, have important foreign orders at good prices, and, most important of all, it declares, "the German iron industry is opening up business abroad. Several Dutch oil concerns are placing very large orders for pipe, as, for example, the Batavian Petroleum Company of The Hague, which has already given orders to Germany to the value of 40,000,000 marks."

The same article expresses pleasure at the prospect of big orders for German dyes from England. These are offered at prices 75 per cent. below the offers of English makers.

But the Gazette bemoans the fall in the market due to the need for increased imports and the decrease in exports occasioned by the lack of raw material, and it says the coal industry and trade in general are further hampered by the very considerable monthly allocations for reparations under the Treaty of Versailles. This means, it says, a terrible burden on the finances of the country and "a gigantic surrender of foreign investments." It insists on the great need of foreign credits and points out that "the strong will to work is again everywhere strongly in evidence in Germany."

PLAN TO RAISE BIG FUND FOR HOSPITALS

The Trustees of the United Hospital Fund entertained 300 volunteer workers for the fund at a dinner last night in the Waldorf-Astoria, when final plans were made for the forty-first annual collection for the free treatment of the sick poor of New York City. The workers represented the fifty-seven hospitals associated in the fund. The amount to be raised this year to care for those who are unable to pay for hospital treatment is $1,500,000, which is to be collected in a drive beginning Nov. 15.

The Rev. Nehemiah Boynton, pastor of the Clinton Avenue Congregational Church, Brooklyn, spoke of the generosity of citizens of New York, which proved, he said, that New York was not the modern Babylon if was often called, but approached closely the "city beautiful."

Charles E. Mitchell, President of the National City Company, urged the workers to carry on the campaign vigorously. Charles W. McGarrah, President of the Mechanics and Metals Bank, said that out of the more than 6,000,000 population of New York City most of the United Hospital Fund had been contributed heretofore by 9,000 persons. Health Commissioner Royal S. Copeland discussed the danger to New York of diseases now widely prevalent in Europe, and said there would be greater need for hospitals here this Winter than ever before. Robert Olyphant, President of the United Hospital Fund, acted as toastmaster.

The United Hospital Fund is dependent upon free will offerings collected by churches, synagogues, trade bodies, benevolent and fraternal societies and private persons. The distribution of the fund is handled by a standing committee, including the Mayor, the President of the Chamber of Commerce, the President of the Merchants' Association, Otto T. Barnard, Cornelius N. Bliss Jr., Arthur Curtiss James and James Speyer.

der, crime and violence, says an official announcement issued today, the Government will be compelled to further restrict their use beginning early in December.

Existing owners' permits after that time will be valid only between the hours of 6 A. M. and 8 P. M., except in Dublin and Belfast, and only within a radius of twenty miles from an owner's residence.

Warning is given to all owners that they will be held responsible for the safe custody of their cars, which, if used illegally, even though taken by intimidation, will make the owners liable to penalties and confiscation. The announcement adds that all permits will expire on Jan. 15, and will be carefully scrutinized before renewal.

DUBLIN, Nov. 12.—For the second time within a week the Iveagh Trust Building, a large tenement in a poor district, was raided today and three arrests were made, John Robert Collins, corporation employe; Henry Roch, employe of Pim Brothers; Frank Griffith, employe of the Iveagh Trust, being taken.

A feature of the visit was the searching of women residents by female searchers. A large number of the girls who live in the building are employed at the Jacobs biscuit factory. They were taken in turn and searched by women.

Frank Griffith, who was arrested, is a brother of Arthur Griffith, President of the Sinn Fein.

A Ballina message states that D. Crowley, a lawyer, has been arrested at the Moy Hotel there. He is described as "Circuit Judge of the Dail Eireann." He had arranged for a number of sittings during the week. Dublin Castle confirms the report of the arrest, but gives no further information.

Ambush British Journalists.

An official telegram received at Dublin Castle tonight from Castle Island, County Kerry, reads:

"A party of English pressmen, traveling under a police escort, was ambushed while motoring between Castle Island and Tralee by about seventy armed men. The police escort engaged the attackers resolutely and succeeded not only in defending their charge, but in capturing seven of the attackers and their motor van. Two attackers are reported to have been killed and several wounded. The press party and escort escaped injury."

Of the journalists, only one, it is learned, was a correspondent and he represented a leading Unionist daily. The others were photographers.

Mrs. MacSwiney to Testify.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The committee of one hundred investigating the Irish question announced today that it had accepted the offer of Mrs. Muriel MacSwiney, widow of the late Lord Mayor of Cork, to come to the United States to testify in the hearings which the committee plans to begin on Nov. 17.

Mrs. MacSwiney, the committee said, had been asked to reach the United States if possible not later than Dec. 6.

EMPOWERS MILITARY TO RUN IRISH RAILWAYS

Order in Council Provides for Control or Complete Taking Over of the Roads.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—Strong measures to cope with the refusal of the Irish railwaymen to convey troops and munitions are to be taken under an Order in Council, issued tonight. By the terms of the order the competent naval or military authority is empowered not only to restrict and prohibit traffic, but to take possession of any railway.

The Daily Chronicle's political correspondent understands that the Government, while regretting the necessity, feels that there is no alternative but to take steps for military control of the Irish railways. In some of the districts of the South of Ireland a great number of railwaymen have refused to carry soldiers, police and munitions. There is no trouble on railways in the north. The deadlock on some of the railways in the south has resulted in serious consequences not only in regard to the distribution of essentials, but also in the cessation of the mail service. One of the results of the stoppage has been the cessation of payment of pensions.

There are now not sufficient staffs of drivers, guards and other personnel to carry on some of the lines. There have been a great many dismissals of railwaymen in consequence of their refusal to carry out their work, either because they were Sinn Feiners or through fear of the Sinn Fein.

Under the new arrangement it is hoped the missing links in railway communication will be filled in. The Government is acting under the Restoration of Order in Ireland act, which was passed in August, and2 gives it power to take over any of the services and control them.

DUBLIN, Nov. 12.—As a result of the curtailment of railroad services the food problem here is already exciting uneasiness, one of the effects of the trouble being the cutting off of supplies of bacon from Limerick and Tralee.

A conference was held today in the City Hall of representatives from borough, county and urban councils for the purpose of considering the question, and a deputation was appointed to wait on the Directors of the railways.

HOW ALLIES CHOSE A GENERALISSIMO

FOCH SWAYED THE COUNCIL

Haig Proposed Supreme Command, Clemenceau Backed Him and the Decision Was Taken.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 12.—The full story of the historic meeting at Doullens on March 26, 1918, where Foch was chosen Generalissimo, will appear in tomorrow's Matin over the signature of Stephane Lauzanne.

"Sunday, March 23," says M. Lauzanne, "M. Clemenceau went toward evening to see M. Poincaré at the Elysée. It was the fourth day of the great German drive. The Premier said bluntly to the President of the Republic:

"'I am just back from Compiègne. I have seen Pétain. I do not know whether we shall not have to consider the evacuation of Paris.'

"M. Poincaré jumped.

"'There can't be any question of that,' he cried.

"'I am going back tonight to Compiègne,' replied Clemenceau. 'I will see Pétain again and telephone you later.'

"About 11 the Premier called the President on the telephone and said:

"'I have seen Pétain again. He maintains his opinions.'

"'Very well,' said the President, sharply, 'we will talk about that some more.'

"That night the President wrote a letter to the chief of the Government to convey his formal opposition to the evacuation of Paris. He begged him at least to summon the Cabinet before making his final decision.

"The Cabinet met the following morning. M. Clemenceau explained the situation, adding:

"'We are going to have tomorrow an interview with the representatives of the English Government at Doullens. I suggest that the President of the Republic accompany me. He will be able to judge of the situation for himself.'

Poincare's Trip to Doullens.

"It was so decided. Wednesday, March 26, M. Poincaré went to Doullens by auto. When he arrived he was informed that Field Marshal Haig was holding a conference in the Town Hall with his army commanders, and that perhaps it would be better not to interrupt him. While waiting, the French party, Poincaré, Clemenceau and Loucheur, walked up and down the little square before the Town Hall. There was also a General in a slate-gray uniform, carrying a heavy polu stick. It was Foch. No one seemed to know who had told him to be there, but there he was. Directly he saw the President of the Republic he came up to him, took him aside and said to him:

"'Do you know, M. le President, the orders that have been given?'

"The President did not, in fact, know these orders. They were grave enough. They included the almost total retirement of the army and involved the evacuation of Paris within a brief period. They seemed to produce an extraordinary effect on Foch. In curt, nervous, jerky phrases he repeated:

Foch's Plan to "Stop the Boche."

"'Paris—Paris isn't concerned at all. Paris is a long way off. It's right where they are that they must stop the Boche. You always stop him—the Boche—all that's needed is to give the order. Haig and Pétain were in the position of two men holding shut a double door, each maintaining his half. Now that door has been forced open, and there they are—both of them—each behind his half of it, watching the enemy plunge through and not knowing how to shut the door, nor who should start doing it first.'

"'But how would you stop the Germans?' asked Loucheur, who had joined them.

"'Humph!' replied Foch 'You know my system. I stick a bit of plaster here, then another there, then another there. The Boche doesn't advance so fast—hardly advances at all. I stick another bit there, and the Boche is stopped. You can always stop the Boche.'

"Suddenly on the steps of the Town Hall Field Marshal Haig and Lord Milner appeared. The English conference was over, and the Anglo-French conference was about to begin. Every one hurried to the Mairie, and the meeting was held in a great bare room around a narrow table. Poincaré sat in the middle, with Milner on his right and Clemenceau on his left. A little farther away Haig and two French Generals sat together. Loucheur at the end of the table did the work of secretary.

"Every one at that solemn hour showed his characteristic traits. Poincaré was calm, Clemenceau caustic, Lord Milner phlegmatic, Foch nervous, Pétain impenetrable. Haig had the drawn and worried face of a man who had not slept for three nights.

"Poincaré opened the meeting. With the lucidity of statement which never abandons him, even in the most trying moments, he explained the situation, and he added that for him the only thing to do was to stop the Boches where they were, and nowhere else. Field Marshal Haig said he would do his utmost to defend Amiens.

"At once Foch sprang to his feet.

"'No! No! Marshal!' he cried. 'It is not a matter of defending Amiens. We must win in front of Amiens! We must have victory where we are!'

"In a few trenchant, clear-cut phrases he repeated the ideas he had been chewing over for twenty-four hours. It would have been better, he said, to stop the Boches on the Somme, but now there was no choice. They must be stopped where they were; they must be stopped at once, and the order to do it must be given at once.

"Lord Milner arose and made a sign to Clemenceau. There was a whispered dialogue between them. Milner was heard to say: 'There's the man!'

Haig Proposes a Generalissimo.

"Haig then arose and joined them. His part in the whole affair was always noble and fine. From the first day of battle he had seen the truth, that there was no union, and often no cohesion, between the two allied armies. If that went on there would be a débacle. There was only one remedy: to put over both himself and Pétain a chief to whom they would both be subordinate. He said he was ready to put himself under the orders of Foch. Forty-eight hours before, on March 24, he had telegraphed to his Government asking that some Minister should be sent to treat with the French Government for the nomination of General Foch as Commander-in-Chief of the allied armies.

"Clemenceau came back to the table where the others were still sitting and in a loud voice asked Pétain to do as Haig had done and put himself under the orders of Foch.

"Then Loucheur took a sheet of paper and on the spot drew out a declaratoin which was later published, stating that 'General Foch had accepted the task of co-ordinating the work of the two armies.'

"Clemenceau read it and said: 'As you are such a good writer, M. Loucheur, write another copy, and we will sign it at once.'

"That was done, and the decision by which a single chief was put at the head of the two armies was signed in pencil on a simple sheet of note paper."

POGROM RINGLEADERS ARRESTED IN BUDAPEST

Troops Seize 26 Officers and Many Civilians, Killing Several in Raids.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Nov. 11.—The Hungarian Government has been moved to energetic action against the terrorist officers in Budapest, owing to the alarm caused by the murder of a policeman in the street on Tuesday night.

The policeman was going his rounds, when he heard cries of "Leave me alone! I'm a good Christian! I'm a good Hungarian!" Rushing to the spot, the policeman found a group of officers in uniforms unmercifully thrashing a man who lay on the ground. The policeman was pushed aside, and, as he turned to draw his sword, one of the gang shot him, while the others clubbed him to death with their revolvers.

These assassins are believed to belong to an association which organizes anti-Semitic excesses and political murders of Socialists and Liberals.

At midnight last night a body of troops, fully armed and wearing steel helmets, as well as a corps of officers of the National Army, surrounded the Hotel Britannia in Budapest, where it was known that many terrorists lived, and made a search. Forty persons were arrested or detained, including three officers who were eyewitnesses of the murder and are declared to have been the most active participators in the crime. Among those arrested twenty-six are known as officers belonging to a reactionary terrorist organization—one of them the notorious Lieutenant Hejjas, known as one of the mots prominent of the Jew-baiters.

But the action of the Government has gone beyond the immediate murder and its perpetrators. Similar action to that at the Hotel Britannia has been taken in several other quarters of the city, and in the immediate neighborhood of the camp where armed detachments of the terrorists lay it came to an open fight between the National Army and these reactionaries, all members of the group called "Awakened Hungary," which is causing the Government so much trouble in connection with the ratification of the Peace Treaty. One detachment refused to lay down its arms, and before it was overpowered four men were killed and seven wounded.

Great excitement has been caused by the murders and by the resistance to the forces of the Government, and the whole matter is being debated in Parliament. Several Ministers have threatened to resign if the inquiry is not pushed to the full extent, and merited punishment inflicted. It is expected that all public meetings throughout Hungary will be prohibited pending the inquiry.

TALKS OF NEW WAR OVER UPPER SILESIA

Polish Party Organ Says Conflict Would Follow if Germany Won Plebiscite.

WARSAW, Nov. 10.—The declaration that war between Germany and Poland would be inevitable if the plebiscite to be held in Upper Silesia gave that region to Germany is made today in the Gazette Poranna in discussing the plebiscite. The newspaper is the organ of the National Democrats, whose leader is John Dombski, Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs. The Gazette Poranna predicts that another World War would result, with France and Belgium joining Poland and Great Britain siding with Germany. It adds: "If England should enter this war it would mean, perhaps, the end of British world power."

The newspaper contends that Great Britain has shown certain leanings toward Germany in Silesian affairs and warns Britain to keep her hands off.

EXPELLED BOY GETS $10,000

Jury Finds for Student in Damage Suit Against Peekskill School.

A jury before Justice Nichols in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, yesterday returned a verdict for $10,000 in favor of Melville F. Taylor, 19 years old, of 184 Hawthorne street, in his suit for damages against Dr. Charles A. Robinson and John C. Bucher, who conduct the Peekskill Military Academy at Peekskill, N. Y., for "unjustly suspending him indefinitely" as a student at the school.

In 1919, Taylor and fifteen other students were suspended for an alleged violation of the academy rules. All but Taylor were reinstated after a few days.

press these questions any further?"

"I have no objection," said Mr. Meehan. "I'd just as leave answer all such questions that I can."

The Morse interests were brought into the testimony by Chairman Walsh, who asked the witness whether he knew of any confessions by employes or officials of the Shipping Board or of contracting firms. Mr. Meehan knew of about twenty-five and mentioned the case of Philip Rinehardt.

This confession was turned over to the Federal Attorney, said Mr. Meehan, but he did not know what disposition had been made of the case. It was also brought to the attention of the committee in executive session in Washington.

The witness also mentioned the case of the United States vs. Spurries & Brown at Baltimore. Spurries was a former resident auditor of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, at a warehouse in Baltimore, and Brown was a checker or timekeeper. They were prosecuted and convicted of padding office payrolls.

A question from Chairman Walsh brought out the fact that in many cases controllers and auditors were not required to furnish bond. Frequently they handled large sums, and sometimes they did this very loosely. The witness cited a case where an auditor at Bath, Me., had handled Government money in his own name and had embezzled several thousand dollars.

"In what manner?" asked Chairman Walsh.

"I can't recall," replied the witness. "But he mixed Emergency Fleet Corporation money with private accounts. We instituted criminal proceedings, but the Mayor of the town and other prominent citizens interceded and he got out. He was never prosecuted, and eventually he disappeared, forfeiting $3,000 bail."

Ex-Convict Enters Records.

Then the ex-convict entered the records of the investigating committee. He was E. S. Kiger, who had been employed by the Shipping Board shortly after being paroled from the penitentiary in Michigan, and during his connection with the board "had proved to be a good employe," who "demonstrated no little executive ability." But the Shipping Board learned of his criminal record, and he was discharged as chief traffic engineer.

In July, 1919, the board sought to dispose of 130,000,000 feet of surplus lumber, and among the bids received was one from a Chicago firm. Apparently it was for $3,900,000, and it was accompanied by a certified check.

Meanwhile the Department of Investigation found evidence of the ex-convict's connection with a subsidiary of the Chicago bidder. Through the use of dictagraphs it was learned that Kiger was in communication with J. K. Faircett, head of the lumber department. Subsequently the Department of Investigation found that the bid was misleading and that the certified check was but a disguise to conceal what was afterward found to be an actual bid of only $2,400,000. Then the investigators learned that Kiger was planning the deal.

The witness said Kiger was arrested by Post Office inspectors in New York the same day that Meehan came here to arrest him. He did not disclose what action had been taken against Fawcett, but he had learned that the latter finally procured a position as salesman of "sanctuary oil."

Get Salary for Doing Nothing.

In the course of his testimony Mr. Meehan read an affidavit in which it appeared that one Edward McCann was offered a position at $6,000 a year with the Division of Operations in New York. McCann was given to understand that no services would be required of him. This case was investigated jointly by the Department of Investigation and the Army Intelligence Department in connection with a lifeboat contract. Mr. Meehan said his department had been informed by Brigadier General Churchill, Director of the Military Intelligence, that the boat builder was purchasing lifeboats from the salvage division of the navy for $10 each and selling them to the Shipping Board for $110. The witness produced what he thought was a copy of a letter from Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to President Wilson, expressing the hope that Captain Yates of the New York operations office of the Shipping Board would give favorable attention to McCann's application.

Mr. Meehan also said that a brother of Governor Edwards of New Jersey was dismissed from a position in which no service was required.

Mr. Meehan was asked what he knew of exorbitant prices having been charged the Shipping Board for supplies, and he mentioned a case in Boston. He said his department had received numerous reports of a vessel that had been purchased by a "Mr. Crowley" from the Commonwealth of Massachusetts for a small sum, and sold to the Shipping Board at a large profit. Investigators were directed to look into this transaction, but according to the witness, the Flittner-Atwood Company, which sold the vessel to the Government, refused to show its books. The investigator evidently used no diplomacy, for Mr. Meehan testified that subsequently he was asked by Commissioner Stevens of the Shipping Board for an explanation of this investigation. Inquiries about the investigator were received from other officials and finally from a Congressman from Boston.

"His name wasn't Walsh?" inquired the Chairman.

The witness finally recalled that it was Congressman Teague.

The case was handled by the Department of Justice, which found insufficient evidence on which to prosecute.

Petty Graft Hard to Eradicate.

The practice of captains, stewards and other officers of vessels in accepting gratuities from contractors had proved to be one of the most difficult evils to eradicate, the witness testified. He said that at Wilmington, Norfolk, Charleston and Jacksonville the conditions were exceedingly bad, and that nearly every company doing business with the Shipping Board was involved.

Asked if any funds were recovered or refunds made, the witness cited the case of Richardson Brothers, ship chandlers at Charleston. A member of that concern admitted the Shipping Board had been overcharged, and the company agreed to an audit of its books on which to base a refund. There also was the case of T. C. Hurst & Sons of Norfolk, Va. An investigation by Special Agent Morton showed the company had paid out commissions of approximately $75,000, and had charged the Shipping Board for it by entering items such as entertainment and commissions. The witness did not know of any refunds, but the board had put an embargo on acceptances from the two firms. The witness described the captains and stewards as "petty grafters."

Mr. Meehan said his investigation of officials of the Shipping Board had included both low and high. Among those he has investigated he named D. T. Williams, formerly District Manager at Jacksonville, now at New Orleans. His case has not been disposed of, although Mr. Meehan said he has recommended dismissal.

"What caused you to recommend his dismissal?" he was asked.

"Well, a great many things occurred in Williams's administration at Jacksonville and New Orleans that convinced me and other people who knew the facts that he he was not a fit man."

He then went into details of the case of the wooden ship Lone Star, which was held for repairs at Jacksonville until the repair bills ran up to more than $200,000.

"That ship is still there, and it couldn't be sold for $70,000," said the witness.

Letter From J. F. Logan.

New York, Nov. 11, 1920.

The Hon. Joseph Walsh, Chairman of Committee Investigating United States Shipping Board Activities, Federal Building, New York City, N. Y.:

My Dear Sir: From the daily press I notice that one witness before your committee has taken occasion to make statements with reference to the American Shipping Corporation, of which I am the President, which, if correctly quoted, are at least misleading if not quite untrue.

If it is the desire of your committee to secure accurate first-hand information as to how we received the ships we are operating from the United States Shipping Board, or any other of our dealings with the board, I will be in the city until Saturday afternoon and will gladly go before your committee and testify fully.

For your information, would say that this business was organized by the writer as a partnership in 11905, under the firm name of J. J. Logan & Co., and the partnership was incorporated since the war, but the writer has been at the head of it continuously since its organization.

Should your committee desire information as to our financial responsibility and reliability, we would respectfully refer to the National City Bank of this city, or to the Florida National Bank of Jacksonville, Fla. With the latter bank we have done business continuously since the business was organized in 1906.

You can reach me during business hours Thursday, Friday and Saturday by telephoning Bowling Green 8210, and before or after business hours at the Pennsylvania Hotel.

Very truly yours,
(Signed) J. J. LOGAN.

The hearing will be continued this morning at 9:30 o'clock at the Federal Building. Chairman Walsh announced there would be no hearing in the afternoon.

ADRIATIC TREATY SIGNED AT RAPALLO

President Wilson Informed of the Settlement, but Has Made No Comment.

DETAILS OF NEW FRONTIER

Commercial Treaty Between Italy and Jugoslavia Also Is Being Negotiated.

SANTA MARGHERITA, Italy, Nov. 12.—The treaty between Italy and Jugoslavia was signed this evening at Rapallo.

The preamble of the treaty reads:

"The Kingdoms of Italy and of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes and sincerely desirous to establish cordial relations between the two countries for their common weal. Italy recognizes the constitution of the neighboring State as the realization of one of her highest aims."

The diplomats of both countries expressed great satisfaction over the treaty.

Six-Mile Hinterland for Zara.

RAPALLO, Nov. 12 (Associated Press).—In addition to clauses concerning the Istrian frontier and the independence of the State of Fiume with territorial contiguity with Italy, the treaty signed tonight between Italy and Jugoslavia shows that the Jugoslavs consented to the Italian request that Zara be under Italian sovereignty with a hinterland covering a radius of more than six miles. Italy, in exchange, gave up her claim to the Adriatic islands, except Cherso, Lussin and Lagosta, which, by the terms of the treaty, will be annexed to Italy.

When the Italian and Jugoslav delegations appeared at the gate of the Villa Spinola, where the protocol was signed, the crowd shouted "Viva Peace!" while many photographers pointed their cameras at them.

All the delegates appeared to be satisfied with the work accomplished and answered agreeably to congratulations addressed to them. The Italian people expressed appreciation that Premier Vesnith, Foreign Minister Trumbitch and others of the Serbian delegates addressed them in perfect Italian.

The proctol states that the Italian version will be considered as the official one in case of divergencies of opinion with regard to interpretation.

As about 500,000 Jugoslavs will be embraced within the new Italian frontiers by the agreement, Italy is planning to have two Slav universities at Padua and Rome to facilitate their studies.

"We won today another great battle by concluding a generous peace with Serbia," said Count Sforza, the Italian Foreign Minister, after the meeting was concluded. "As Bismarck was generous toward Austria after the war in 1866 and was amply repaid, so now Italy, sacrificing her dearest aspirations in Dalmatia, hopes to find compensation in closer friendship and advantageous economic relations with her eastern neighbor. As for the Istrian frontier along the Julian Alps, Italy now possesses a larger, safer and more organized frontier than it had at the time of the Roman Empire."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Such details of the Adriatic settlement between Italy and Jugoslavia as have been received by the State Department have been transmitted to President Wilson, it was stated today at the Department. The President will decide whether the agreement meets with the approval of the Government, but whether he will make formal expression of his views has not been indicated.

Secretary Colby would not discuss the agreement today further than to say that it had "all the majesty of an agreement between the two principals."

Besides the information contained in a telegram from the Italian Government to its embassy here, the Department has received the formal statement "on the subject of the disposal of Fiume" made by Secretary General Contarini, of Italy, yesterday. As made public by the Department it follows:

"With the exception of Zara and Cherso, which go to Italy, Jugoslavia obtains Dalmatia including Sebenico. The new frontier assigns Idria, Adelsburg and San Pietro to Italy and runs through Monte Nevoso, to the Adriatic, which it touches between Volosco and Castua—the latter being given to Fiume. The Istrian line of frontier is to be contiguous with the independent State of Fiume. The railway from Fiume to San Pietro is assigned to Italy. The country south of Monte Nevoso is divided between Jugoslavia and Fiume, on a basis whereby the higher altitudes go to Jugoslavia and the lower altitudes to Fiume. Jugoslavia also will get Longatigo and the adjacent valley.

"A commercial treaty also is being negotiated at Rapallo."

AGREEMENT PLEASES VATICAN.

Idea Nazionale, However, Attacks the Terms Bitterly.

ROME, Nov. 12.—Satisfaction was expressed at the Vatican today over the settlement, in a manner satisfactory to both parties, of the Adriatic question. It was said the Vatican always had desired the question solved in a way to insure a lasting peace.

The Vatican, it was asserted, would be able now to settle the ecclesiastical districts in accordance with the new boundaries. The clergy of Fiume is under an apostolic administrator who receives orders direct from the Holy See.

An article violently attacking the agreement is published by the Idea Nazionale. The newspaper says the settlement is due to the "rancor of a vanquished enemy and the disloyalty of the Allies."

ROME, Nov. 11.—Fears of a possible coup d'état by d'Annunzio, which have often been expressed in the last few weeks, seem to have little justification in view of the conclusion of the Italo-Jugoslav agreement giving Fiume the independent status for which he has contended.

Many Italians believe, however, that the poet will not be content to retire from public life after his experience as autocrat of Fiume. If he should carry out the threat he once made to occupy towns along the Dalmatian coast, he could cause serious trouble, for Italy would be obliged to enforce upon him the observance of her treaty engagements with Jugoslavia.

It is rumored that the Government will have some difficulty in withdrawing the Italian sailors who now occupy Spalato and Sebenico.

BERLIN, Nov. 11.—Berlin has had an uneasy week. Although the strike at the Municipal Electric Works was declared off this evening, the attitude of a fairly large number of the unemployed is causing some anxiety. In bands they have raided some factories, providing what Vorwärts calls "a grotesque parody of the action of the Italian workers." Such crassly stupid doings, mainly by young irresponsibles, have created anew some fear of a Communist revolt in the Winter months. It is said that the Communist leaders believe that the still soaring prices of foodstuffs will bring them an increasing number of recruits.

On the other hand, the Socialist papers are insisting again today on the evidence of a coming coup from the Right. The Freiheit tonight publishes correspondence said to emanate from Pan German circles, regarding the distribution of arms in various parts of the country, and it stoutly affirms the accuracy of its reports that reactionary danger threatens from Bavaria.

The report published here today that Dr. Benes, the Czechoslovak Minister of Foreign Affairs, has stated that a coup from the Right is imminent in Germany causes some comment. It is thought that his prediction is mainly due to reports of recent Pan German speeches and to the reactionary doings in Bavaria; but it may be that agents are busy drawing up their plans in comparative safety in Czechoslovakia. The notorious Trebitsch-Lincoln is at present in Prague. He left Hungary after some unpleasant experiences, it is reported, at the hands of people hostile to him. From Prague he has been in communication with Berlin, even by telephone, and has warned a number of people that something was going to happen.

BERLIN, Nov. 10.—An exceptionally clever rogue who outbid an American syndicate for possession of Altheide Village, a health resort famous for its waters, fourteen miles from Glatz, is wanted badly by the police. He offered to pay 13,000,000 marks, nominally $3,250,000, for Altheide, though he seems not to have owned a cent. But this is only one of many mythical real estate deals in which he indulged.

Some time ago there settled in Goerlitz, about 60 miles east of Dresden, a stylish looking personage who rented a spacious villa and furnished it with luxurious hired furniture. He gave himself out at first as Dr. Kornfield, but later hinted to intimates that that was not his real name, which was Count Sternberg. He was, he said, an Austrian subject. In company it was noticed he would often take a photograph from his pocket book, kiss it, murmur "mother," and put it out of sight again. The photograph was one of the late Empress Elizabeth of Austria, and to the simpler of his friends he vouchsafed in confidence that he was a son of the Austrian Royal House and a brother of Crown Prince Rudolph, who was not really dead but living in voluntary exile. He was, he said, executor of the Crown Prince and their joint fortunes, still controlled by trustees, were enormous. He asserted his own fortune amounted to 100,000,000 marks, and when his naturalization as a German citizen was completed he would come into full use of it. He had voluminous documents to back up his assertions.

Then he began to "buy" property on a vast scale, though it was always his incomplete naturalization which he advanced as the reason for being able to make only a small preliminary deposit. Thus immediately he entered into possession of four estates in the neighborhood and other property. Meanwhile in a magnificent motor car he went about the country. In Berlin he inhabited a big villa, and members of Parliament took great interest in him, thinking they were serving their country in helping such a wealthy Austrian to become a German citizen.

Quite recently the Berlin police began to make inquiries about a man named Rudolph Kornefeld, a bookkeeper, who had been in prison for fraud, and against whom another charge had been preferred. The Count was really this jailbird bookkeeper, and with the police on his trail he thought it well to disappear.

HOLD BRITISH OFFICER ON SEDITION CHARGE

Lieut. Col. Malone Is Charged with Preaching Bolshevism and Murder—Gives £2,000 Bail.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—Lieut. Col. Cecil Malone, M. P., arrested in Dublin a few days ago, was charged today at Bow Street Police Court with making a seditious speech at Albert Hall last Sunday. Shorthand notes had been taken by a policeman, and the Public Prosecutor read extracts in which he contended that Malone had incited to murder. In part they were: "We are out to change the present Constitution, and if it is necessary to have bloodshed we shall have to use the lamp posts or the walls. What, my friends, are a few Churchills or Curzons on lamp posts compared to the massacre of thousands of human beings? What are a few Churchills or Curzons against a wall compared to the bombing of harmless Egyptians, compared with reprisals in Ireland?"

This, said counsel, led to cries from the ignorant audience of "Hang them!" "Burn them!" "Shoot them!" Counsel also drew attention to the difference between the position of Malone as a Member of Parliament and that of the mere street-corner orator. He also emphasized the fact that defendant's careful notes of the most violent parts of his address had been found, so that it could not be contended he did not use words advisedly and intentionally.

Malone was remanded for a week in £2,000 bail, on condition that he would not make similar speeches in the meantime. He can, however, say what he likes in the House of Commons.

AUSTRIA REQUESTS LEAGUE ADMISSION

business for the assembly have thrown the question of admission of new members toward the very end, and unless the program is again revised the elections will not occur before the last few days of the meeting, or about three weeks hence.

The countries whose admission will be voted on, besides Austria and Bulgaria, are the new states of Esthonia, Finland, Georgia, Latvia and Ukraine, and Iceland, Monaco, San Marino, Liechtenstein, Luxemburg and Costa Rica.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 12.—"The French Government has instructed the French delegates to withdraw from the League of Nations meeting at Geneva if the French veto is disregarded," says Pertinax in the Echo de Paris today. The veto concerns Germany's admission to the League, but it is not entirely clear whether Pertinax means a veto against Germany's admission or a veto against a request for Germany's admission. He prefaces the statement quoted above as follows:

"The Government of London has formally promised not to support a withdrawal of the ban on Germany. Perhaps this decision is the cause of the disagreement between Lloyd George and Robert Cecil if a disagreement exists as has been stated in London."

There has been and still is a good deal of talk here about the possibility of some former neutral State asking that Germany be admitted to the League. Even without England the proposal if raised would probably command an affirmative majority. If Pertinax is correct it follows that in that event France will take her place with America outside the League.

France Would Bar Germany.

PARIS, Nov. 12 (Associated Press).—The French Government is unalterably opposed to the admission of Germany to the League of Nations at this time, it was stated at the Foreign Office today. Some "drastic action" would be a consequence if the League voted to admit Germany, it was intimated.

The Foreign Office said there had been conversations with Great Britain on the subject, and that the British, who had been inclined to favor German membership in the League, had now accepted the French viewpoint, allowing the matter to rest for the present.

Inasmuch as Germany has not applied for League membership, it is considered unlikely that there will be any effort with promise of success to get the Assembly in Geneva to act favorably on the question of Germany's admission at this time.

The French hold that Germany must prove her intention to fulfill the terms of the peace treaty and live peaceably with her neighbors before seeking membership, and they contend there has not yet been time for them to become convinced regarding Germany's attitude along these lines.

The possibility of the admission of Austria, Hungary and Bulgaria is regarded in a different light by the French, who have indicated they are not opposed to membership for these nations, as it is considered they have shown good faith.

Leon Bourgeois, President of the Council of the League of Nations, former Premier Réné Viviani and former Minister of Foreign Affairs Gabriel Hanotaux will leave Paris for Geneva tomorrow to represent France at the Assembly of the League Nov. 15. They will be assisted by Deputy Jean Hennessy, M. Fromageot, counsellor to the Foreign Ministry, and Louis Aubert, a former member of the French mission to the United States, which was headed by Captain André Tardieu.

Japanese Proposals.

TOKIO, Nov. 12 (Associated Press)—Japanese delegates now in Geneva to attend the meeting of the Assembly of the League of Nations have received cabled instructions giving them wide discretion regarding race equality proposals, says the Asahi Shimbun of Osaka. The opinion of the Cabinet is said to be divided between the conviction that the present time is inopportune for such proposals, and the fear that objecting nations might take political advantage of the situation.

Three proposals have been drafted by the Japanese delegates. One is designed to secure assurances from the League against discrimination respecting tariffs and raw materials. The proposals will probably be presented if prospects are deemed favorable.

LABOR CLUES FADE IN WALL ST. BLAST

OTHERS TALKED TO DRIVER

Secretary of Volk Company Positive That Man He Saw Drove the Wagon Carrying Explosive.

Raymond Clark, the foreman on the wrecking job at Broad and Wall Streets, who had been presented as the mainstay of the theory that the Wall Street bomb was an incident in a labor war, made denials yesterday which took most of the plausibility away from the labor-war hypothesis.

Clark had been represented as silenced by threats of death and later by revolver shots, after he had told of talking with a driver, who said that he had lost his horse in the explosion. The theory was that enemies of Robert P. Brindell had sent the bomb by a driver ignorant of the nature of his load and that they had undertaken to seal the lips of Clark to stop investigation of their part in the crime.

"There is no truth in the story that I was shot by any labor gang," he said yesterday. "I was shot by members of a Greenpoint gang. I know wha shot me.

"I did see the man who said he had lost his horse in the explosion. He did not say, however, that he had a load to deliver at the building at Broad and Wall that we were wrecking."

Credit for advancing the labor-war explanation of the explosion was claimed at the District Attorney's office by Albert A. Volk, the countractor who had the wrecking job at Broad and Wall. Concerning his former employer, Clark said:

"Volk did his best to work up this theory. He practically begged me to construe my shooting as an outgrowth of the labor trouble. The shooting, as a matter of fact, was absolutely apart from the labor trouble."

Calls Shooting "Private Matter."

Characterizing it as "a private matter," Clark refused to tell why the revolver attack had been made on him in Long Island City.

"Volk's whole object has been to get Brindell," continued Clark. "Brindell and Volk have had trouble for years. Brindell made him treat the members of the union properly. They have been enemies for a long time.

"Volk was not in a position to draw correct conclusions regarding the bomb, for he was not there until some time after the explosion."

Volk, who was questioned by District Attorney Swann and Chief Assistant Alfred J. Talley, said that he had no facts to support the theory that the interunion fight resulted in the bomb explosion, but that it seemed to him to be a likely theory.

"I have no definite knowledge or information as to the person or persons who caused or who were even implicated in the explosion," he said. "I don't know anything about any individuals or any association that caused it. I could not give you any lead whereby you could ascertain who committed that act."

After alleging that the exposition of the labor war theory in The Evening World had resulted from his suggestion, and telling of the fight between Brindell's union, Local No. 1486, and Zaranko's organization, Local No. 95, Mr. Volk said:

"My theory is based only on imagination and the facts that have already come to light, that some individual knew some one who understood the fabrication of a bomb.

"I think my theory," he added later, "is as good as any that has been advanced up to the present time."

Start of Labor War Theory.

Mr. Volk said that the idea that the cause of the explosion was to be found in the Brindell-Zaranko feud first came to him in a conversation with George Atwell, of the Northern Wrecking Company, who asked:

"Don't you think it is possible that one of those fellows might have been the cause of the accident?"

The contractor said that Clark had told him about the man speaking broken English, who wandered about after the explosion, exclaiming that his horse had been killed. He continued:

"Clark didn't say why he didn't detain the man. I think he said, 'I didn't know it had anything to do with the thing, or I would have held him.'

"His description of the man was not a very intelligent one. First, he thought he was a Hebrew. Then he thought he was a Pole, and then a farmer type. I couldn't get any idea of what his description was."

Abraham K. Fleshner, of 375 Clifton Place, secretary of the Volk concern, told of seeing the man, later represented to be the driver of the wagon containing the bomb, on the bridge over the sidewalk in front of the half-wrecked building.

"I told Clark to put him off," he continued. "Clark spoke up for the man. He said he was interested in something 'over there.' He had spoken to Clark and asked to be allowed to remain on the bridge.

"I can't give a very clear description of the man. He was about five feet six or eight inches in height, medium size. He wasn't very poorly dressed—ordinarily dressed. He seemed to be a rather flabby sort of an individual—not stocky and not thin; a swarthy type of a man. I couldn't say anything about his nationality. I heard him say a few words, but I didn't pay much attention to him or notice whether he spoke with an accent. He looked more like a foreigner than an American.

Believes He Was Missing Driver.

"I would hardly have classified him as a driver of a truck, judging by his dress and general appearance. He wasn't dressed in a driver's uniform, nor in clothes that a driver would generally wear, that is, very rough clothes. He probably was somewhere in the forties."

Fleshner was asked if he believed that this man was the driver of the wagon containing the Wall Street bomb.

"Yes, I do," he replied.

William F. Ashley, lawyer for Zaranko's organization, said at the District Attorney's office:

"The story is the greatest piece of imagination I ever saw. There is absolutely no truth in it. There is not one bit of evidence to show any connection between the bomb and a labor organization. I have no facts that would lead to the identification of any persons who have any knowledge or connection with the Wall Street explosion, and there is nothing I know of that could be presented to the Grand Jury in an investigation of the matter."

It was said at Police Headquarters and at the offices of the Department of Justice, in the Park Row Building, that nothing had been discovered to give any probability to the labor-war theory of the bomb.

FEAR AIRMEN DIED IN LAKE MICHIGAN

Three Naval Aviators, Missing Since Wednesday, Include Ensign Clarke of Brooklyn.

SEARCH IMPEDED BY GALE

Unless They Were Picked Up by an Ore Boat Without Wireless Officials Think Men Perished.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—All hope of finding alive the three naval aviators missing on Lake Michigan since Wednesday noon was abandoned tonight when searching parties, returning exhausted from another day's battle with the bitter cold winds and waves of the lake, reported that they had not found even a bit of wreckage of the flying boat in which the men left the Great Lakes Naval Training Station. Lieut. Com. Eugene E. Wilson, in charge of the aviation unit at Great Lakes, who has been the most hopeful of the searchers, admitted that he believes the men have perished.

"There is only one hope," he said, "and that is that the men may have been picked up by some passing ore boat, which is not equipped with wireless, and proceeded on its way. In that case we may not hear from them for a week. But if that were the case the crews which have been covering the lake certainly would have found a trace of the flying boat."

The gale continued too strong today to permit aviators to aid in the search, but every coast-guard crew along the lake shore was out, as well as fleets of fishing tugs from Milwaukee and other ports along the Wisconsin shore. Sub-Chaser 419, from Sault Ste. Marie, beat along the Michigan coast on the eastern shore of the lake all day, but was compelled to make port tonight with her decks covered with ice. She will leave again at daybreak.

The revenue cutter Tuscarora searched the western shore of the lake all day without success, and fishing tugs from Milwaukee and Manitowoc went as far as thirty miles from land without sighting any wreckage of the missing flying boat, the H. S. 2-L. If weather conditions permit, airplanes will make a careful reconnoissance tomorrow morning on both sides of the lake. The west shore will be searched by Ensigns J. C. Cline and John R. Dolenberg of Great Lakes. Cline will fly a plane of the scout type, and Dolenbuerg a Curtiss flying boat.

Commander Wilson was notified tonight that Lieutenant Leslie Walker, in charge of the aviation school at the Culver Military Academy, flew to Indianapolis today in a De Haviland plane and will set out tomorrow from Hammond, Ind., on a tour of the east coast.

A report received that the body of one man was washed ashore at Two Rivers, Wis., was denied by Mrs. Scaal, wife of the commander of the Coast Guard crew there, who has been in charge of the station during the absence of the crew, held at Sheboygan by the storm.

Regarding the fear that the men were not experienced enough to have been intrusted with such a mission, as expressed to a representative of THE NEW YORK TIMES in New York by the father of Ensign Edwin M. Clarke, the young Naval Reserve officer aboard the missing craft, Commander Wilson declared there was no more accomplished or careful pilot in the navy than Machinist Harry C. Barr, who flew the craft.

"Barr is the most conservative and conscientious flyer I know," said Commander Wilson. "He is 38 years old and has been in the navy twenty years. He has been connected with the flying game ever since the navy received its first plane. He was to have retired within a few weeks under the twenty-year retirement act. He often asked me what he should do in case he was compelled to land on the lake in rough weather, and I told him the first thing to do would be to cut loose the motor and lighten the craft as much as possible."

A brother of the chief printer, Frank J. Caesar, the third occupant of the lost plane, spent the day touring the Wisconsin shore in an automobile with Ship's Carpenter W. P. Sullivan, from Great Lakes. Thomas H. Clarke of this city, a brother of the missing ensign, kept in telephonic communication with Great Lakes all day and left tonight to aid in the search.

Young Clarke was a Lafayette Escadrille flyer during the war, and at its conclusion returned to Harvard, where he was a student. He recently went to Peoria with Paul Thomas, a schoolmate and resident of that city, and obtained employment as a foreign trade correspondent for the Hull Manufacturing Company in East Peoria. He obtained a two weeks' vacation to take the reserve officers' course at Great Lakes, and put in enough flying to receive his permit.

Thomas J. Clarke, father of Ensign Clarke, said last night at his home, 411 Sixth Street, Brooklyn, that another son, Thomas Howard Clarke, Chicago, had sent him several telegrams yesterday. The Great Lakes Naval Station also wired several times during the day. The father is an official in an automobile body building company in this city.

Sheffield Milk offers the most direct line to health and at the cheapest rates.

THIS accepted principle applies to your nutrition as truly as it does to geographical distances. Health, strength, physical resistance to disease depend chiefly on foods, on nutrition.

Certain food elements are needed for strength and body building.

The most direct route to perfect nutrition is MILK. There's no doubt of this. A thousand years of experience has demonstrated it. Milk is converted into energy so easily. It sweetens the tissues and makes the stomach's task so easy that it forgets to protest.

Acidity or hyper-acidity is one of the most pernicious enemies of modern man. The wonderful alkaline salts of milk provide a safe, sure and natural remedy.

A WORD ABOUT OUR VACUUM RECEPTACLE DEPARTMENT

We believe that we carry the most complete line of Vacuum receptacles in the city.

Featured in our display is a novelty—that of hand decoration—which will add to the attractiveness of any receptacle gift purchase, or which may be used on your own carafe or jug.

Decorations of hand-painted wreaths of flowers are on some of our colored carafes, while on others there are hunting scenes and landscapes. But if you wish to add the personal touch to your gift, we suggest the engraving of carefully designed monograms.

Vacuum sets consisting of a jug, glass and wicker tray are ornamental as well as useful in your library, den, boudoir or dining room. In fact, to most people they have become a necessity for keeping liquids or solids. Hot or Cold—an inestimable convenience.

WRANGEL FIGHTING IN LAST DEFENSES

Preparations to Evacuate the Population Reported—Leader's Position Is Critical.

ANXIETY OVER CAUCASUS

Soviet Admits Withdrawal Before Balakovitch's Forces on the Western Front.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—A Bolshevist army, supported by heavy artillery, has crossed the frozen Sivash (or Putrid) Sea, entered the Crimea and is violently attacking General Wrangel's last line of defense on the east, says a dispatch to The London Times from Constantinople.

The dispatch adds that the fate of the Crimea depends on the result of the fighting. The situation was regarded as most critical and preparations were being made to evacuate the population.

SEBASTOPOL, Nov. 10 (Associated Press).—General Baron Wrangel, head of the South Russian anti-Bolshevist Government, is withdrawing his forces in Northern Crimea toward the main defense line, which runs through the village of Jushun, about nineteen miles south of the town of Perekop. This operation is being carried on in the face of attacks in force by Soviet troops.

Consideration is being given to the removing of civilians from this city, and it is probable they will be sent away as soon as the situation is admitted to be critical.

PARIS, Nov. 12.—Reports to the French Foreign Office from the Crimea today indicate that General Wrangel, anti-Bolshevist leader in South Russia, has abandoned his entire first line of defense before Perekop, withdrawing to the second line, which, it is feared, he will be unable to hold under the attacks of the Bolsheviki, which daily are becoming fiercer. The Bolsheviki are receiving large reinforcements, and General Wrangel's situation now is regarded by the Allies as most grave. It is recognized, here, however, that the entire situation depends upon the White Army holding the Crimean isthmus.

LONDON, Nov. 12.—Russian Soviet forces have penetrated General Wrangel's first line of defenses at Yushumsk in the Crimea, capturing two regiments of General Barbovitch's cavalry, says Thursday's official statement on fighting operations, received today from Moscow by wireless.

In the Mozyr region, to the south of Bobruisk (on the western front) the Soviet forces retired under pressure, the statement admits.

SAY KILPATRICK IS SAFE.

Russian Officers Report He Was Sent to Prison Camp.

PARIS, Nov. 12.—Washington reports that Captain Emmet Kilpatrick, an American Red Cross worker in South Russia, was not killed by the Bolsheviki, but is being held a prisoner, were confirmed in a telegram received at the Paris branch of the American Red Cross from Sebastopol today. The telegram was filed in Sebastopol on Nov. 8 and reads:

"Definite information that Kilpatrick is a prisoner was received from Russian officers who escaped from the group of prisoners which included Kilpatrick. This group left Lavkia under guard in the direction of a prison camp at Klovaka (Kakhovka?) on the Dnieper."

A Beautiful Queen Anne Secretary

In the New Collection of English Antiques Now Au Quatrieme

A most gracious and dignified old piece of furniture, suitable for a lovely chintz-hung English room is this old Queen Anne secretary of polished walnut. The wood is unusually fine in color and working, contrasting beautifully with the curved top of gilded wood, carved in the form of scrolls mounted with shells.

This scrolled top and a moulding about the middle of the desk were painted black when the desk was discovered, and it was only by careful removing of the black paint that the fine old gilt was revealed, in perfect condition.

The desk has a fine patine of unusual brilliance and depth. Price $900.

HAITIAN PRESIDENT UNAWARE OF CRIMES

He Had Heard Accusations Against the Marines by Popular Clamor, He Asserts.

SAYS PEOPLE WELCOME AID

With Few Exceptions They Were Glad of American Intervention, He Tells Investigators.

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Nov. 11 (Associated Press).—Sudre Dartiguenave, President of the Republic of Haiti, testifying today before the Naval Board of Inquiry, declared he had no official knowledge of the charge of indiscriminate killing of natives by United States marines. Speaking through an interpreter, the President said he was without means of proving the existence of cases of homicide or violence that may have been committed by the marines, adding: "They had been accused by public clamor."

Señor Dartiguenave was the only witness testifying, and after he had left the chair Judge Advocate Dyer announced that he had no further witnesses or evidence. The court then adjourned, to reassemble upon call by Admiral Henry T. Mayo, President of the Board of Inquiry, and it is not probable that another session will be held before next week.

The Haitian President, with democratic simplicity, walked from the palace to the courtroom, climbing the two flights of stairs. He expressed his pleasure in informing the United States Government what he knew. Anawering a direct question as to whether he had knowledge regarding alleged indiscriminate killings, he said:

"Officially, no. I have heard of regrettable acts perpetrated at Hinche, St. Marc, Croixes, Douquets, Grande Revera du Nord, Mirebalais and Las Cohidas. When people have been reproached for not having kept the Government informed of all that was being said, the answer, rightly or wrongly, has been that they were afraid of being caught by martial law. Victims or their parents have never brought their grievances to me, because leaders of the revolution gave them to understand there was no Haitian Chief of State.

"The people, with a few exceptions, such as may be found in every country, have rejoiced at the coming of the Americans. They were expecting their liberty, prosperity and respect for their persons and property, but compulsory road labor has been practiced despite advice by the counsel of the Government. This has given rise to discontent, which led to the revolt of the cacos (bandits). Misdeeds, however, are always possible in cases of repression."

STORY OF A BULL, A BANK AND BANKRUPTCY CASE

The Bull's Progeny Not Good Milkers, the Bank Is Closed, the Cashier a Bankrupt.

Special to The New York Times.

DIXON, Ill., Nov. 12.—The Union State Bank of Dixon was closed this morning at 10 o'clock by the Directors and a notice declaring the bank closed pending examination by the State Auditor is posted on the door. The filing of a petition in bankruptcy by E. J. Countryman, until a few weeks ago cashier of the bank, is said to have precipitated the action.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—According to published stories here among the assets of E. J. Countryman, former cashier of the closed bank at Dixon, Ill., and of his partner, Edwin Depewesler, is a claim of $50,000 against the former owner of a bull, Red Apple Thorndyke VIII., which they are said to have purchased for $100,000. It is said that they were told that the female progeny of Red Apple would be record milk producers. One cow, daughter of Red Apple, had a test. Her milk was about 200 above par, but it is alleged that some one poured a cup or two of cream into the pail after milking time.

Red came to be in great demand, but his daughters were squibs. Returns on the investment were not enough to pay interest charges, so the partners went into bankruptcy.

Nobel Physics Prize for Breteuil.

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 11.—The Noble Prize for Physics for 1920 was awarded today to Charles Edouard Guillaume Breteuil, head of the International Bureau of Weights and Measures. His discoveries relative to the alloys of nickel steel won him this honor.

"The Stranger Within Our Gates"

The post-war tide of immigration is reaching thought-provoking heights. It has challenged the minds of thinking people from all parts of the country. "Americanization" has become a household word; Americanizing the immigrant is the problem of the day.

We present five books from a notable collection on this subject. Four of them are by Edward A. Steiner, a distinguished foreign-born American, and one who is regarded as an expert on immigration problems. The fifth is the result of studies in Americanization projected by the Carnegie Corporation of New York.

GUESTS GIVE $75,000 TO POLICE HOSPITAL

WILL HAVE A "POLICE DAY"

Luncheon Given by Commissioner the First Step in Campaign to Raise $5,000,000.

More than $75,000 was raised for the proposed Police Hospital yesterday at a luncheon given by Police Commissioner Richard E. Enright to three hundred men of the theatrical and motion picture professions at the Hotel Astor. In addition, Sidney S. Cohen, president of the Motion Picture Theatre Owners' Association, announced that one day would be set aside by the theatres as "Police Day" and that part of the receipts would be contributed to the hospital fund.

The luncheon was the first step in the campaign to raise $5,000,000 for the hospital, the site for which has already been purchased in Eastern Parkway, near the entrance to Prospect Park, Brooklyn. Commissioner Enright explained that the building would cost $2,000,000 and the equipment $500,000, so that at least $2,000,000 would be left for an endowment. The rest of the $250,000, estimated as the annual running expenses, would be met, he said, out of the receipts of the annual police field days. He said the drive for subscriptions had been repeatedly deferred and would begin on Dec. 9.

Many of the leading men in the two professions were present, including D. W. Griffith, Edgar Selwyn, Lewis J. Selznick, Marcus Loew, Henry W. Savage, Samuel Rothapfel, R. H. Burnside, Arthur Hammerstein, William Fox and Joseph Schenck. State Senator James J. Walker was toastmaster.

Commissioner Enright in explaining the necessity of the hospital, said that there was no provision by the city for the care of a policeman injured in the course of duty, except by admission to a hospital on the same footing as any other charity patient. The proposed hospital, he said, would be for both policemen and members of their immediate families.

The response to Commissioner Enright's appeal was immediate. William Fox and E. F. Albee were appointed chairmen of committees, and promises were made to bring up the matter among the various associations in the theatrical business and the motion picture industry. Mr. Cohen and Mr. Griffith commended the idea.

There's a quality of tailoring to these Coats that will win your approval. It by far surpasses the degree of workmanship you usually see elsewhere in garments citing a similar price. No part is just slapped together. Every part is as carefully joined to make an harmonious whole as brains and experience could possibly do it. The makers did not try to see how quickly they could make these garments but how good. An inspection of any will thoroughly convince you of this. The parts below the surface are as well made as the parts above. No skimping is practiced anywhere in their makeup to save a few cents on the original cost. MAYOR HYLAN AS HE IS.

New York is humiliated in the humiliation of its Mayor. Such a man at the head of our greatest city! It did, indeed, elect him despite full knowledge of his disqualifications for the Mayoralty, but no one could have expected that they would be so glaringly exhibited. For a time Mr. HYLAN had the advantage of skilled guidance, or restraint, by Tammany agents; but with this withdrawn, or rejected, he has gone from one blunder to another, falling into the hands of stupid or scheming confidants and steadily destroying what little reputation he had left. Now he is fully revealed to his fellow-citizens—self-pictured, with the artistic aid of Mr. UNTERMYER, as a man vain but credulous, headstrong though easily misled by flatterers, with but a feeble grasp on the city's business and with a capacity for being "fooled," as he himself admits, simply terrifying.

It is needless to dwell upon the details of his examination before the Lockwood committee. Everybody has been devouring them. The Mayor's ignorance, his confusion of mind, his changing explanations and shifting defense, the destruction of his spoken word by his own written record—all this is now beyond effacement in the public mind. The sole remaining subjects of curiosity and speculation relate to the causes of the pitiful mess which the Mayor has made of his office.

One of them is his weakness for making his own the work of other hands. This is especially the case with his official letters. The Mayor may have warrantably had, as the elder COUDERT once said that a certain high officer of the State Government had, "a reasonable distrust of his own literary ability." But this did not justify him in taking over bodily and blindly the compositions of more ready writers. On a former occasion the fact was brought out that some of Mr. HYLAN'S official utterances were really the work of a gifted reporter. But nothing had before been shown so bad in that line as his adoption, without hesitation or inquiry, of the letter of HETTRICK in regard to the use of limestone in the new school buildings. This was sent on to the Board of Education, not as "a memorandum to be looked into," but as a formal communication, almost amounting to an order, from the Mayor himself.

If Mayor HYLAN is bound to be more careful about letters to which he signs his name, he ought also to be less gullible about letters that he reads. It is evident that HETTRICK had learned precisely how to "fool" the Mayor. Just insinuate to him that he could make a great stroke in behalf of the labor unions, while hitting "non-residents" hard and causing grief to sinister "interests," and no project was too wild, none too open to abuses, for the Mayor to advocate. The various letters of HETTRICK to Mr. HYLAN are veritable models of artful approach to an official whose weaknesses and follies and ambitions had been perfectly learned by the writer.

Till the end of the Mayor's term the city will have to grin and bear it. But it ought to be doing a lot of earnest political thinking. Nobody but a fool, says the Spanish proverb, breaks his leg twice over the same stone. And if the City of New York, at the next municipal election, again disregards the plain teachings of experience, ignores what may literally be called the awful warning of HYLAN, and elect a Mayor notoriously unfit, it will deserve not only a crown of folly, but every form of disgrace and punishment that may follow.

THE SHIPPING BOARD SCANDAL.

The United States Shipping Board undertook perhaps the biggest job that ever fell to a Government organization in any country, with the result that millions of the taxpayers' money have been wasted. "Are you spending money profligately enough to "get results?" asked Senator HARDING of one of the board's officers at a hearing. But the Government and the people were then working feverishly to win the war, and any money spent for that purpose was not begrudged. Yet the Shipping Board was expected to count the dollars after the armistice and see that they did not get into the wrong pockets, even if the undertaking to build up and operate an American merchant marine was gigantic. Among its executives have been, and still are, men of unblemished reputation, men of the highest standing, and the presumption is that there is no smell of corruption on their garments. Nevertheless, the Walsh investigating committee is bringing out facts that show that not only was there enormous waste of money and material, but downright "graft," which calls for action by the public prosecutor." More than that, the incompetence of employés of the Shipping Board to protect its interests, to know a rogue and confound him, is lamentably apparent. There is no doubt that the Shipping Board was frequently victimized and was none the wiser.

The report of RICHARDSON and FISHER, investigators for the Walsh committee, charging that payrolls were padded, that subordinates in the vast organization of the Shipping Board were bribed, that collusive bids were made for everything it dealt in, that malingerers and impostors drew salaries, that profiteering was common, that salvage material was bought dirt cheap—that, in fact, shipping operations of all kinds were entangled in a network of graft—was assailed as slanderous. Why were no names mentioned? demanded the critics. Well, the names are beginning to come out, and after the testimony of Commander ABNER B. CLEMENT, executive assistant to Admiral BENSON, the doubters were silenced.

The charges of RICHARDSON and FISHER were declared by Commander CLEMENT to be well grounded. There had been waste and graft as well as inefficiency, he said. A most remarkable disclosure by this witness was the statement that when the accounts of the Emergency Fleet Corporation were taken over it was necessary to employ a staff of 4,000 employés at an expense of $8,000,000 to straighten things out. Furthermore, the Controller's Department of the Shipping Board was still being audited at great expense. There had been a tremendous loss on wooden ships, Commander CLEMENT deposed. It may be remembered that the board was warned by General GOETHALS and others to stick to steel ships.

The Walsh committee must stay in the furrow of investigation until all the rascality is turned up and all the inefficiency exposed. Every officer in a position of responsibility should be called, if he can contribute to the public information. No guilty man should be allowed to escape and no incompetent be excused. The House of Representatives ordered the investigation by a vote of 287 to 0. Every executive of the Shipping Board, past or present, wants the truth brought out.

A BARRIER BROKEN.

The Armenians have been badly defeated by the Turkish Nationalists, and have apparently had to sue for peace. On the other side they have had to yield some sort of right of way to the Bolsheviki, as Georgia is apparently about to do. The Caucasus barrier, which WINSTON CHURCHILL would have tried to strengthen a year ago, lies open for the advance of the Russians into what is left of Turkey.

A year ago that would have seemed a matter of tremendous and terrible importance, but every one's interest in everything has been dulled. Also, in this particular case, it is pretty clear now that the Bolsheviki are not strong enough to do any great damage in Anatolia immediately. What they may do next Summer, or a year from next Summer, is another matter.

The little Armenian State did its best between the upper and nether millstones. The Greek victories over the Turks last Summer took the pressure off the western frontier of Armenia, but the Greeks, after occupying the territory needed to remove the Turkish menace to Constantinople and Smyrna, ceased their advance. To go further would have entailed great expense and loss of life, and the coming elections might conceivably mean a complete reversal of Greek policy if the opponents of VENIZELOS win. With the Greek advance halted, the Turks were able once more to turn on the Armenians, and in the last few weeks they have fought with such success that Armenia had to ask for an armistice. What the political future of the Armenian State may be nobody knows now, and none of all the Christian Powers so friendly to Armenia seems to care enough to do anything about it.

LENIN will use MUSTAPHA KEMAL and MUSTAPHA KEMAL will use LENIN so far as possible, and just at present they have common objectives. But the events of the Polish war showed that the Red Army is not the terrible force which we heard so much about a year ago. Moreover, communications in the Caucasus are so bad that the sending of any strong military force to the help of MUSTAPHA KEMAL is unlikely. Even if some divisions of the Red Army should reach Anatolia, the would probably have little chance against GOURAUD'S Senegalese or the Greek army in Western Asia Minor. But there is Mesopotamia and Kurdistan and Persia. There the Reds may be able to make serious trouble for the British Empire; and though the Bolsheviki have lost a good deal of international prestige in the last six months, it is too early to be sure that the march toward India has been abandoned.

SECRETARIES "TAKEN CARE OF."

The lot of a private secretary to a Governor or a President is not always a happy one, but it carries with it one unique privilege. When his service ends he is always "taken care of." It is, therefore, no surprise to learn that Mr. TUMULTY is to be provided with an office by the President when his duties at the White House come to a close. This is merely in line with an old tradition. It has been steadily followed by the Governors of New York and by successive Presidents. BENJAMIN HARRISON took care of his private secretary, and so did President TAFT of at least one of his.

It will be noted that no fear is felt that Mr. TUMULTY may not be confirmed by a Republican Senate in whatever post he may be appointed to by President WILSON. This is partly in accordance with the rule of fair play in politics. Favors like these are freely passed over the party wall. But there is another reason. A successful private secretary in the White House will have made himself agreeable and useful to Senators of the "opposite political faith." He has taken care of them so many times that, when the time comes, they cannot refuse to take care of him. And, in fact, not one of them, nor anybody else that we know of, will begrudge Mr. TUMULTY his nomination, if it comes, to the Court of Customs Appeal.

MISS ROBERTSON OF OKLAHOMA.

Miss ALICE ROBERTSON, the anti-suffragist who is to be the only woman in the Sixty-seventh Congress, is a person of opinions and not afraid to express them. She is no tender Miss RANKIN. She wouldn't have wept and she wouldn't have voted No on the declaration of war with Germany. An ardent Rooseveltian, she says that "we ought to have gotten in a long time before we did." She tells us that the men "voted for her but bet against her." She was elected, in fact, by a wonderfully complimentary vote, including every service man in her district and a host of Democrats.

No feminist, she won't have a woman secretary at Washington. "It a "a man's job, and I want to keep it "down." She is a total abstainer, never wore a pair of silk stockings and won't wear high-heeled shoes. To the photographer who invited her to cross her feet as he was about to "snap" her picture she snapped back: "I was raised never to cross "my feet and I am going to stay that "way." A woman who knows what she wants and what she thinks about small things and great. "I am a "Christian; I am an American; I am "a Republican." She will "feel no "embarrassment because she is the "only woman" in Congress.

While she made no speeches and solicited no votes outside of her restaurant, she would sit down with voters at their table, "and while consuming "a bowl of soup talk politics. She "has a record of seventeen bowls of "soup at one dinner hour." So says a Muskogee dispatch. If this is myth, one loves to believe it. A healthy, hearty, original and clever person is Representative ROBERTSON.

THE "UNDERGROUND" COAL ROUTE

The Interstate Commerce Commission has reported in answer to the Senate's inquiry of last June that "it "would an error to assume that "fundamentally the high prices paid "for spot coal are to be ascribed "mainly to the large exports." The coal trade long ago said the same thing, and supported it by figures of export and production. Many will prefer the methods of the Canadian Board of Railway Commissioners, which has found a short way to deal with those who falsify the coal market by deliveries contrary to contract.

The Canadian way is to require exporters to make a deposit as guarantee for delivery according to consignment, and $10,000 has just been declared forfeited by the owners of the steamship Lydia "for delivering 4,509 "tons of coal at Rotterdam by the "underground route." The analogy with our own situation is not complete, but there are strong points of resemblance. Our coal trade press has abounded with complaints that cars were furnished more abundantly to those who sold their coal in approved quarters, and that cars loaded according to contract at moderate prices have been diverted to other destinations and to consumers not favored by priorities. More coal was sold for export than was exported.

If our "underground" route were thoroughly explored, there would be an explanation of why scores of millions of tons more than were used last year are missing now. They have not evaporated, and only four million tons were exported in September. That is not sufficient to explain such a deficiency as has been complained of. In October the exports of coal may have been larger, as there was the loss of British production through the strike to be made good. But there are signs that the larger export will be less felt, and it will not be altogether surprising if a decrease of demand appears as the peak of prices is reduced. That would indicate that many bins have been filled by those cautious and canny enough to know the route. The Board of Trade this week adopted resolutions alleging graft in the railway business as the explanation of the coal mystery, and the Pennsylvania Railroad has led in exposing and punishing the guilty. Eventually our public officials may catch up with the Canadian and find some way of assuring delivery of coal to those who buy it at contract prices from first hands.

A NOMINATION FOR MPRET.

The Foreign Minister of Albania is in Rome, looking about for a King—or Mpret, as the Albanians quaintly call him. He told a correspondent of The Chicago Daily News that since its unlucky experience with WILLIAM of Wied Albania felt that it would have to be rather careful in this matter of kings. "We should prefer an Anglo-Saxon," said the Minister, "and especially an American. But you have "no royalty. It is a great pity."

What? No American royalty, when every citizen of the land of the free is by definition a better man than any scion of European ruling houses? The gentleman should know America better than that. He speaks, indeed, of the excellent work that American church workers have been doing in Albania, and the great educational plans which they are preparing for his people. It would be a pity to choose a King who might fail to sympathize.

For the young Albanian nation, which has made such a promising start toward independence and prosperity, we venture to nominate a King, an American King—in short, Mr. WILLIAM H. ANDERSON, at present Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of this State. Mr. ANDERSON is a man of force and initiative. He is just the sort of King Albania needs. Half of Albania is Christian and the other half—the Mohammedan half—is dry. Mr. ANDERSON would probably enjoy a stay in Albania.

A MODEL LEGISLATURE.

Missouri has a right to be proud of her Legislature of 1920. The Senate of 34 members had 460 persons on its payroll. The House of 144 members had 295 employés. That is, for every Senator there were 13½ employés, for every Representative a fraction over 2 employés. It must be admitted that the House was not quite worthy of the noble example of the Senate. Still, the example is inspiring to the lovers of patronage. Here were 755 employés for a Legislature of 178 persons, about 4¼ times as many employés as legislators. The aggregate pay of the Representatives was $102,000, of the House employés $99,000. The aggregate pay of the Senators was $28,000, of the Senate employés $156,000.

These figures speak for themselves. It is proper to observe, however, that this Legislature was Democratic. This, rather than the number and cost of the legislative clerks and bottlewashers, stirred Republican amaze and indignation. Will the Legislature of 1921 be content with fewer officials than its predecessor, or will the House, smarting under a sense of inferiority, try to reach the proud position of the Senate of the year before?

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

One More League Is Needed.

Is it not time for the establishment in this country—and in others, too, but never mind the others for the moment—of a league of people, bound by oath or by solemn affirmation, in no circumstances and for no purpose to bribe anybody, to pay blackmail to anybody or to give any secret commission of any kind to anybody?

Of course, the joining of such a league would be a good deal like making a public promise not to steal—would be just like it, in fact—and therefore would involve something of humiliation for every member. But humiliation is the fate of all of us just now, when the revelations of widespread dishonesty and cowardice are coming so fast, and there might be certain advantages in having the humiliation public instead of private and concealed. At any rate, this league, if large enough, would have for its first and very desirable effect that of diverting some of the anger and horror at present directed at the takers of bribes and the leviers of blackmail and turning it on those, at least equally guilty, who have given the one and yielded the other.

Thus would fully half of that anger and horror be better employed than it is now, for it is unquestionable that never in all the course of human history was one bribe given except to secure an unfair advantage or a fair advantage for less than it was worth, and never was blackmail paid except to cover up criminality or weakness.

Honesty and courage in combination are a complete protection against all the kinds of vicious extortion and exploitation which the assorted investigators are bringing to light. And it is brought to light so easily whenever the task is undertaken by somebody who isn't afraid of possible consequences to his property or his schemes, and so safely by anybody who dares to risk the futile animosity of stupid little villains like those who are getting well advertised today!

How Leagues Would Do Their Work.

Besides putting condemnation where it belongs in equable division, instead of heaping it all on the less guilty, the league just proposed, if its membership grew to include even a sizable minority of our population, would put an almost instant end to evils that have come to be a national disgrace. Bribe-taking is created by bribe-giving, and blackmail is levied because there are those who will pay it.

And, of course, the members of the proposed league not only would refrain from sin themselves—they would discourage it in others, and, in case of need, would take more vigorous measures to prevent it. For instance, they would make clear to a friend who exultingly told a story of successful smuggling on his or her last trip from Europe just what they thought of that particular crime, especially when, as is usually the case, it is accompanied by the corruption of a Custom House underling. There rarely would be need for the leaguers to be informers or detectives, but they would frown sternly on getting a telephone ahead of other people in equal need of the service by "slipping" a ten-dollar bill to a company employé, minor but efficient ad hoc.

Examples could be multiplied almost without end, for it is much more nearly the truth that we are a nation of bribers than one of bribe-takers. We have been demoralized by our weak tolerance of the tipping system, an evil almost unknown here within the memory of people still very much alive, but now nearly universal. From the giving of a tip to the giving of a bribe the step is short, easy and almost inevitable, and from the taking of tips to that of levying blackmail the step is even shorter and easier.

Belief and Fear Are Premature.

Before devotees of the home brew yield to despair or the exponents of implacable war on alcohol exult too loudly, both should wait until they hear the exact terms of the Treasury's latest interpretation of the Volstead act—and then they should wait to see how the ruling works, if at all.

It is not easy to believe that a ban has been placed on the sale to the general public of all the materials out of which intoxicants and exhilarants can be made at or near the domestic fireside. The talk at the moment is of malt and hops, but evidently that, though restriction on their sale is going far, is not going far enough if the determination is to stop entirely what may be called home manufacture.

Why stop at malt and leave the sale of barley and other grains unrestricted? There is nothing secret or particularly difficult about conducting the malting process on a small scale. Anybody could do it who would take the trouble, and apparently a good many people are willing to take a lot of trouble, if only the result attained prove—potable. It is a lamentable fact that sugar and starch in any of their innumerable forms can be turned easily into alcohol, and sugar and starch we all must have, and will, as long as we have the price.

As for hops, though they do not count among the necessaries of life, yet they are quite, quite innocent in all except a single potentiality, and if they are to be banned for that, what can escape?

Wrong, But So Very Explicable.

It was reprehensible, of course, for a London mob to invade the office of SYLVIA PANKHURST'S newspaper and there both wreck her belongings and maltreat her employés. But while one condemns, one also understands so easily and so clearly just why the rioters committed these sinful deeds that—well, that indignation at what they did shows more than a tendency to turn into surprise that they didn't do more and worse.

For Miss PANKHURST and her staff not only refused to join in the celebration of Armistice Day and in honoring the unknown soldier whose deposition in Westminster Abbey was the most notable feature of London's celebration; in addition they chose to sing while others kept reverent silence, and the songs they sang were not appropriate to the occasion except in the judgment of Bolsheviki and their kind.

That did not justify even a mild form of lynching, but it was an explanation of it that would pass for adequate almost anywhere outside of Moscow and Petrograd.

For Next Armistice Day.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

What has this Armistice Day meant to Americans? Nothing? We have fought, suffered and sacrificed, entirely fearless of the conglomeration facing us. Instead of recognizing the magnificent victory we are now indifferent—utterly composed and tranquil concerning the successful efforts of the victors.

Two years ago, when the realization of the conclusion of a horrible struggle eventually had come, we celebrated that event wholeheartedly.

Since then we have faced innumerable apprehensive economic situations. Why was it not again possible for us to react the spirit of '18 as eagerly and sincerely today? Surely we have not forgotten! The scheduled ringing of the chimes, flying of the colors, patriotic services, honor de tributes—these all would have imprinted in the minds of our citizens thoughts of gratitude. Let us prepare with a spirit of wholeheartedness for the coming 11th of November—lest we forget!

NOVEMBER GARDEN.

This morning in my garden,
In my November garden,
I found a larkspur blossoming,
A lovely, radiant blue thing.
It swayed and shone,
And did not seem to know
It was alone
In my November garden,
Where dry, dark leaves are falling
And all the birds have flown.

The lilac is a sturdy tree—
She finds her green leaves earlier
And holds them more tenaciously
Against the cold wind's piracy
Than trees of weaker character.
The lilac branches seemed to stir
And signal to the larkspur,
And then I saw a little flame
That moved among the leaves and came
In four nasturtium flowers that said:
"Cheer up, your garden isn't dead!"

This morning in my garden,
In my November garden,
Orange, blue and green
Were to be seen.

Now Summer has gone by,
And falling leaves disclose
The empty nests where late
Glad songs arose.
The birds and Summer went
A way that no man knows.
But here is honey that
No bee will find,
No bird will linger at
This larkspur cup.
This grace the butterfly
Has left behind.
Summer went away
And gave it up.
Yet it is bravely blue
Swinging there alone
As if to challenge you!

CLOSER RELATIONS URGED BY GEDDES

STRESSES ENGLISH IDEALS

Canada's Role, He Says, Is to Secure Cordiality Between Her Partners and Neighbors.

Sir Auckland Geddes, the British Ambassador, speaking last night to 600 members and guests of the Canadian Club of New York at a dinner at the Biltmore, declared that we must have world peace and the spirit of peace between nations or "humanity's convalescence may be indefinitely delayed." "To secure the peace which is essential I firmly and truly believe," he added, "that there must be as the very foundation of our effort close co-operation between the English-speaking nations and indeed between all the nations which draw their ideal of government from that old mother of freedom—England."

"If we do not get a frank and free understanding between the two countries," the British Ambassador said, "who knows when we will begin to drift along paths that will cross for without that frank interchange of thought, who can know what part the other nation seeks to play?" The Ambassador declared that the world could not face another war like that from which we are recovering. "I do not think that if we were to have another war civilization anywhere could survive it," he said. In the accomplishment of an understanding between the English-speaking peoples, Ambassador Geddes defined Canada's rôle as that of "interpreter of America to the Britons and of the Britons to America."

"The armada of European civilization," he said, "is still laboring in heavy seas, but the ships are all pulling away from the rocks that threatened, beating out to the safe sailing of the open sea. Some faint hearts are alarmed because the waves still run high. They moan that the storm is not over and that the dangers are as great as they were. Others torture themselves with speculation as to what would happen if another storm as intense as the last were to break upon the fleet before it has had time to effect repairs. They need not speculate.

"If another storm as fierce as the last were to break now, the laboring ships would be lost beyond hope of salvation, and not only the ships that were severely damaged in the storm, but those that, last time lost only an unimportant spar, they, too, would go, and the survivors of that ghastly wrenching would begin again the unending voyage of humanity not in stately ships, but in the coracles and bark canoes of an incipient civilization. But here men are as the gods. If they so will there need be no renewal of the storm in our time or in our children's.

"Canada has now by force of circumstances a peculiar duty and peculiar privilege thrust upon her. Geographically free from the turmoil of Europe, but sharer from the beginning to the end in Europe's struggles, it was Canada that pointed the way to transatlantic cooperation in war and in peace. Her great needs, her great achievements predestine her to be a leader in securing cordiality between her partners and her neighbors. She can do what no other can. She can speak to America and to her partners about the world. Hers is the responsibility, and hers, if she succeeds in establishing a world friendship of the English-speaking races, will be the glory."

Henry van Dyke was cheered when he said: "I am strongly in favor of the League of Nations, and nothing that has happened can change that sentiment."

"If we can't get it all," he continued, "I am in favor of getting as much as we can. In Tennyson's words, if need be, 'half a league onward,' but let it be onward, not backward. I am not in entire sympathy with the idea that it is time to get back to 'normalcy.' I don't want to see this country or any other allied or associated country come back to the normal state of mind, in the sense of coming back to the state before the war.

"To me, far more than treaties or alliances or leagues is the perpetuity of friendship and a certain community of spirit between the United States and Great Britain."

Dr. James W. Robertson of Toronto declared that the great task now facing us was "to establish righteousness in all parts of the world."

OLD CORNER CLOSET, $310.

Cyrus K. Budd Sale of Early American Furniture Reaches $13,371.

An early American maple corner closet brought the top price at the Cyrus K. Budd sale at the Clarke Galleries yesterday afternoon, going to Knoedler & Co. for $310. A beautiful curly maple highboy with deep base, cabriole legs and fine old brasses went to Arthur Clark for $300; N. G. Ormonde paid $255 for an old walnut table with curved legs and fine old stretcher; a mahogany secretary went to Woodward, agent, for $200; Mrs. E. S. Farley paid $190 for a beautiful old pine corner cupboard with lower part enclosed with panelled doors and scroll-shaped open shelves above, and $150 for a large scroll-top mahogany corner cupboard, the upper doors of glass.

An inlaid, drop-leaf mahogany table went to Mrs. Harry Ogden for $160 and Miss Elizabeth Ivory paid $130 for an old mahogany secretary. A very early fine mantelpiece was purchased by Mrs. Frederick Havemeyer for $105.

The returns for the afternoon were $8,323, making a grand total to date of $13,371. The sale will be concluded this afternoon, when the old rooms and staircases will be sold.

GERMANY FOR DOLLAR BASIS

Trendelenburg Urges American or British Unit in Foreign Trade.

BERLIN, Nov. 12 (Associated Press).—The adoption of the dollar or the pound sterling as a trade basis was urged by Dr. Trendelenburg, National Controller of Exports and Imports, in an address before a convention of German export trade interests today.

The Controller gave it as his belief that a system of invoicing on the basis of American or English exchange would contribute toward stabilizing German foreign trade.

Society Cares for 3,000 Children.

The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children is supervising the care of 3,000 children who are being boarded out by their parents or by institutions, according to the October report of Colonel E. K. Coulter, the general manager, which was issued yesterday. During the month forty adults were sentenced for crimes against children and 1,506 complaints were investigated. About 606 children were taken to the Children's Court, of which 293 were placed on probation and 102 sent to their homes or institutions.

PLAN TO SAVE PAPER SUPPLY

Manufacturers to Urge Timber Conservation and Reforestration.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—George W. Sisson, Jr., of Potsdam, N. Y., President of the American Paper and Pulp Association, which has been holding its annual convention here, said today that if drastic steps were not taken immediately America and the world would be paperless in fifty years.

"There are two alternatives," he said. "One is the invention of a process to manufacture paper from other than wood pulp, and the second is the conservation of our forests and the reforestration of large tracts of land."

Frank L. Moore, Chairman of the Committee on Forest Conservation, outlined proposed national and State policies which have been approved by the Federal Forestry Department. Eight recommendations have been approved by all large associations interested in the paper industry. These will be submitted to President-elect Harding in an effort to have his administration decide on a definite forestry program.

The recommendations urge acquisition by State and Federal Governments of forest land and land for reforesting. Federal supervision of State and private forests is to be extended and plans of reforesting under unified Federal control are to be worked out.

That no taxes are to be paid on timber lands until the time for cutting is suggested. Then local and Federal taxes can be collected from the sale of lumber. This plan is proposed to end the cutting of partly grown timber to pay taxes.

WILSON MESSAGE TO FRANCE

Congratulates Republic on Anniversary—Also Writes King Emmanuel.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Announcement was made today at the State Department that President Wilson yesterday sent a message to President Millerand of France in recognition of the postponed celebration yesterday of the anniversary of the founding of the French Republic, and another to King Victor Emmanuel of Italy in recognition of the anniversary of the King's birth.

The message to President Millerand said:

"On this significant anniversary of the foundation of the French Republic pray accept my congratulations on behalf of the people of the United States, who welcome every opportunity to attest cordiality of their sentiments and the strength of their historic friendship for France."

The message to King Victor Emmanuel follows:

"I cordially tender my sincere congratulations on this auspicious anniversary and take the opportunity to express the hope of the people of the United States that the cordiality which has so long marked the relations of this country with Italy may grow with every year and powerfully make for peace and human happiness."

D. S. C. FOR DEAD PRIVATE.

Wilson Awards It to E. A. Pierce, Killed in Breaking Hindenburg Line.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Secretary Baker today announced that President Wilson has awarded posthumously a Distinguished Service Cross to the late Private Edward A. Pierce, son of Edward F. Pierce of 1,633 Broadway, New York City, who was killed in action on the Hindenburg line.

The citation in Private Pierce's case reads:

"Private, First Class, Edward A. Pierce, deceased, Company C, 107th Infantry, for extraordinary heroism in action during the attack on the Hindenburg line, Sept. 29, 1918. While a member of a Lewis gun squad which attacked a superior force of the enemy, Private Pierce was severely wounded in the ankle. He refused to be evacuated, and, although wounded so that he was hardly able to walk, he continued on in the advance, inflicting severe casualties on the enemy, until he was killed by enemy fire."

FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE DAY

International Tribute Will Be Paid at Foot of Statue of Liberty.

An international tribute to the memory of Florence Nightingale, under the auspices of the army, navy and the Red Cross, will be paid at 10:30 o'clock this morning on Bedloe's Island at the foot of the Statue of Liberty. Representatives of the State Department, the British, French and Italian Governments and of various civic organizations will take part. Brig. Gen. Oliver B. Bridgman, President of the New York Chapter of the Sons of the Revolution, will preside and Colonel Robert E. Olds, Chief Red Cross Commissioner in Europe, will speak.

Several hundred school children will lay wreaths at the base of the statue and the Twenty-second Regiment band will play the French, British and Italian anthems. There will be a candle lighting ceremony by Camp Fire Girls, a parade of color guards from New York regiments and patriotic songs by the choir of the Church of the Heavenly Rest.

Among the organizations taking part will be the Sons of the American Revolution, Daughters of the American Revolution, Colonial Dames, Daughters of the Cincinnati, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Camp Fire Girls and the Junior Red Cross.

"It is commemoration of the centenary of Miss Nightingale's birth will be also a feature of the Red Cross campaign to obtain 400,000 members in Manhattan. Incomplete reports indicated that 12,000 were enrolled yesterday.

BRITISH FLAG TO STAY UP.

Navy Club Will Disregard Protests by Irish Agitators.

Irish sympathizers have been trying to compel officials of the Navy Club at 15 East Forty-first Street to haul down the British flag, part of the permanent display of allied colors in front of the building, it became known yesterday. Workers at the club said that the objectors were usually women who came in and voiced their complaints. The sympathizers contented themselves with verbal protests and did not attempt to haul the flag down.

The Navy Club, though not officially under the direction of the Navy Department, looks after American sailors and marines, as well as foreign naval visitors, and when the demands for the removal of the British emblem increased the officials took up the question with Captain O. P. Jackson, in charge of navy publicity and morale, whose office is at 24 East Forty-second Street. He instructed them to disregard the agitators and keep the British flag flying with the other allied colors.

COFFEE HOUSE FUND RAISED

Churchwoman's League to Open Establishment for Girls Dec. 15.

The Churchwoman's League for Patriotic Service announced yesterday at the Ritz that funds had been raised for the establishment of a coffee house, to be known as the Chelsea Coffee House for Girls, and to be attached to the Parish House of the Church of the Holy Apostle, Ninth Avenue and Twenty-ninth Street. Mrs. Huntington Merchant will be the chairman of the coffee house and Dec. 15 is set for the opening date.

"The coffee house will aim to provide inexpensive and good lunches for working girls," said Mrs. Raymond Shipman. "Our league has been in existence nearly two years and last week opened Greer House. As soon as the Chelsea Coffee House is established, plans will be made for opening several other coffee houses in various parts of the city."

STORM BARS HARDING FROM TARPON QUEST

GETS MANY INVITATIONS

Lake Charles Urgent for Speech—Envoy Asks Him to Visit Colombia and Venezuela.

Special to The New York Times.

POINT ISABEL, Texas, Nov. 12.—This furthest southern point in Texas found itself this morning in the grip of a real Gulf storm, a "norther," they call it down here.

President-elect Harding was disappointed when he saw that he could not indulge in what has become his favorite sport, tarpon fishing, he took a glance at the great waves surging in Laguna de Madre and then announced that he was going to the Brownsville Country Club to play golf. A cold rain was falling, but Senator Harding, accompanied by Senators Davis Elkins of West Virginia and Frederick Hale of Maine, set out on the twenty-six-mile automobile ride to the links where, despite the dismal weather, they played a round of golf.

The President-elect returned to Point Isabel this evening apparently none the worse for his outing. The other members of the party, including Mrs. Harding, remained indoors at the Creager cottage. Mrs. Harding was rather glad of the inclement weather, because it enabled her to get some much-needed rest following her strenuous day in Brownsville yesterday.

Senator and Mrs. Joseph S. Frelinghuysen of New Jersey, who joined the Harding party yesterday with Edward B. McLean of Washington, passed the morning and afternoon in duck hunting. Mr. Frelinghuysen brought down several birds.

It is not probable that the President-elect will have another opportunity to go tarpon fishing. The weather forecaster for this part of Texas predicts clearing weather tomorrow, but old-time residents of Point Isabel say that with the coming of the "norther" the tarpon will seek warmer waters and will not venture to return for several days.

Senator Harding will leave Brownsville at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning for New Orleans, from which port he will sail for Panama. It is likely that he and his party will depart from Point Isabel Tuesday evening and spend the night in Brownsville on their special cars. Senator Harding has an appointment to meet Governor Hobby in Brownsville.

Harry M. Daugherty, member of the Republican National Executive Committee, and George B. Christian, Jr., secretary to Senator Harding have been deluged with invitations for the Senator from all parts of the Southwest. Nearly every considerable or inconsiderable community has discovered some special reason why the President-elect should visit it.

The Association of Commerce of Lake Charles, La. has extended a particularly urgent invitation. It wishes Senator Harding to stop at Lake Charles on Nov. 17, the day before he is due in New Orleans, and address an important gathering. On that date Senators Ransdell and Gay, Senator-elect Broussard and Congressmen Lazaro, Dupre, Martin and Sanders will be at Lake Charles to discuss with a representative of the Army Engineers Corps the deep water project for Lake Charles. Accordingly the Lake Charles Association of Commerce has asked Senator Harding to come on that day, if only for a very brief stop. Senator Harding would have been glad to accept but it is believed to be impossible for him to do so.

A particularly pressing invitation has also come from Preston McGoodwin, American Minister to Venezuela, urging Senator Harding to visit Colombia and Venezuela while he is in the Caribbean area. Mr. McGoodwin is an Ohioan and has urged that amicable relations between the United States and Latin-American countries would be promoted by such a visit. It is not expected that at any time during his trip to the Canal Zone Senator Harding will enter another country than the United States.

HARDING'S PLAN DECRIED.

Peruvian Delegate to League Calls It "Dangerous and Childish."

PARIS, Nov. 12.—Suggestions from the United States that the present League of Nations should be superseded by another world body are not likely to be met with approval by the Assembly of the League at Geneva, in the view of Dr. Mariano Cornejo, head of the Peruvian delegation to the Assembly, as expressed in an interview in L'Eclair today. Although President-elect Harding has spoken of the "decease" of the League he might be mistaken, Dr. Cornejo said. It was easy to conceive of improvements, he remarked, but to wish to kill a budding organization in order to create another which would be of substantially the same character appeared to him a dangerous and childish proceeding.

"The Peruvian and Bolivian Governments on Nov. 1," continued Dr. Cornejo, "asked the League to examine the treaties Peru and Bolivia were forced to sign with Chile in 1883 and 1904. There is nothing in these requests which can wound Chile, a member of the League. Peru and Bolivia, since these three countries naturally have confidence in their respective rights and have accepted the obligations of the pact, containing Article 19. (This article provides that the Assembly of the League "may from time to time advise the reconsideration by members of the League of treaties which have become inapplicable and the consideration of international conditions whose continuance might endanger the peace of the world.")

"Nothing would prevent one or the other of them, it would seem, from applying this doctrine to the grave difference dividing them, which does not appear likely to be settled by any other peaceful method.

"We must hope that Chile will be the first to support with good grace the requests made on this question. However that may be, Peru and Bolivia have only in view the maintenance of South American peace.

BUY NOW FOR SPRING TO KEEP UP TRADE

May Department Stores Co. Announces Policy to Improve Merchandise Situation.

HOPE OTHERS WILL FOLLOW

Merchants Refraining Now Would Defeat Lower Prices Later, Says Buyer.

A policy of purchasing merchandise at once for the coming Spring season instead of refraining from buying in the hope of still lower prices was announced yesterday by the executive officers of the May Department Stores Company, following a week's study of the merchandise situation in this city. This company, of which David May is the Chairman of the Board of Directors, is considered one of the most substantial in the West. It has stores in Cleveland and Akron, Ohio; St. Louis and Denver, and does a business of $75,000,000 annually.

Announcement of the company's policy, which its officers expressed hope would be followed and result in an improvement of the general merchandise situation, was made in the following statement:

"The executive officers of the May Department Stores Company, who have been in New York for the last week working over the merchandise situation and carefully studying the subject, have reached the conclusion that the policy, which has been followed by the merchants throughout the country recently to refrain from making purchases of merchandise for the coming Spring season should be abandoned, and that the proper policy to pursue is to begin at once purchasing for their requirements for the coming Spring season.

"This conclusion means a great deal to the producers and the wage earners in the manufacturing field, and is in their opinion the proper policy to pursue in order that the readjustment may continue as it has without interruption of the earning capacity of the wage earners.

Opinion of Other Merchants.

"It is believed that the policy of the company, which is the distributer of $75,000,000 of merchandise, having a chain of large retail stores, is also the opinion of many other merchants throughout the country. By pursuing this policy the evil that was experienced when the armistice was declared, at which time merchants stopped making purchases and then were compelled to rush in and obtain their requirements at one time, thereby creating a demand larger than the production, the effect of which was to unreasonably advance prices and resulted in artificial values of merchandise, will be averted."

E. M. Sostman, resident buyer for the company, whose office is at 37 West Twenty-sixth Street, said last night that a continuation of the present policy of refraining from buying would work a hardship on all classes of manufacturers and would be likely to defeat its own purpose of obtaining merchandise at lower prices. Mr. Sostman explained that retail merchants purchased their requirements now as has been their custom, trade would go along normally, but that if all waited until next March to make Spring purchases they would all buy at once and would drive the prices up again, just as happened the Spring after the armistice.

"We are all looking toward a readjustment of prices, which the public has a right to expect," he said. "What we would like to do is to start a movement that would stimulate a return to safe and sane business conditions. It seem to us that the thing to do now is for each merchant to buy according to his requirements and to avoid speculation in merchandise. We hope we have started a movement that may be beneficial to the whole country."

Would Keep Plants Going.

Mr. Sostman said that, while it might be true that prices might be forced somewhat lower, if there was a general cessation of buying by merchants, the new level of wholesale prices was fair, when the price of raw materials and labor was considered. He said the May Company did not believe in trying to "squeeze" the last drop out of the situation, and pointed out that buying for requirements now would enable the manufacturers to keep their plants going, prevent the workers in the factories from being thrown out of employment, and would avoid possibility of a panic.

The movement to stimulate immediate Spring buying by merchants received encouragement in another form by the announcement of a number of firms that they would guarantee buyers against further price reductions, or, if reductions should be made, that the purchaser would receive the benefit of such reductions on goods actually delivered.

Such an announcement has just been made by Robert Reis & Co. in sending out prices on Spring underwear. A letter of this company said:

"With a view of affording our retail customers ample protection in the placing of Spring business, every Spring order booked before Jan. 1 for delivery not later than April 15 will carry with it a guarantee of prices, namely, in the event of a price revision by us prior to April 15 on any Reis styles ordered, such reductions in price will be in effect on your order, regardless of whether the order has been filled or remains undelivered."

Prices Guaranteed.

W. & J. Sloane in their wholesale price list, effective Nov. 11, guarantee their prices against decline, but say that prices are subject to advance without notice on any unshipped balance of order. The Alexander Smith & Sons Carpet Company have announced that prices named on Oct. 1 will be guaranteed to March 31, 1921.

Prices on cotton goods apparently are not being guaranteed, the cotton goods market being still subject to sharp fluctuations. Recent price reductions announced by M. C. D. Borden & Sons and the Algonquin Printing Company failed to include price guarantees, and the figures announced by the Borden firm were said to be subject to change without notice.

The policy of Robert Reis & Co. in guaranteeing prices on both filled and undelivered orders was said to be something of a novelty. It has been frequent, it was said, to establish price guarantees which applied to unfilled portions of orders, but not on merchandise which had actually been delivered.

The May Department Stores Company was incorporated June 4, 1910, under the laws of New York to take over the business of the Shoenberg Mercantile Company of St. Louis, which operated a department store known as "The Famous"; the May Shoe and Clothing Company of Denver, the May Company of Cleveland and the May Realty Investment Company. In 1911 the company acquired the business of the William Barr Dry Goods Company, and in 1912 purchased the entire capital stock of Boggs & Buhl, a Jersey corporation conducting a department store in Pittsburgh. The company also in 1912 acquired the entire capital stock of M. O'Neil & Co. operating a store in Akron, Ohio.

The company has $20,000,000 common stock outstanding and $6,250,000 preferred. There is no funded debt. The common stock sold on the New York Stock Exchange yesterday at 73.

The Count and Countess de Limur, who arrived here a few days ago from California, are sailing today for France on the steamer La Lorraine of the French Line.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN DIVORCED.

Former Mildred Harris Gets Settlement of $200,000 in Los Angeles.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 12.—Mildred Harris Chaplin received a divorce from Charley Chaplin in the Superior Court here late today. Mr. Chaplin, who was charged with cruelty, was not in court and was represented by counsel.

It was stated that a property settlement involving about $200,000 had been made out of court and an agreement reached by which Mrs. Chaplin would not use the name of Chaplin professionally.

WEDDINGS.

Dr. Henry A. Griffin Marries Mrs. Elizabeth Ryle Strange.

The marriage of Dr. Henry A. Griffin of New York and Mrs. Elizabeth Ryle Strange took place at noon yesterday at the home of the bride, 111 East Seventieth Street, in the presence of the families, the Rev. Dr. Charles P. Fagnani of the Union Theological Seminary officiating. It was all as simple and quiet as possible. The bride wore a black satin costume combined with cream lace and a satin hat with lace. On their return from a brief trip Dr. Griffin and his bride will live at her present residence.

Mrs. Griffin has three children by her first husband, Miss Mary Danforth Strange, who was an attendant at the marriage of Dr. Griffin's daughter, Miss Helen de Forest Griffin, when in October she married Hugh D. Cotton, and two young sons, William and Bruton Strange. Dr. Griffin has two daughters by his first wife, who died several years ago, Mrs. Cotton and Miss Kaye Wyman Griffin.

Cornwell-Bassett.

Miss Catherine A. Bassett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Bassett of Bradford, Vt., and Martin T. Cornwell, son of Howard T. Cornwell of this city, were married yesterday in Trinity Episcopal Church at New Haven, Conn.

Their engagement was announced in September. The bride is a graduate of the Connecticut Training School for Nurses, class of '20. Mr. Cornwell graduated from Yale in 1916.

S. PEREIRA MENDES TO WED.

Minister's Son to Marry Miss Belais Here, with Second Ceremony in Nice

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Dorothy Belais, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Belais of this city, to S. Pereira Mendes, son of the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. H. Pereira Mendes.

The marriage is to take place on Nov. 21 at the home of the bride, in West Seventy-fifth Street, and later the couple will sail for Nice, France, where they will visit the bridegroom's parents. The Rev. Dr. Mendes is recuperating at Nice after forty-three years' service as minister of the Spanish and Portuguese Synagogue in this city, from which he retired last Spring. At Nice a second ceremony will be performed by the bridegroom's father.

Later they will visit in Paris and Manchester, England, and then will proceed to Buenos Aires to make their home. Mr. Mendes is head of a business firm, and will visit and establish new branches in South America.

The first ceremony here is to be performed by the Rev. Frederick de Sola Mendes, an uncle of the bridegroom, and will be witnessed only by the family.

WEDS MRS. E. M. DUFOURCQ.

William B. Stephens's Marriage to Engineer's Widow His Third.

Mrs. Effie Mason Dufourcq of this city and William Baker Stephens of Mexico City, Mexico, were married yesterday at noon at the home of Miss Deborah Corle, a friend of the bride, at 225 West End Avenue. The Rev. Harry Marsh Warren officiated.

Mr. Stephens lived until recently in Mexico City, and is engaged in the oil business. According to the record filed at the marriage license Bureau yesterday, when the couple obtained their license, this is his third marriage. The record shows that his first wife died, and that his second wife, Dolores Reves de Stephens, obtained a divorce in Mexico on Sept. 14, on the ground of desertion.

Sir Herbert Samuel's Son to Marry.

LONDON, Nov. 12 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—Arrangements have been completed for the marriage on Dec. 6 of Edwin, eldest son of Sir Herbert Samuel, British High Commissioner to Palestine, and Hasaccah, daughter of the Rev. Mr. Grosovsky, according to a Jerusalem dispatch. Miss Grosovsky was born and educated in Palestine.

ENGAGEMENTS.

Mrs. J. R. Sitlington Sterrett of 529 West 111th Street, announces the engagement of her daughter, Miss Marika Quarrier Sterrett, to William Telfair Daugherty of Washington, D. C. Miss Sterrett is the daughter of the late Professor J. R. S. Sterrett of Cornell University, a distinguished Greek scholar. Mr. Daugherty is the son of the late Charles M. and Susan Peyton Telfair Daugherty. He served overseas with the headquarters staff of the 79th Division, and later was attached to the staff of the United States Military Mission to Berlin.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Andrews of New Haven announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Ethel Andrews, to Henry William Murphy of this city. Mr. Murphy is a member of the firm of Murphy & Dana, architects, of New York. The marriage will take place on Dec. 3, after which the couple are planning to spend eight months in the Orient.

HEALY BRINGS WORD OF IDLENESS ABROAD

Labor Union Official Reports Many Thousand Workers in England Unemployed.

TELLS OF IRISH OUTRAGES

Gives Details of "Black and Tan" Murders as Described to Him by Witnesses.

Timothy Healy, once Coroner, and now President of the International Brotherhood of Stationary Firemen, returned yesterday on the Cunard steamship Kaiserin Augusta Victoria from England, where he went ten weeks ago as delegate from the American Federation of Labor to attend the British Trade Union Congress at Portsmouth. He had a suite on the promenade deck of the liner and was Chairman at the concert held in the saloon on Thursday night, which, he said, was very different from his first voyage across the Atlantic, in 1884, as a fireman on the Auranla, known as the "Rolling Amy."

Mr. Healy said there was a great deal of industrial depression in England, which resulted in unemployment, as many of the factories and mills were shut down. The ex-soldiers were still getting an allowance from the Government to help them along until they got work, but they were dissatisfied.

In Portsmouth alone, according to Mr. Healy, there were 10,000 ex-service men looking for jobs. In London and Liverpool thousands of men were out of work, especially in the shipping business, because so many vessels were lying idle in the ports. Manufacturers told him, he continued, that the English workmen in the factories and mills were 65 per cent. below American workmen in efficiency. There were 6,500,000 union men in England, Mr. Healy said. The men were in good standing with their unions and were in favor of moderate socialism. British ship owners were sending their ships to Rotterdam and Antwerp to be repaired because the work was done cheaper, and probably they would send them to Hamburg when the new ship yard there was completed. He said there was no doubt that Germany would go ahead to regain her trade and commerce directly she had made peace with America. The British trades unions presented him with a gold watch.

Mr. Healy also went to Holland and Belgium and was in the latter country when the unions defeated the motion to adopt Communist methods by a vote of 1,535 to 650. In addition to meeting the heads of the Labor Party in England, he met Mr. Asquith and other Englishmen prominent in public life.

Mr. Healy gave reporters a long typewritten statement containing information which he said he had collected in Ireland from persons who claimed to have witnessed the incidents. He said he went all over the country and mixed with all kinds of persons there. He saw the ruins and personally witnessed 80 outrages. His statement gave details of murders of men and women by "Black and Tans," as related to him by relatives and friends of the victims.

AGED FATHER IN SUBWAY FINDS JUSTICE FOR SON

Man, 80, Appeals to Stranger for Directions and Prisoner Is Released by Court.

Madison Sallade, 80 years old, employed many years in the Philadelphia Custom House, seemed troubled and confused when he alighted from a subway train at the Franklin Street station yesterday morning. Finally he appealed to a man in the rear of the throng moving toward the street exit, asking to be directed to the Criminal Court Building.

"Come with me, I am going direct to that building," was the reply. While they walked across town Sallade told the stranger that he had just arrived from Philadelphia to help his son, Eugene, 43, who had got into some trouble, though he didn't know how he could help.

"But my wife thought I could do something," confessed Sallade. "I couldn't refuse her. She is very ill. The physician thinks she is dying from cancer. My son's wife is ill, too. I was up all night nursing them, and both are much worried about the boy. Do you think I can help him in any way?"

"Yes, you are helping him now," answered his companion, and escorted the old man to a front seat in Special Sessions, where he left him. A few minutes later, when the three Justices were taking their seats, Sallade started with surprise.

Then his son, Eugene, who said he lived at 40 West Sixty-fourth Street, appeared before the Court, charged with having narcotics in his possession. Justices Herbert, Voorhees and Freschi conferred, then ordered the prisoner's release on a suspended sentence. The elder Sallade bowed to the court, put his arm around that of his son, and departed.

The stranger to whom he had appealed at the subway was Justice Henry W. Herbert.

WOMAN KILLED BY AUTO DRIVER STEALS AWAY

A general alarm was sent out by the police last night for a coupé with a Massachusetts license that struck and mortally injured Miss Kathleen O'Connor, 60 years old, of 219 East Seventeenth Street, as she was crossing Fourth Avenue at Seventeenth Street. The machine stopped after striking the woman, and the driver, a man, assisted in placing her in the automobile of Berger W. Tonneson of 40 Union Square. Tonneson started with the woman to Bellevue Hospital, and the driver of the coupé promised to follow. At Third Avenue, however, he disappeared. Miss O'Connor died shortly after reaching the hospital.

Michael Grisi, 5 years old, of 5 Allen Street died in Gouveneur Hospital last night after being knocked down by a taxicab at Eldridge and Hester Streets. Ernest Beck, 22 years old, of 527 Seventh Avenue, driver of the taxicab, was arrested on a charge of homicide.

Michael Wedowiak, 16 years old, of 598 Hudson Street, Hackensack, crossing the street in front of his home was killed by an auto truck operated by John Seiss of 351 Railroad Avenue. Seiss told the police he did not see the boy before the accident but felt a slight jolt and looking back saw the boy lying in the street about thirty-five feet behind him. He was arrested and held in $1,000 bail charged with homicide.

B. Turck, biologist, and Jan Sickess, Dutch pianist.

WILL OFFER NEW BILL TO CURB IMMIGRATION

House Committee Plans to Amend Last Session's Measure—Japanese Problem Near Solution.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The House Committee on Immigration will begin sessions Monday and prepare a bill to restrict immigration. The committee reported a measure in the last session to restrict immigration for two years, but it met with such opposition that the supporters decided not to push it.

Representative Albert Johnson, Chairman of the committee, who arrived in Washington today, stated that the committee would hold hearings on the general subject of immigration as well as on the Japanese problem, as developed by the passage of the referendum in California, prohibiting Japanese ownership of land in that State.

The indications are that the committee will defer action on the Japanese question in the expectation that the State Department will send to the senate a new treaty with Japan, in which the latter country will agree to prohibit emigration to the United States.

If such a treaty is negotiated, it will carry with it the understanding that California will guarantee to present Japanese residents all civil and property rights. Negotiations have proceeded so far as to lead authorities here to believe that the treaty will be agreed to by Japan and the vexing question will be solved.

Mr. Johnson said that the terms of the original House bill restricting all immigration for two years appeared too strong, and the suggestion has been made to restrict immigration to blood relatives of aliens now in this country. Another proposition is to allow American women, married to aliens, to retain their American citizenship so long as they remain in the United States.

NEW MOVE AGAINST RABBI.

Court Will Be Asked to Vacate the Louwisch Decree of Annulment.

Special to The New York Times.

POUGHKEEPSIE, Nov. 12.—The Supreme Court will be asked to vacate the decree of annulment obtained by Joseph Louwisch against Sheva Levine Louwisch, by an order presented to Justice Joseph Morschauser today by James E. Carroll, attorney for the Sheva Levine Committee and the Hebrew societies which have interested themselves in the case.

This order will contain the findings that Sheva was an innocent girl with pure character; not a believer in free love; a firm believer in God and in the religion of her parents and the sanctity of marriage. It will also find in the testimony she gave that she was coerced into making the statement that she lived with a man in Russia for two years, and that Louwisch compelled her, through fear and ignorance of the law, to make such statements and through dread of deportation, forced her to go on the stand and testify against herself.

A mass meeting, the second to be held by local Jews, will be held in the Masonic Temple on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, when the report of the Sheva Levine Committee will be made. What the report will be has not been made public, but it is understood that it will go into every phase of the case, and will be a strong denunciation of the rabbi.

Among the speakers will be Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Kreppel, who lived next door to Sheva in Russia, and will testify to her good character. Resolutions thanking Justice Morschauser for his promptness in ordering the annulment proceedings reopened and his expediting the case will be introduced, and also thanking the District Attorney for his work and Mr. Carroll for bringing to light the methods alleged to have been used by Louwisch in obtaining the decree.

WISE DENOUNCES FORD AS 'CONTEMPTIBLE LIAR'

'He Is as Guilty of Pogroms as Any Murderer in Poland,' Says Rabbi.

"God help Henry Ford, God forgive him," cried Rabbi Stephen S. Wise before a crowded meeting in the Bronx last night. In answer to the Detroit manufacturer's charges against the Jews, quoted from The Dearborn Independent, the speaker hurled invective after invective, and finally called Ford "the most contemptible little liar that ever lived."

"His main charge," Rabbi Wise said, "is that the Jews aim to control the world. No sane, truthful man could say that of the Jew, hunted like a dog in Poland and treated as a spy in the Ukraine. Ford would have the world believe that Bolsheviki and Jews are the same, and in destroying one would destroy the other. He is as guilty of pogroms himself as any murderer in Poland."

The American sense of fair play, however, can be trusted to take care of Ford, Rabbi Wise concluded. He declared that Ford was trying to debase the spirit of America, but that his "blood-stained hands will fall impotent at his sides."

OTHERS REDUCE BREAD.

Two More Concerns Agree to Cut Price of Loaf 1 Cent.

Mrs. Louis Reed Welzmiller, Deputy Commissioner of Public Markets, who has been trying to bring about a decrease in the retail price of bread, said yesterday that two other baking firms had agreed to follow th elead of the Shults Bread Company and make a reduction of 1 cent a loaf. These decreases have not yet become effective, Mrs. Welzmiller explained, because of the necessity of the bakers consuming their stocks of flour purchased at a higher price than now prevails. She said she expected them to take effect within a short time.

Mrs. Welzmiller said she was trying to arrange a conference with officials of the Ward Bread Company to get that firm to agree to a reduction. "The price of bread must come down," she said. "I believe the reduction will be general once it begins."

Smith Book Sale Nets $60,822.

The sale of selections from the purchases and stock of the late George D. Smith was ended last evening at the Anderson Galleries. The total for the session was $42,31, and for the two nights $60,822. The highest price was $5,200, paid by Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach for a collection of the Year Books of King Henry VI., from the celebrated presses of Richard Pynson, his successor, Robert Redman, and others.

Is Russia Reviving?

One of England's foremost novelists, H. G. Wells, returned recently from Petrograd. In "Russia in the Shadow," a series of articles in The New York Times, he pictures the woes of the strife-torn country.

The second article, "Drift and Salvage," tomorrow, describes the woeful conditions surrounding such men as Pavloff, the Nobel prize winner; Karpinsky the geologist, Oldenburg the Orientalist, and many other notables. Maxim Gorky, Mr. Wells says, is strong and well.

UNION SOVIETISM DECISION RESERVED

WELINSKY CHARGE DENIED

Labor Attorney Insists Old Employes Be Used to Make Up $16,000 of Salvaged Goods.

Justice Giegerich, in the Supreme Court, yesterday heard the injunction suit brought by Max Welinsky, a clothing retailer and formerly a manufacturer, against the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America and its officers to prevent the picketing of his store at 89 Canal Street. The action of the union led Mr. Welinsky to charge in THE NEW YORK TIMES that Sovietism was being practiced by the union "right in the heart of the city." After listening to counsel for both sides the court gave them two weeks in which to file briefs and reserved decision.

Welinsky was, until fire destroyed his plant at 34 Allen street, a manufacturer of clothing. He alleged that the manufacturing business was not paying and decided to confine his activities to his retail store. He charged that the Amalgamated sought to force him to reopen his manufacturing business and reemploy his old workers. As a means toward that end a strike of his bushelmen was called, and now, he charged, the union was endeavoring to force its will by picketing his store, although the scene of the strike is nearly four blocks away.

Welinsky's Side Presented.

In presenting Welinsky's side of the case Harry M. Marks, who appeared for him, said the Amalgamated was trying to force his client to employ forty men when to do so would mean that he must begin manufacturing again. The fire and strike, he said, made it necessary for Welinsky to make up some $16,000 worth of material that had already been cut and to do this he gave the work to contractors.

"We contend we should be permitted to carry on the business as we see fit," said the lawyer. "We should not be forced to go into the manufacturing business which was conducted at a loss solely to give employment to union men."

"You gentlemen know that I am the pioneer in justice in allowing picketing during a strike under certain conditions, but that picketing must be conducted in an orderly and legal manner," the Justice told opposing counsel.

Mr. Marks replied that this case was exceptional and that there was really no strike in the plaintiff's business.

St. John Block, counsel for the union, waved a copy of THE TIMES containing Mr. Welinsky's letter. He objected, he said, to the newspaper trying the case before answering papers had been filed and he thought some action ought to be taken. The letter, he added, was full of misstatements and was written to prejudice the union. Mr. Block said that all the union was trying to do was to induce Welinsky by justifiable picketing to take back his old employes instead of sending his work to contractors.

"There is a peculiar contract system in the clothing," he said. "These contractors' shops move from one place to another without paying their workers. The union men want to continue working for Welinsky rather than have him encourage this objectionable contract system."

Shiplacoff Issues a Statement.

Abraham I. Shiplacoff, general manager of the New York Joint Board of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, made a statement yesterday in which he alleged the Welinsky letter was part of a campaign of slander "carried on by some employers in the city who are deeply interested in destroying our organization." He charged Mr. Welinsky with giving a distorted and garbled account of happenings. He said that turning out employes who had practically become superannuated in his service left them dependent upon the help the union gave them.

"All the union asks under these circumstances," Shiplacoff said, "is that during the slack season the work be divided among the employes as equally as possible. Division of work is a principle now operating in all markets in the industry. It is an established fact recognized by the employers' associations and is in line with other principles mutually agreed upon which have helped to stabilize the industry. If it were left to men of the Welinsky type, the reduction and increase of the force in the shops would change with the weather and the sporadic whims of these employers.

"Mr. Welinsky complains about the pickets carrying placards containing the words 'A strike in this store,' whereas he knows that the store belong to a union. The gentleman knows very well that his name was not mentioned on the placard, so as not to fix permanently on the minds of prospective customers the name of the firm. It was only after fourteen pickets were arrested and were discharged after a hearing in court that the name of the firm was placed on the placards.

"I never promised to investigate the condition of Mr. Welinsky's business, as he claims. We have not been invited to examine his profits when they were running high and we do not consider it our affair to examine them now. Besides, the union at one time even suggested that he would have to give his people more work than he could sell in his store."

J. SALTER HANSEN ACQUITTED

Second Trial Frees Him from Charge Made by Young Girl.

J. Salter Hansen, of whom it was reported in December, 1919, that he had furnished bail for the release of William O. Jenkins, the American Consular Agent at Puebla, Mexico, was acquitted yesterday by a jury in General Sessions of attempting to impair the morals of a minor.

The complaint against Hansen, made by the mother of Metta Wooster, then 14 years old, of 306 West Eighty-ninth Street, had been pending since his arrest on Dec. 15, 1918. The case was tried once before, and the jury disagreed.

The evidence yesterday raised the question of mistaken identity. The girl charged that a man had annoyed her in a dark motion picture theatre. She went home, returned with her mother and pointed at Hansen, who was descending the stairs in the theatre. In his defense Hansen asserted that his features could not have been identified in the darkened theatre so that the complainant could have later recognized him, and he contended she had mistaken him for her annoyer.

JOHN H. SMITH DIES AT 81.

Reputed to Have Introduced Dry Paper Printing in 1870.

John H. Smith, who was an assistant foreman at the American Bible House in this city in 1870, and is said to have then introduced the practice of printing on dry paper, died Wednesday at the age of 81 in the Thrall Hospital in Middletown, N. Y. His discovery followed experiments for an order for a New Testament to be the lightest and most compact printed. Previously paper had been dampened before printing, thus spoiling the gloss.

Mr. Smith used a fine tissue paper in a dry state and preserved the gloss. As a boy he was a "printer's devil" on The Tribune under Horace Greeley.

Mrs. Marilla Ricker Dies.

DOVER, N. H., Nov. 12.—Mrs. Marilla M. Ricker, a pioneer woman suffragist and one of the first woman lawyers in New England, died here today, aged 80.

Mrs. Ricker, who was one of the early advocates of woman suffrage, vainly tried to be a candidate for Governor of New Hampshire in 1910. For forty years she presented her ballot each election day and only paid her taxes under protest.

The Rev. Z. A. Space Drops Dead.

PENN YAN, N. Y., Nov. 12.—The Rev. Z. A. Space, A. M., B. D., Secretary of the New York State Baptist Association, President of Keuka College from 1907 to 1910, and Vice President of the Board of Trustees of the college, dropped dead in the doorway of his home at Keuka Park this morning after having climbed the hill in the face of a strong wind, returning from a meeting of the College Building Committee. He was 65 years old.

COMMANDER ROSS AVERTS TURF WAR

COMMISSION DISAPPOINTED

Maryland State Officials Issue Statement Asserting Sportsman Has Embarrassed Them.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 12.—The danger of a racing war resulting over the case of Jockey Carrol Shilling was averted this afternoon when Commander J. K. L. Ross, who holds the contract for the rider, issued a statement in which he declared that Shilling would not be permitted to accept a mount this year. This means that the issue between the Maryland Racing Commission and the Jockey Club will not be pressed. Shilling will not attempt to ride during the meeting at Bowie and the case will rest until the powers in racing have a chance to settle it definitely.

While no word was received at Pimlico today of the action taken by the Jockey Club in New York, it was the opinion of racing men that the Jockey Club and the Maryland Racing Commission would now have a chance to form a working agreement by which they could regulate matters of this kind in the future without encountering the difficulties which arose in the present case.

The Maryland Racing Commission, however, feels disappointed over the fact that Commander Ross did not force the issue after the license had been granted, as was made clear in a statement issued by the Commission and published here today. The statement follows:

Scores J. K. L. Ross.

"The failure of Shilling to ride at Pimlico yesterday and the possibility that he will not ride in Maryland is due to no action on the part of the Maryland Racing Commission but is squarely up to Commander Ross. Ross asked repeatedly for Shilling's reinstatement. Shilling was given a full and fair hearing. The New York Jockey Club was asked repeatedly for any record against Shilling.

"This request was refused. After a careful consideration of the testimony, authorization was given for a temporary license, pending a final decision in the event of new evidence or information coming to light. The Maryland Racing Commission then took steps further and amended the 'recognized rules of racing' with the view of paving the way for granting this license. The Maryland Jockey Club was instructed to issue this license and did so. It was then squarely up to Commander Ross to ride Shilling, he being under contract to Ross.

"Naturally the Maryland Racing Commission has no power to abrogate existing contracts. After making every effort, personally and through his trainer, to secure a hearing for Shilling and following Shilling's temporary reinstatement, Commander Ross back-tracked, refused to allow Shilling to ride, and has in this matter sought to embarrass, in the most emphatic way, the Maryland Racing Commission.

Up to Ross and Shilling.

"Of course, Shilling has some say in the matter himself. Maryland is only one State, and in view of the fact that Shilling is eager to ride everywhere, it may be well that Shilling should hesitate to ride in Maryland, thus avoiding prejudicing his chances of riding in States over which the Maryland Racing Commission has no jurisdiction. For the time being, however, it is clearly up to Commander Ross and clearly up to Shilling.

"The Maryland Racing Commission cannot make him ride, and cares very little whether he rides or not. It does care very much that he be given an opportunity to ride, if he and his employer so desire, and all the powers that be on the racetracks of Maryland cannot prevent him from riding should he and his employer so desire, this, of course, pending the discovery of any new evidence which should lead the Maryland Racing Commission to cancel the license."

ROSS DENIES BACKING DOWN.

Turfman Explains Reason for Keeping Shilling Off Manoeuvre.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 12.—"I don't know what the commission means by stating that I 'back-tracked,'" said Commander Ross tonight. "I thanked them for reinstating Shilling, and had intended riding him. However, their statement that I 'back-tracked' seems to be based on my refusal to let him ride Manoeuvre. Under no circumstances could any one have expected me to permit Shilling, the first time up, to ride an outside horse. That was the sole basis for my refusal yesterday.

"As all this caused so much talk, however, I could see no reason why I should force a fight by using Shilling today. I would much prefer to have the matter adjusted amicably, and I will do everything I can to that end. The Jockey Club has been asked to rehear Shilling's case in the presence of a member of the Maryland Commission and in my presence. If this can be done, I see no reason why we should precipitate a quarrel by riding Shilling now. I will not race any more horses this year, and as Shilling is under contract to me he will not ride unless he breaks his contract."

The Maryland Jockey Club's statement tonight follows:

"The Maryland Jockey Club is under no duty to intervene in any efforts of ex-Jockey Shilling to secure reinstatement.

"The Maryland Jockey Club's Autumn meeting was advertised to be held under the auspices of the Maryland Racing Commission. The Jockey Club and National Steeplechase and Hunt Association, and licensed with that understanding. Horse owners, trainers, jockeys, officials and others participated with that understanding.

"The Maryland Jockey Club was advised and believed it was bound to exhaust its powers to have that understanding fulfilled.

"The Maryland Jockey Club, of course, obeys rulings of the commission, unless to do so would violate obligations entered into, with the approval of the commission.

"Summarily to reinstate Shilling at Pimlico would have constituted a violation of rules of racing that threatened to involve all innocent participants in the meeting, with consequences so serious that the Maryland Jockey Club was bound to exhaust its lawful powers of resistance before submitting to superior force.

"This is all the Maryland Jockey Club has done, and constitutes its only interest in the controversy, which it deplores."

JOCKEY CLUB TAKES ACTION.

Grants Request for Hearing in Case of Jockey Shilling.

It was quite evident to all who visited the offices of the Jockey Club, at 18 East Forty-first Street yesterday, that something of unusual moment had come up to disturb the customary quiet and even tenor of that organization. Men whose names are bywords in the sphere of thoroughbred racing came and went, holding whispered conversations during which the names of Shilling, Ross, Foreman, Maryland, Pimlico and Commission were oft repeated.

The granting of a license by the Maryland State Racing Commission to Jockey Carrol Shilling to ride, and the Jockey Club of New York's rule that if a jockey under the ban is permitted to ride, all jockeys, owners and trainers operating at that track would be liable to such penalties as might be invoked against all who defy the Jockey Club's mandates, was the cause of the unrest.

Messrs. Belmont, Parsons, Sturgis, Knapp and Daingerfield were among those who were in conference during the afternoon regarding the delicate subject. After a lengthy discussion it was announced that the Jockey Club would hold a hearing on the case in the near future.

At the Jockey Club all those in any position to speak would say was that it was to be hoped that everything might be settled satisfactorily, while one of those present remarked that Commander Ross had the entire situation in the palm of his hand, and, by instructing Shilling, who is under contract to him, to devote his time to training and not think of accepting mounts, he could settle the whole affair in the easiest way.

The following official statement was given out:

"At a meeting of the Jockey Club held today, a quorum being present, the Secretary presented a letter from the Maryland Jockey Club asking for a hearing for Carrol Shilling at which Commander Ross and a member of the Board of Directors of the Maryland Jockey Club would be present.

"On motion duly seconded the Secretary was instructed to notify the Maryland Jockey Club that such a hearing would be granted, and to notify Commander Ross and Jockey Shilling to that effect.

"The Assistant Secretary of the Jockey Club was notified to arrange for such a meeting. Assistant Secretary Daingerfield and counsel representing the Jockey Club will attend the opening of the meeting of the Southern Maryland Agricultural and Breeders Association at Bowie tomorrow to consult with that organization."

CUTLER IS VICTOR AGAIN.

Completes Billiard Match with Taylor for Score of 1,500 to 497.

Playing some of the best billiards he has displayed this season, Albert Cutler, instructor at the Union Club, last night won the fifth and final block of his 1,500-point 18.2 balkline exhibition match from Alex Taylor at Maurice Daly's Academy. The score for the final night's play was Cutler 300, Taylor 91. Cutler ran out the game with an unfinished run of 140 and completed his string in six innings for an average of 50. The total score for the match was: Cutler 1,500, Taylor 497.

Boxing Has Paid the State $44,000 in Taxes to Date

The revenue to the State from boxing exhibitions conducted to date under the auspices of the Walker law has already exceeded the $40,000 appropriation which was provided for the first year's activities of the Boxing Commission and License Committee. Secretary Charles White yesterday disclosed that the State tax on boxing shows thus far held has totaled approximately $44,000. A total of 1,205 licenses have been issued to individuals in various parts of the State. Six hundred and three boxers have been licensed, as have 165 managers, 75 referees, 68 judges, timekeepers, 212 seconds, 34 trainers 26 time-keepers, 212 seconds, 34 trainers and physicians.

EXTERMINATOR WINS BIG MONEYED EVENT

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 21.—Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Exterminator, which is undoubtedly the greatest distance performer in this country, today won the $10,000 Pimlico Cup at two miles and a quarter, and in doing so completely smashed the track record. Getting home a neck in front of Commander J. K. L. Ross's Boniface, Exterminator covered the distance in 3:53, clipping exactly twenty seconds from the mark he established in the same race last year when he ran it in 4.13. This does not lower the American record. The American record for the distance is 3:39 1-5, and is held by Ethelbert.

Ten lengths back of Boniface, which fought it out gamely with the winner, came Rai Parr's Paul Jones, winner of the Kentucky Derby, and back of him, at various distances, were Donnacona, Mad Hatter, Damask, and, finally, The Trout, which was beaten nearly a furlong.

This race was the feature of the closing day of the Pimlico meeting, one of the most successful meetings ever concluded by the Maryland Jockey Club. The race also gave Exterminator a chance to redeem his defeat by Mad Hatter and others in the Pimlico Autumn Handicap, when he was held in a pocket until so near the finish that he never had a chance to extend himself or make a bid for the victory. Mr. Kilmer was dissatisfied in that race, so today he called on Buddy Ensor instead of Fairbrother to ride the big gelding. He felt that Ensor would put up a better judged ride.

It turned out that he was right, for Ensor did put up a remarkably fine ride, judging the pace with care and making his move in time to overtake the front runners and stall off the challenge that came from Boniface.

Exterminator carried 126 pounds, to 114 for Boniface, and conceded much weight to all the others, including Mad Hatter. Better managed throughout, Exterminator was never in danger of being pocketed today or of being cut off. Ensor rushed him into a contending position at the very start and took good care that none of the other riders should get him into a position from which he could not make Exterminator keep to the outside and clear, so that the horses with the early speed would not be in his way.

Donnacona went to the front and led for the first mile and a half. Mad Hatter was in second position through the early running, and Exterminator third. Boniface, which also received an excellent ride from Keogh, was kept well off the pace, and was next to last for the first mile or so.

The pace did not appear to be too fast, but it was made at a fairly good clip, as was shown by the time for the race. Donnacona, with only 103 pounds up, was able to carry the others along nicely.

On the second turn of the track the distance began to tell on some of the contenders. Mad Hatter, which has had much hard racing here, was the first to fly signals of distress. Going through the back stretch on the last lap he switched his tail in the air and signified that the race was just history with him. About the same time Donnacona wore out from his efforts and began to drop, and then Ensore took his time to move up with Exterminator. Before reaching the turn out of the back stretch he had assumed the lead and the big gelding was beginning to show speed.

Keogh waited for this turn in events to make his move on Boniface. He rushed up quickly and, rounding the turn, had come up to almost even terms with Exterminator, the others in the race by this time having been outpaced.

From this point to the finish it was a two-horse race. Just after being straightened out for home Boniface moved up with such a rush that he got his head in front of the Kilmer gelding, and for a second appeared to be the winner. But Exterminator raced with him for a sixteenth and in that distance made the Ross horse weaken.

Rush to Reserve Seats for Dempsey-Carpentier Bout

Although the important matter of setting a definite date and place for the world's heavyweight championship bout between Jack Dempsey and Georges Carpentier has not yet been attended to, Promoter Tex Rickard, who with Charles B. Cochran and William A. Brady is conducting the match, is daily in receipt of requests for choice seat reservations. Hardly a day passes that does not produce a request by mail or a personal request from a friend who meets Promoter Rickard in the street. The latest request for a reservation was received yesterday on behalf of the Argentine Ambassador, Dr. Tomas Le Breton, who is eager to reserve three ringside seats for the bout. Enrique Gil of the law firm of Aldao, Campos & Gil made the request. The 800 members of the Madison Square Garden Sporting Club have also submitted their applications to Promoter Rickard.

CUE CONTESTANTS KILL AN EVENING

Try Old Father Time—The Clock Stops While Renauld and Hurd Play On and On.

Father Time yawned and fell fast asleep, for even Father Time gets tired. The venerable old gentleman, with hands over his face, occupied his usual place in the National Recreation Academy in Brooklyn last night. He was supposed to be an interested spectator at a pocket billiard match between Jack Renauld and Clarence Hurd in the current tournament for the interborough championship of the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players. He's a game athlete, this Father Time. He has stuck to his task for—well, he's the original and only member of the Time family so you can tell how long he's been at it. He has taken a lot of punishment, but last night's was more than he could stand, and long before Renauld succeeded in defeating Hurd by a score of 100 to 95, the old man quit.

As the game dragged and dragged some more, one of the victims among the spectators glanced anxiously at the clock. His eyes bulged and he gasped as he nervously clutched his companion's arm and hoarsely whispered: "Look, they're actually killing time!" Sure enough, he had given up the struggle. The combined efforts of Renauld and Hurd were too much for him. The clock had stopped.

Evidently Hurd and Renauld had nothing else to do last night but play pocket billiards. They were out to spend the evening. And they succeeded. The evening was thoroughly spent when they got through. For nearly three hours they battled on the green cloth. For nearly three hours they created "nurses" all over the place. They made some good shots occasionally but for the most part, the playing was wearisome.

Hurd took the lead at the outset, and for a long time—he appeared a sure winner. He never got very far in front, but the fact that he was able to maintain his advantage under the conditions made it appear that he was practically sure to remain awake longer than his opponent. He led right up to the last frame. At that time the score stood 90 to 85 in his favor. Renauld did not appear to have a chance, but Hurd missed and left his rival in position to start something. Renauld not only started it but he finished it. He ran out the game with an unfinished cluster of fifteen balls.

MARYLAND RACING SHIFTS TO BOWIE

Season at Prince Georges Park Starts Today—Grounds Improved for the Meeting.

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 12.—Upward of 800 thoroughbreds belonging to the strongest Eastern stables have assembled at Prince Georges Park, Bowie, for the Fall meeting of the Southern Maryland Agricultural Association, which will begin tomorrow and continue through the month. Between $8,000 and $10,000 a day will be distributed among horsemen in the course of this Southern Maryland meeting, which will run without opposition anywhere in the United States until Thanksgiving, when the first of the Jefferson Park meetings at New Orleans will begin. The indications are that the patronage will be heavy. Never was the attendance on the races at Havre de Grace, Laurel Park and Pimlico so good as it has been this Fall. In anticipation of unusual crowds, the sheltering capacity of the grandstand at Prince Georges Park has been doubled, as has also the space beneath the stand devoted to betting. A fine new clubhouse has been constructed.

SHIFT BASEBALL SESSION.

Arbitration Board of N. A. of P. B. L. to Continue in Chicago.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 12.—The Arbitration Board of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues concluded its sessions in Kansas City and left at 6 o'clock tonight for Chicago, where sessions will be resumed tomorrow.

At today's meeting the board raised the Texas League from Class B to Class A. Decisions were rendered on various claims of clubs and players, all of a minor nature.

PEACE IN BASEBALL, LANDIS DICTATOR

which he emphasized his reasons in the following words:

"The opportunities for real service to baseball are limitless. It is a matter to which I have devoted nearly forty years on the question of policy. All I have to say is this: The only thing in anybody's mind now, is to make baseball what the millions of fans throughout the United States want it to be."

This climax to nearly a month of "crucial" days is believed to mark the beginning of a new era in professional baseball. For the first time in the history of the sport, its promoters have sought and obtained a supreme ruler who has not had, and never expects to have, any interest in the pastime other than that which is born in every red-blooded American. They have selected in Judge Landis a man in whom the men of all branches of sport, as well as business, have such great confidence that if one of his important decisions were ever questioned by a club owner, player or fan, the questioner would be in bad favor with the public and the burden of proof would rest with him. Hitherto, when a club owner has emitted a yell about a verdict of the National Commission, he has been sure of the sympathy of at least the fans of his own town. Now he will not get even that.

Resolutions Adopted.

The formality of reaching this settlement of their differences occupied the magnates several hours, during which they aired their varying views without the aid of league Presidents or other intermediaries. The magnates selected as their Chairman President Baker of the Philadelphia Nationals, who was obliged to leave to catch a train for the East before the conclusion was reached. His successor in the Chair was President Veick of the Chicago Cubs. After reaching an understanding informally, the meeting became formal enough to pass the following resolutions:

"That the Chairman of the Board of Control shall be elected by a majority vote of the clubs composing the American and National Leagues.

"That his successor be elected in the same manner and that this shall be incorporated in the new national agreement.

"That upon all questions of an interleague nature or in any matter coming up at a joint meeting of the two major leagues, the roll be called and, after voting by clubs of each league, if there be a division, then the American League shall cast one vote and the National League one vote. Should these two votes be at variance, then the Commissioner shall cast the deciding vote and there shall be no appeal therefrom.

"Further, that the Commissioner shall preside at all joint meetings."

A Compromise Measure.

The foregoing means that the club owners reached a compromise on the chief point of difference which has kept them apart for weeks. That was the controversy over the right to vote by clubs or by leagues. The National League contention that, in the selection of a governing body, the majority vote of the sixteen clubs should decide, was conceded by the American League. In all other matters it was conceded by the National League that interleague disputes should be decided by a vote of the leagues, each having an equal voice, but that, if no agreement could be reached in this way, the commission should have the right to decide without appeal.

In disposing of the question of associate members of the commission to act with Judge Landis, no final action was taken at this meeting, but it was provided that the President of the American League should appear before the commissioner as a special pleader in cases involving the American League and that the President of the National League should be empowered to act in a similar capacity in cases involving the veteran circuit. And it was further understood that these men should appear only in cases in which their respective leagues of clubs were concerned.

It was also stipulated that, if the minor leagues decide to operate with the majors in the new arrangement, they shall appoint a special pleader to appear before the commission in all cases in which a minor league or a minor club-owner may be involved.

Lasker Plan Approved.

President Herrmann of the Cincinnati Club introduced a resolution which was seconded by President Dunn of the Cleveland Club indorsing the Lasker plan without specifically mentioning its author.

Details of the new agreement for the control and perpetuation of baseball will be worked out by a draft committee to be composed of twelve members equally divided between the majors and minors. The minors already have named their six. The National League had nominated a committee of four consisting of Herrmann, Ebbets, Dreyfuss and Rupert, but this will be reduced to three and it is likely that President Heydler of the National League will be included on it. Likewise it is believed the committee of three to be appointed by the American League will include President Johnson of that circuit and Clark Griffith of the Washington Club, who is generally credited with having been the most efficacious factor in bringing about peace between the warring factions.

Statement of Owners.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—The following statement was issued by the sixteen club owners after today's meeting:

"At the joint meeting of the sixteen club owners of the major leagues held at the Congress Hotel today, Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis was unanimously elected as the head of organized baseball for a term of seven years. The clubs of the American and National Leagues were represented by club owners and club Presidents. All of the differences existing between members of the American and National Leagues were adjusted in such a manner that the decision was agreeable to all.

"The following men were in the meeting room:

"American League—Cleveland, James C. Dunn; Chicago, Charles A. Comiskey, Harry Grabiner; Boston, Harry Frazee; New York, Jacob Ruppert; Philadelphia, Theodore Shibe, Connie Mack; St. Louis, Phil D. C. Ball, Robert Quinn; Detroit, Frank C. Navin; Washington, Clark Griffith.

"National League—Boston, George W. Grant; Brooklyn, Charles H. Ebbets; Chicago, William L. Veeck, A. D. Lasker; Cincinnati, Garry Herrmann; New York, Charles Stoneham, John McGraw; Philadelphia, William F. Baker, Charles Roch; St. Louis, Sam Breadon; Pittsburgh, Barney Dreyfuss."

The following resolution was introduced by Garry Herrmann of the Cincinnati Club and seconded by James C. Dunn of the Cleveland Club and unanimously adopted:

"Resolved, That the meeting endorse the principles of ethical control of baseball proposed in the plan submitted to all professional league clubs by four major league club owners in October last, and instruct the Drafting Committee that the spirit contained therein be embodied in the new national agreement.

"That the unreviewable control of all ethical matters be invested in the Chairman of the Control Board."

"A Peace That Will Last."

"We've made a real peace—one that will last," was the comment of President Veeck of the Chicago National League Club as the meeting broke up. "The full details of the reorganization have not been settled, of course, but we expect to issue a formal statement soon telling all about it. It's enough to say now that the war is over and every one of us is mighty glad of it."

Chicago will be headquarters for the baseball commissioners, and offices will be opened here immediately.

If second and third members are chosen for the commission, it is virtually certain, according to the club owners, that Judge Charles A. MacDonald of Chicago will be one of them, although no vote was taken today. Judge MacDonald indirectly brought on the baseball war, for he started the baseball scandal investigation which brought about the proposals for reorganization of control of baseball.

Judge Landis was hearing a case in which $15,000 bribery in connection with an income tax was charged when the committee of magnates filed into the courtroom, hats in their hands. The Judge sharply banged his gavel and ordered them to make less noise. When informed of their mission he had them escorted to his chambers, where they were kept in waiting for forty-five minutes before the Judge would listen to the offer which increased his annual salary from $7,500 a year to $50,000.

While the magnates waited the Judge conducted the bribery trial in his usual vigorous fashion and gave vent to some scathing remarks about the men who falsify their income tax returns. Waiting on the Judge were Charles Comiskey, President of the Chicago American League club; William Veeck, President of the Chicago Nationals; Jacob Ruppert of the New York Americans, Clark Griffith of Washington, Charles Ebbets of Brooklyn, Garry Herrmann of Cincinnati Barney Dreyfus of

PRINCETON INVADED BY FOOTBALL HORDE

ROPER'S MEN FAVORITES

Betting Is Light, with Yale Rooters Asking 5 to 3—Both Teams Fit for Battle.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 12.—The quiet old college town of Princeton has blossomed overnight into a hustling, crowded and brilliantly colored rendezvous of football fanatics, all motivated by a single force, the Princeton-Yale game tomorrow. Cars line the streets and are parked two deep on Prospect Avenue, which contains Princeton's long line of beautiful upper class clubs, and the freshly imported metropolitan police force on duty in Nassau Street is finding its hands well filled by the stream of traffic.

Although the biggest influx of visitors will not begin until the first of the special trains, scheduled to leave the Pennsylvania Station in New York on a ten-minute schedule all morning, disgorges its load of human freight, still the town has already assumed its "big game" hues. For the peddlers of orange and black footballs, of blue pennants, of partisan hued feathers and rival buttons have already installed themselves in likely places with an eye to the morrow's business, and the pretty girls, furcoated and silken-hosed, who add so much to the spirit of "Big Three" football, have already invaded Old Nassau by the hundreds as guests at the Senior Promenade, which opens tonight. Classes have been suspended for the week-end in honor of the occasion, and the carefree students are adding their numbers to the steadily increasing stream of "old grads" who are coming to town to spend "Yale game night" at the clubs of their undergraduate days.

Crowd All for Princeton.

As yet the crowd is a Princeton one and orange and black are the all-prevailing colors tonight, for the crowd of Blue rooters will not arrive until morning. The Tiger colors float from many of the buildings on Nassau Street, and Princeton banners adorn the windows of every store. Venders of dolla sandwiches, 25-cent apples and hot dogs are making ready to enrich themselves on tomorrow's crowd, for football fans are always hungry. The only person or persons who have an even chance for dining peacefully tomorrow are the grads, who have reserved tables at their clubs, and the newspaper men, who will lunch as the guests of The Daily Princetonian in the latter's offices.

Coach Bill Roper assembled his players at 3 o'clock in the afternoon and spirited them away into the secrecy of the stadium, from which he barred even the [illegible] of The Daily Princetonian, who has not missed a drill this Fall. The men came up the runway half an hour later, perspiring and swathed in blankets, but Roper, the last man to leave the gate, had only his usual "light signal drill" to announce.

Roper did make an emphatic statement which he hoped all papers would carry, requesting all airplanes to keep away from the stadium during tomorrow's game. Their presence at the games has been a source of great danger to the spectators and detriment to the players all Fall.

Roper Not Decided.

Roper said that he had not yet decided between Joe Scheerer and Frank Murrey at fullback and Ed Stinson and Chad Davis at right end. Otherwise the Tigers will start the same team that began the game against Harvard last Saturday.

Betting thus far has been decidedly light, due to the failure of adherents of the two teams to get together on the matter of odds. Princeton supporters are willing to bet their shirts on the game at even money, but the Eli rooters feel that Princeton's drawn battle with the powerful Crimson machine last week entitles them to odds of 3 to 5. The prevailing odds here tomorrow are likely to be 5 to 4 in favor of Princeton, with a strong possibility of even money before the game begins.

Princeton is counting heavily on two stars tomorrow, Don Lourie and Stan Keck. Lourie will direct the team at quarterback, and his backers, who are legion on Princeton's campus, firmly believe that he will surpass his feats in the Harvard game, where he was handicapped by a concealed injury, now entirely healed. Keck is Princeton's ace in the line and has proved himself the best opener of holes on Princeton's squad.

Princeton is unusually lucky in entering her biggest game of the season with the squad in fine condition. Rutan is the only player of 'Varsity calibre who is on the injured bench.

Game Begins at 2.

The game will begin early tomorrow and the lucky holders of the 52,000 tickets to the game should plan to get to the stadium some time in advance of the starting hour, which is 2 o'clock.

The Yale team did not practice in the stadium this afternoon, as it had been rumored it would. Instead the big Blue squad will reach Princeton just before the game and will start against the Tigers without trying the air currents. Much has been written of the draughts that blow from the open ramparts in the concrete grandstands of the "Big Three," but they will have little effect on the punts.

The demand for tickets to the game continues, although the entire stadium has been sold out for the past two weeks. The Princeton management has built a wooden stand at the south of the field, in the open end of the stadium, which will handle 5,000 extra persons, and three tiers of wooden benches have been erected on the promenade at the top of the stadium itself. But even with these additions the athletic office has refused almost as many applications as it has honored.

The lineup of the Yale team just received in Princeton tonight indicates that the battle of the Captains Callahan will not come off as scheduled. The Yale leader has shifted from centre to right guard, while Captain Mike of Princeton will play centre as usual. Despite the nominal change of places, the two brothers will meet frequently during the game, for Mike plays roving centre on the defense and both teams use a shifting line.

YALE SQUAD IN NEW YORK.

Players Quote Football History to Show They'll Win Today.

The Yale football squad, in charge of Coach Tad Jones and accompanied by a delegation of old-time football stars at New Haven and a number of undergraduates, reached the Murray Hill Hotel about 9 o'clock last night. The delegation numbered seventy-five. The players were sent to bed shortly after their arrival, while other members of the party engaged in reunions with New York alumni, who never miss a trip to the Murray Hill on the eve of a Yale game in Tigertown.

The program for the football players today is breakfast at 8 o'clock and a trip to the Pennsylvania Station shortly after 9. The Elis will arrive in Princeton shortly before noon and have luncheon there. After the game all will return to New York and the Murray Hill will again be their headquarters tonight, the return to New Haven being scheduled for tomorrow.

Although the Tigers are favored in the betting, the Yale players showed not the slightest sign of pessimism about the game at Princeton today. They pointed out that only once in the long series of football games with Princeton has a Tigertown team been able to win in two successive years. In 1898 Princeton won and the Tigers repeated in 1899. As Yale lost last year the Elis believe that they will win today.

YALE BIDS GOOD-BYE TO BULLDOG ELEVEN

Eli Team Gets Great Sendoff—Has Few Surprises to Spring—Very Little Betting.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 12.—Yale said good-bye to its football eleven at 7 o'clock this evening, when the first and second string players left this city on a special car for New York. Several hundred undergraduates marched to the railroad station and cheered every individual player and coach as they boarded the train. The ovation was one of the lustiest ever given an Eli eleven when it started for Jungletown. Twenty more players will leave here tomorrow morning, with a thousand undergraduates, for Princeton. Several hundred students went to New York City tonight to enjoy Broadway musical comedies. The entire Yale delegation will go to Princeton tomorrow on a special train. Tonight the football squad went to the Murray Hill Hotel.

Head Coach Tad Jones tonight adhered to the lineup which he announced last night, including the decision to start Herbert Kempton at quarterback and to play Howard Campbell, a third string halfback, at left half. The selection has been one of the surprises of the season, but Jones has implicit confidence in Campbell, whom he taught football at Exeter, with Kempton, and the forward passing combination of Campbell and Kempton is expected to prove troublesome tomorrow to the Tigers.

Aldrich Not Liable to Play.

Malcolm Aldrich will probably not be sent into tomorrow's game. His injured ankle troubled him badly today, and the coaches are unwilling to risk using him. Thorne Murphy is still lame, and the fact that his recently sprained ankle prevented him from taking even one out of seven field goals against Brown on Saturday is largely responsible for the decision of the coaches to hold him in reserve instead of starting him against the Tigers. Jones said tonight that there is still a bare possibility that Murphy will be started, and the coaches fully expect to play him during one period.

Captain Tim Callahan will wear a heavy brace over his injured elbow, but the coaches feared that his passing game would be badly affected if he were switched back to centre, and they will use him at guard. His condition and that of John Acosta, his fellow guard, who was out of the game for five weeks and who returned to the lineup only last Monday, have shown rapid improvement all the week.

Doc Jordan has apparently entirely recovered from the attack of tonsilitis which kept him in the infirmary last week, and the coaches have been so deeply impressed by his improvement that they will start him at fullback, where he proved to be half the driving power of the freshman attack last year.

No Practice for Scrubs.

Only the first and second string players reported at the Bowl this afternoon, the scrubs not even donning their uniforms. An hour was spent in signal drill and a dummy scrimmage with the second team followed by forward passing with Kempton heaving long tosses to Dilworth and Cutler and drop kicking by Aldrich and French, both of whom were in good field-goal form.

The coaches included Tad Jones, Dr. Arthur Brides, Johnny Field and Guy Hutchinson. Harry Vaughan and George Moseley. While Yale's strategy has not been uncovered in practice, enough has been exhibited to assure a heavy line-ramming attack tomorrow, headed by Frank Kelley and by Jordan, a swift end-running game by Campbell and Kempton, and long quarterback tosses by Kempton.

Yale has never disclosed split formations or any varieties of the open game, with the exception of long forward passes by Kempton, but secret practice has been maintained daily throughout the season and the whole college believes Tad Jones has a number of quiet surprises tucked away in the repertoire of the eleven. Jones's general campaign tomorrow will be based upon the theory that a few effective plays disguised by threats of an opposite nature, perfectly manipulated, are the best ground gainers.

Very Little Betting on Game.

Only a small fraction of the usual betting on a Yale-Princeton game has been in evidence, and the change is asserted by the undergraduates to be directly due to the national baseball scandal. No pools have been made up at Yale among the undergraduates and the usual exchange of bets between Yale and Princeton undergraduates has been omitted this Fall. A few friendly Yale wagers have been laid, Princeton backers being compelled to give terms of 7 to 5.

The coaches tonight announced the following lineup to start the game and substitutes to replace them: Cutler, left end; Mackay, left tackle; Acosta, left guard; Cross, centre; Callahan, right guard; Walker, right tackle; Dilworth, right end; Kempton, quarterback; Campbell, left halfback; Kelley, right halfback; Jordan, fullback.

Substitutes—Shevlin and Bean, ends; Quaile and Trowbridge, tackles; Cruikshank and Herr, guards; Gurnsey, centre; Neville and Dan Kelley, quarterbacks; French and Stabeck, halfbacks; Webb, fullback.

Because of the recent injury to Bill Galvin, Nathaniel Gurnsey has been named as first substitute centre. Galvin is not likely to be used. Of the substitutes Bean and Stabeck were the last picked. They have been on the third eleven until the past week.

The officials will be: Referee—W. J. Crowell, Swarthmore; field judge—W. A. Schwartz, Brown; umpire—Thomas J. Thorp, Columbia; linesman—George N. Bankart, Dartmouth.

Montclair Academy Wins.

FISHER BELIEVES SECONDS CAN WIN

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 12.—The Harvard football coaches intend to abide by yesterday's decision to withhold their first string 'Varsity players from the game with Brown University in the stadium tomorrow afternoon. The coaches at the same time have expressed greatest confidence in the ability of the auxiliaries to beat Robinson's team, and Bob Fisher, the head coach, states that if his substitutes do not give a satisfactory account of themselves tomorrow he will be much surprised.

Some of the men whom he needs for next week's game at New Haven will not be available to play tomorrow if things take a turn for the bad, for Coach Fisher will take with him to Princeton Captain Horween, Fitzgerald, Woods, Havemeyer, Hubbard and Kane. The other Harvard scouts will be Percy Haughton, Leo Leary, Lothrop Withington, Mal Logan and Dick Wigglesworth.

The Crimson's lineup against Brown will probably include Gaston at right end. Gaston is the wing man who, until hurt a few weeks ago, seemed sure of a 'Varsity place. He will alternate with Finley, who has played in a few of the games this Fall. Macomber will be on the left wing. The tackles will be Lockwood and Sedgwick, the latter promising to regain his berth on the 'Varsity early next week. Holmes and Brown will play guard, with Tierney at centre. Quarterback Johnson will have Hamilton, Humphrey and Gratwick for his backfield.

All four of the men behind the line have played at least two years of 'Varsity football at Cambridge, and on the forward line Tierney is the only man who has not been through the mill for two seasons. The reserves have spent the week preparing defenses against Brown's ingenious attack.

TEST TODAY FOR ILLINOIS.

Must Beat Wisconsin to Enter Title Game with Clean Slate.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—The University of Illinois football eleven faces at Madison, Wis., tomorrow the turning point in its 1920 schedule. Coach Zuppe's men must defeat Wisconsin, one of the strongest elevens in the Western Conference, in order to meet Ohio State the following Saturday with a clean slate in the contest which will decide the big ten championship.

Chicago battles Michigan at Ann Arbor for the first time since 1904, and Purdue plays Northwestern at Evanston, both being Conference games.

In the Middle West, and not in the Conference, Nebraska and Kansas meet at Lawrence, Kan., in their annual struggle. Indiana goes out of the Conference to play Notre Dame. Ohio State has no game.

Ohio State and Illinois are each undefeated, and each has achieved four victories. Wisconsin has lost to Ohio State. A victory for Wisconsin tomorrow, and one over Chicago a week later, would give the Crimson eleven a standing of four games won and one lost. Illinois would then go into the Ohio State game with the same standing.

Victory for Illinois tomorrow would, therefore, give them a standing of five and one, with Ohio and Wisconsin each having one less victory. On the strength of this standing Coach Zuppke's men could claim the championship.

FORDHAM REGULARS ABSENT

Eleven's Lineup Against George Washington Still Uncertain.

George Washington University and Fordham meet this afternoon for the first time in the football history of the two institutions. The Southerners arrived here early this morning, determined to give a good account of themselves in their first local appearance.

Yesterday's practice at Fordham Field was comparatively mild. Dumoe sent his charges through a short workout in running down punts and throwing and receiving forward passes and wound up the session with a snappy signal drill. This was followed by a blackboard talk in the dressing room by Coaches Dumoe and McDonald.

The Maroon lineup in this afternoon's game is still a matter of conjecture. In the signal drill yesterday both Moran and Lesko worked at right guard and it is uncertain which man Dumoe intends to start against the visitors. Two of the Fordham regulars will be out of the lineup this afternoon, Halloran and Duffy, halfback and guard, respectively, are still on the hospital list and their places will be filled by Meyers and Walsh.

The probable lineup follows:

FORDHAM.		GEO. WASHINGTON.
Fitzpatrick	L.E.	Hume
Fallon	L.T.	Sandys
Walsh	L.G.	White
Gorman	C.	P. Loehler
Moran	R.G.	Gronna
Vergara	R.T.	Hawley
Ryan	R.E.	J. Loehler
Noonan	Q.B.	McAllister
Meyers	L.H.B.	Springston
Kearns	R.H.B.	Daily
Gately	F.B.	Kay

ROSENBERG IS VICTOR.

Gets Decision Over Allen in Bout at East New York A. A.

Dave Rosenberg, former amateur welterweight champion, gained the judges' decision over Red Allen of Brooklyn last night in their fifteen-round bout which featured the card at the East New York A. A. Rosenberg's cleverness, speed, and heavy-hitting ability proved too great a combination for Allen to combat. The result was that Rosenberg led in every one of the fifteen rounds, carrying the fight continually and forcing Allen before him in a sustained assault.

Billy Stearns of Minneapolis gained the judges' award over Jimmy Paul in a ten-round bout which preceded the principal contest. In a six-round bout Volley Nugent was awarded the decision over Hughie Reilly. A scheduled four-round bout which opened the show resulted in a victory for Young Joe Rivers over Eddie White in two rounds.

FOOTBALL SEASON IN FULL FRUITION

At Least a Dozen Games of Interest and Importance Staged on Gridiron Today.

Lovers of football are right in the middle of the plum orchard now and ripe luscious fruit meets their eyes in every direction. It's an embarrassment of riches for those who find in the galloping, writhing, wrenching convolutions of twenty-two athletes composed of pure whalebone a soul-stirring joy.

And yet it isn't really embarrassing after all, for one branch extends such a particularly attractive and inviting plum that it will attract today the great majority of fans to the exclusion of other juicy morsels. To use an absolutely novel and untried simile, which has just occurred to the writer and which will be protected as soon as the copyright laws can be invoked, the Palmer Stadium in Princeton, where the Bulldog and the Tiger will cross fangs today, will be the mecca for the football throngs.

Faith and Hope are rampant and ubiquitous around both Princeton and New Haven this crisp and cold (unless the Weather Bureau has deluded us) morning, but their sister Charity is absent. Charity finds a gridiron battle no kind of a spectacle at all, for she shrinks from anything in the way of a scrap. And this afternoon in the cleared portion of the jungle at Princeton there will be, unless all signs are conspiring to deceive us, a scrap of the scrappiest kind.

Both bodies of undergraduates, those to whom blue is the color of the garments of the gods and those who much prefer a tasty combination of orange and black, have plenty of faith in their respective elevens and are surcharged with hope of victory. In the matter of confidence, however, the Princetonians are the better equipped. Several hundreds of them journeyed to Cambridge a week ago and saw there a sparkling game which greatly enhanced the prestige of Captain Callahan's coterie in the eyes of its supporters as well as in the $6,000 other eyes which stared from the stadium seats.

Think They Have the Edge.

All in all, Princetonians became convinced that they have quite a football eleven. They think Tad Jones's athletes are doomed to defeat today. They have dissected the records of the two teams with much satisfaction save in one respect, and that is the comparatively easy thrashing of the West Virginia huskies by Yale, while the Mountaineers gave the Tigers their paws full a week later. In rebuttal of this, however, they point to Yale's defeat by Cavanaugh's Boston College men and to the tight squeak which the Blue had against Brown.

Perhaps second in general interest among today's encounters comes the Harvard-Brown game at Cambridge, for this as well as the Princeton-Yale fracas is counted upon to furnish a line on the respective chances of Harvard and Yale next Saturday in the great bowl at New Haven. The Providence eleven gave Yale a real battle a week ago, even though Ted Jones sent most of his stars into the lineup. It is possible that Harvard will not deploy her full backfield strength this afternoon, but unless he cares to risk a beating, Coach Fisher will hardly take very great liberties with Robinson's proteges, who are at the top of their form just now.

The belated dash of the Quakers, who surprised the football world last week by fighting to the last ditch against the Panthers, adds tremendously to the interest in the Dartmouth-Pennsylvania game to be played at Franklin Field this afternoon. The earlier showing of the Penn machine had been dismal and a fortnight ago most of the soothsayers were prophesying sound wallopings for the Quakers at the hands of Pittsburgh and Dartmouth, as well as a quite possible defeat by Columbia. The uprising against Pitt, however, has aroused a new respect for the team with which Heisman has been working so patiently. Dartmouth is likely to win, but will take part in a regular football game instead of the expected practice canter.

Columbia to Meet Cornell.

Columbia journeys to Ithaca, where two teams, which are seeking only a consolation prize, will contend. Of course, Cornell's exploits thus far entitle her to such compliment as is embodied in a prophecy of victory today, but the pilgrims from Morningside Heights have potential strength seldom revealed by them this season, and may take it into their heads to put up a merry battle.

Among the tussles of importance that between Washington and Jefferson and Pittsburgh at Forbes Field takes high place. On the face of the evidence, the Panthers should win, but the Presidents are powerful, and it is likely to prove a battle royal.

Lehigh will encounter Penn State at South Bethlehem and Rutgers will have a setto with the Mountaineers at Morgantown. Other important games carded for today include Williams vs. Wesleyan at Williamstown, Boston College vs. Tufts at Boston, Colby vs. Holy Cross at Portland, Colgate vs. St. Bonaventure at Hamilton, Hamilton vs. Rochester at Clinton, Syracuse vs. Maryland at Syracuse, Trinity vs. Amherst at Hartford, Union vs. Hobart at Schenectady and Georgia Tech vs. Georgetown at Atlanta.

The opponents of the two service teams will be Bowdoin for the West Pointers and South Carolina for the Middies.

Bates will come to Ohio Field for a skirmish with N. Y. U. and Fordham will entertain the George Washington eleven at Fordham Field.

An annual preparatory school classic will be staged at Andover, whither will come the Exeter team. To the students of these two famous academies this game outranks slightly the Harvard-Yale imbroglio of the coming week.

N. Y. U. TO MEET BATES.

Coach Gargan's Eleven Is Prepared for Hard Battle Today.

New York University's football team held final practice for the game with Bates today on Ohio Field yesterday afternoon. Coach Gargan put his men through a light workout consisting chiefly of signal practice and the rehearsing of several trick formations which the team has been saving for the Stevens game. These plays will probably be tried out this afternoon against Bates.

Little has been heard of the Bates team this year, but a hard game is expected by the Violet. This is the first appearance of this college on the Violet schedule. Gargan has been working his men hard all week and all are in good condition. He has been forced to make a couple of changes in his lineup owing to the injuries received by Levin, the star end, and Pitt, the giant tackle, who will be out for the rest of the season. In Levin's place Bacile will start. He has shown up well in practice this week. Huggenweg, in Pitt's position, is expected to give a good account of himself.

No Springfield-Williams Game.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Nov. 12.—Plans for a post-season football game on Thanksgiving Day between Springfield College and Williams have been given up with the announcement by the athletic authorities here that such a course was not approved. Williams has always closed its season with the Amherst game, and it was decided that there was no good cause for changing the custom this Fall.

Wabash Eleven Wins, 27 to 7.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind., Nov. 12.—Wabash College's football team was not extended in its game with Western Normal School here this afternoon, showing superiority at all stages of the game. The final score was 27 to 7.

COLUMBIA'S ELEVEN ARRIVES IN ITHACA

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 12.—With the arrival of the Columbia football team this evening, the stage was completely set for the long-waited Cornell-Columbia game on Schoellkopf Field tomorrow afternoon. Led by Coach Buck O'Neill, the New York eleven arrived from Syracuse tonight and went to the New Ithaca Hotel, where the Blue and White will stay until game time tomorrow. O'Neill refused to make any predictions as to the outcome of the tussle, but he showed that he has great confidence in the fighting spirit of his warriors and is looking for them to show a complete reversal from the form displayed in the Swarthmore defeat last saturday.

The largest football crowd in Cornell's athletic history will attend the game, the athletic authorities said tonight. Not even the old-time battles between Cornell and Michigan attracted as big a throng as will watch the big Red team clash with O'Neill's Manhattan eleven tomorrow. Tickets for even the extra seats in the stadium have been snatched up and there is still a steady demand. A delegation in the neighborhood of 500 is said to be coming from New York by train, automobile and sight-seeing bus.

Columbia's late arrival today prevented it from working out on Schoellkopf Field, and the Blue and White will probably not get a glimpse at the field before the game. Gil Dobie, as pessimistic as ever, sent the Cornell 'Varsity squad through a light and not overlong signal drill this afternoon and polished off the offensive preparations for the battle. Dobie is doubtful about the result, but his opinion is not shared by the student body, which is looking for a decisive victory over the visitors from New York. The gigantic Cornell line will outweigh that of Columbia, and the Ithacans are looking for the Red and White forwards to get the jump on their opponents as far as offensive play is concerned. There was little betting tonight, due to the absence of the Columbia rooters.

Dobie will probably use Munns at end tomorrow because of his punting ability. Carey will start at fullback with Jewett held in reserve. No changes in the Columbia lineup were announced by O'Neill. The backfield will likely be Harris, Thornton, Canapary and Moszczenski.

The probable lineups follow:

CORNELL.		COLUMBIA.
Gouinlock	L.E.	Pulleyn
Knauss	L.T.	Modarelli

VICTORY FOR HAMILTON.

Spectacular Runs Feature Triumph Over Newark Junior College.

Hamilton Institute's football eleven defeated the Newark Junior College team yesterday on the City Athletic Field, Newark, N. J., by the score of 21 to 2. Spectacular runs and a recovery of a Newark fumble gave the Hamilton team the victory. Mitchell, halfback, scored the first touchdown in the opening period on a forty-five-yard dash down the field. In the third quarter Bach raced ninety yards for the second touchdown, and in the final period Hensey, left end, recovered a Newark fumble, and gave Hamilton its third touchdown. Cherry, centre, kicked the three goals from touchdown.

Ecuadorean Wins at Tennis.

EASTON, Pa., Nov. 12.—Eduardo Mena of Ecuador, South America, today won the final round of the Fall handicap tennis tournament of Lafayette College, defeateing Captain Noble Shumway, 6-3, 8-6, 3-6, 6-3. Mena was captain of the tennis team during the 1919 and 1920 seasons.

FIGHTERS WARNED AGAINST COLLUSION

Boxing Commission Doesn't View with Favor Coming Leonard-Kelly Bout.

Evidence that the Boxing Commission does not intend to permit inferior bouts or to tolerate ring matches which do not come up to expectations from a competitive standpoint was supplied yesterday when the commission issued a statement concerning the coming fifteen-round bout between Benny Leonard, lightweight champion, and Harlem Eddie Kelly, scheduled for the Commonwealth Sporting Club on Wednesday night. In its edict the commission warns the principals that, in the event that the contest develops evidence of collusion between the principals or is not fought strictly on its merits, payments to the boxers will be withheld and positive action will be taken against them.

The attitude of the commission with regard to the coming match was reflected in the following statement issued after the contest had received due deliberation:

"The New York State Boxing Commission does not view with favor the proposed Leonard-Kelly bout, scheduled for Nov. 17, at the Commonwealth Sporting Club, and, in the interests of boxing, announces that if the bout appears to be a sham or collusive contest, the commission will order the payments withheld and will take positive action against the boxers. If it was humanly possible to determine in advance that the contest would be a sham or collusive one, the commission would prohibit it. The commission will be most careful in the assignment of officials."

This action by the commission came upon the receipt of the bouts listed by the Commonwealth Club for its show next week. The fact that Kelly had been knocked out by Lew Tendler, Philadelphia lightweight, in the fifth round of a scheduled eight-round battle at Philadelphia Monday night prompted the commission to warn of possible punishment in the event that the bout does not meet with official approval. The club officials have announced that they will conduct the bout as originally scheduled. The commission took the attitude that Tendler's victory over Kelly, coupled with the Quaker boxer's graceful withdrawal from a prospective match against Leonard, accentuated Kelly's apparent inferiority when compared with Leonard. The lightweight champion, it was felt, admittedly outclasses any man of his weight in the ring today, but this condition was emphasized in the case of Kelly through his recent defeat by Tendler, a boxer who declines to enter the ring against the titleholder.

In issuing the statement it was made known that the commission was powerless to prohibit the match. The law, it was explained, did not empower the sport-governing officials to interfere with prospective bouts without some positive advance knowledge that the bout would not be fought strictly on its merits. The point is covered in Section 16 of the law, which provides penalty for sham or collusive exhibitions, as follows:

"Every such corporation and the officers thereof, and any such physician, referee, judge, timekeeper, boxer, manager, trainer and second, who shall conduct, give or participate in any sham or collusive boxing or sparring match or exhibition shall be deprived of his license by the commission."

LEWIS WINS AT SNOOKER.

Defeats Marks by Score of 56 to 49 in Tourney at Doyle's.

Nat Lewis defeated Leo Marks last night in the snooker pool tournament at Doyle's Broadway billiard room by a score of 56 to 49. The winner conceded the loser a handicap of fifteen points and again the game came down to the black ball. The match was interesting from the first shot, for, after Lewis had scored eight in his first attempt, there never was a time when the players were separated by ten points.

After all the reds were gone the score showed a difference of two points in Marks's favor. He knocked off the yellow, but Lewis made the green and brown. Marks then by two splendid efforts pocketed the blue and pink, but fell down on the game ball, as he feared scratch. This miss cost him the game, for after three safety shots each Lewis put the game on ice by a strong cut shot in the right hand corner.

In the pocket billiard handicap Harry Beane won from George Whittle by a score of 65 to 51. Both men played for 65. This match was also closely contested, although the winner was favored by the breaks. Earlier in the evening Charles Le Huquet won a well played match from C. K. Smith by a score of 50 to 32.

LEONARD DEFEATS LOUGHLIN IN BOUT

Lightweight Champion Scores Easy Ten-Round Victory in New Jersey Ring.

CAMDEN, N. J., Nov. 12.—Benny Leonard, world's lightweight champion, made a veritable chopping block of K. O. Willie Loughlin of Bethlehem, Pa., in their return bout of ten rounds here tonight at the Camden Sportsmen's Club. Leonard, keeping up a rapid-fire attack from start to finish of the contest, carried off the honors in every round. Only the Bethlehem boxer's remarkable ability to assimilate punishment kept him on his feet to hear the bell clang at the end of the tenth round.

A crowd which taxed the capacity of the clubhouse witnessed the bout. Every seat was taken before the principals in the main event entered the ring. Every inch of space was filled and thousands, outside the club portals, clamored vainly for admission after the doors had been ordered closed.

Despite an advantage of six and a half pounds in weight, Loughlin was no match for the speedy, hard-hitting champion. For a time it seemed that Loughlin was destined to suffer a similar defeat to that which was handed him in the previous meeting between the pair, when Leonard knocked out his rival. Loughlin's endurance and his propensities for absorbing Leonard's punches and weathering storms kept the Bethlehem boxer on his feet to hear the final bell clang musically.

Several times during the bout Leonard staggered his adversary with heavy, well-timed rights to the jaw, but always Loughlin covered effectively and sought the beneficial respite of the clinches. In the second round Loughlin landed with a left jab which drew the blood from Leonard's mouth, but the Bethlehem boxer was subjected to a vicious assault which made him regret that he had aroused the ire of the title holder. In the third session Leonard started a crimson flow from Loughlin's mouth with a succession of left jabs, and laid the foundation for a badly battered nose and two badly swollen eyes with which Loughlin left the ring.

Leonard weighed 137 pounds and Loughlin 143½.

LEYGUES ANNOUNCES REPARATIONS STEPS

Note to British Ambassador Confirms the Course to be Followed.

GO TO GENEVA IN FEBRUARY

Representatives of Germany "to Participate in Consultative Capacity as at Spa," Note Says.

PARIS, Nov. 12.—A definite agreement concerning the procedure to be followed with regard to the reparations due by Germany was reached today between the French and British Governments.

The agreement calls for a meeting at Brussels of allied technical experts with the Germans, and also a meeting of the allied Premiers in Geneva in the first half of February to discuss the total amount due and Germany's capacity for payment.

M. Leygues, the French Premier, in a note to the British Ambassador, the Earl of Derby, notified the Ambassador of the definite agreement between France and Great Britain based on the four points previously arrived at.

The four points referred to are as follows: First, a Brussels conference of experts; second, a meeting at Geneva between representatives of the Allies and the German Government; third, consideration by the Reparation Commission of the findings of the first two conferences, and, fourth, a meeting of the Premiers to consider the decisions of the Reparation Commission.

The note shows that the Geneva conference of the allied Ministers will be held after a plebiscite has been taken in Upper Silesia, or at the latest in the first fortnight of February. It also indicates that the fourth stage of the meeting of the Premiers will discuss the plebiscite and sanctions, and that steps will be taken to obtain the consent of other States interested to the procedure arranged.

The following is the text of the note sent by M. Leygues on Nov. 11 to the British Embassy in Paris notifying the agreement reached between France and Great Britain upon the procedure to be followed on the reparations question:

"The French Premier highly appreciates the spirit of cordiality with which the British Government has agreed in a general way to the procedure proposed by the French Government, and the examination into the reparations questions will be as follows:

"First—A meeting at Brussels of technical experts of the Allies with German experts. The experts afterward will report to their respective Governments the minutes of the proceedings, which will be communicated to the Reparations Commission.

"Second—A conference of allied Ministers will meet at Geneva after the plebiscite in Upper Silesia, but not later than the second week in February in order to discuss the reparations question as a whole, the total amount of the debt and to examine into Germany's capacity for payment. Representatives of the German Government will participate in this conference in a consultative capacity, as at Spa. The members of the Geneva conference will report to their respective Governments, after which each Government shall inform its representatives on the Reparations Commission the conclusion it has reached concerning the report of its representatives at the Geneva conference.

"Third—The Reparations Commission will then proceed, in conformity with the terms of the Versailles treaty, to fix the total amount and the method of payments of sums due by Germany, reporting to the allied powers its decision upon Germany's capacity for payment.

"Fourth—A meeting of the Supreme Council to examine into other measures to be taken, including pledges, securities and sanctions.

"Fifth—Negotiations will be opened with other interested powers to obtain their consent to this mode of procedure."

JUDGE QUITS OVER ELECTION

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Nov. 12.—Judge L. A. Christy, Democrat, and minority member of the Kanawha County Court, announced his resignation today, because of the "verdict of the people at the polls," Nov. 2, when a Republican was re-elected to the court. A third member of the court is a Republican also.

Judge Christy said in his letter of resignation that his action was not due to political or personal dislike of other members of the court, but to the decision of the voters.

ing remains but to join with the other group, as above all we are Mexicans and we will prefer to fight our own struggle in our country without regard to its influence upon other countries.

"The oil men," said this politician, "do not realize what they are doing. If they persist in demanding the right to place conditions for recognition or make our laws for us they may have a rude awakening. Do they realize that if the Bolsheviki get the upper hand there will not remain enough oil for any one to fight over? For the idea of the Bolsheviki seems to be destruction of everything that capitalists can use."

Mexico City's extreme left Bolshevist group met last night to discuss a general strike. More than six hundred members were present, with a small group of well-dressed laborers dominating. The majority of the members of the Mexican communists were dressed in overalls, indicating that they were mostly unskilled laborers.

Foreign agitators are arriving in Mexico almost daily, large numbers coming from the United States, the I. W. W. sending a continual stream of Spanish-speaking representatives here to build up their organization. Russian and German agitators and agents of the Bolsheviki arrive at Vera Cruz on European steamers.

The Government to date has settled over ninety strikes, but a large number of threatened strikes are looming for the future.

The new President, backed by moral and financial support of the United States, may control the situation, but unless moral assistance is given soon a solution of the problem will be impossible and Mexico will become the Russian Soviet of America, is the feeling of conservative leaders here.

Land Owners Fight Article 27.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Land owners in the Mexican state of Jalisco have organized to fight article 27 of the Mexican constitution because of its alleged confiscatory provisions, according to Mexico City newspapers arriving here today. The newspapers also state that the leaders of the Jalisco opposition to article 27, the first organized attack on the article by Mexicans, propose to enlist in their fight landowners throughout the republic.

British Concession for Oil.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The Mexican Embassy today announced that a concession to prospect and develope oil fields in Lower California had been granted by the Mexican Government to Alfred Mackenzie, an Englishman.

The concession is understood to cover 200 square miles of land along the Pacific coast.

President de la Huerta has approved plans for an excursion of Mexican editors, writers and newspaper men to the United States which, the embassy stated, would tend to foster friendship and better relations between the two countries.

W. D. VANDERLIP'S BACKERS.

Los Angeles Financiers Are Named in Siberian Concession Scheme.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 12.—Los Angeles financiers reported as backing Washington D. Vanderlip of Los Angeles in his negotiations with the Soviet Russian Government for a $1,000,000,000 concession in Siberia are:

Edward L. Doheny, Mexican Petroleum magnate; J. F. Saterl, President of the Security Trust and Savings Bank; Harry Chandler, publisher of The Los Angeles Times; F. W. Braun of the Braun Chemical Company; O. F. Brant, Vice President of the Title Insurance and Trust Company; John E. Fishburn, President of the Merchants National Bank; Max Whittier, oil operator; Lee A. Phillips, Vice President and Treasurer of the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company; W. L. Stewart, President of the Union Oil Company, and Thomas E. Gibson.

Such of these men as have thus far been asked to shed further light on the negotiations of the concession disclaim any knowledge of the reported deal whereby the Soviet Government is to buy a billion dollars worth of products in this country, through the syndicate of which they are said to be members.

Mr. Gibson, however, without being asked, volunteered the statement that the negotiations, if successful, would mean a new commercial era for the Pacific Coast.

"It will mean a vast expansion of our shipping," he said. "That was what we had most in mind when we backed Mr. Vanderlip to make a Siberian survey for oil. Control of fuel oil will give us a decided advantage in steamship traffic and freight handling. We believe that a great portion of the vast commerce to be developed between Russia and the United States will flow through San Pedro, the Port of Los Angeles."

CALL TO CENTRAL EUROPE.

Seven Countries Invited to an Economic Conference at Pressburg.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES

VIENNA, Nov. 11.—I understand invitations to the Pressburg Conference for the improvement of international economic relations in Central Europe have already been issued. The States receiving invitations are Austria, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Jugoslavia, Rumania and Italy, but not, so far, Germany, although steps are being taken to remove her objections.

The conference now seems to be somewhat coolly looked upon by several States which at first welcomed it, as it is now feared that France, by insisting on the exclusion of Germany, wishes to have a conference of the Danube countries with a view to forwarding her scheme for a Danube Confederation.

OPERA SINGERS ARRIVE.

Joseph Hislop, Scotch Tenor, and Mme. Marguerite D'Alvarez.

Joseph Hislop, Scotch tenor of the Royal Covent Garden Opera, London, arrived yesterday on the White Star liner Adriatic. He leaves for Chicago today, where he will commence a ten weeks' season of opera next Saturday with "La Tosca." At the end of this engagement he will tour the Northern cities of the United States and Canada, starting here in January under the management of William Morris.

Mme. Marguerite D'Alvarez, the Peruvian contralto who was in the opera company formed at the Manhattan Opera House by the late Oscar Hammerstein, returned yesterday from England, where she sang in Westminster Abbey, on the White Star liner Baltic to go on a concert tour through the United States and Canada.

"Midnight Jollies" at Equity Ball.

An entertainment to be called "The Midnight Jollies" will be one of the features of the Actors' Equity ball which will take place at the Hotel Astor a week from tonight. Hassard Short will be the director, and many well-known players will appear. Recent purchasers of boxes include Samuel Golydwn, William Fox and Joseph M. Schenck.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The Provincetown Players have extended the run of Eugene O'Neill's "The Emperor Jones," and that play will accordingly be continued until a week from tomorrow night. Their next bill will be produced on Dec. 6.

"Thy Name Is Woman," in which Mary Nash will be seen at the Playhouse next Monday, was produced last night in Stamford.

Roland Young has designed the scenery for Clare Kummer's "Rollo's Wild Oat," which will come into the Punch and Judy late in the month.

LAST DAYS OF EXHIBITION

"It is without doubt the largest sale of rare antiques that has been held here, but the mere size of it is not so significant as the fact that the artistic interest is sustained throughout the entire exhibition. It is something not to be missed by those who love the beautiful."—The Herald.

MUSIC

By Richard Aldrich

The Philharmonic Society.

The second concert of the Philharmonic Society, the first of its afternoon series, given yesterday in Carnegie Hall before a large audience, was devoted to Bach and Beethoven. It began with Bach's second Brandenburg concerto in F, as arranged for modern performance by Felix Mottl. The "concertino," or solo part, is for flute, oboe, trumpet and violin. Mottl's retouching consists in writing out for the strings of the orchestra the part intended originally to be played on the harpsichord from the figured bass, and making the trumpet part easier for modern players, who do not easily command the very high register for which Bach did not hesitate to write.

There were also two transcriptions for orchestra of organ wrote by Bach; one is for strings alone, by Max Reger, of the choral prelude on the melody of "O man, thy grievous sin bemoan." The other is by J. J. Abert, for the whole orchestra, of the G minor fugue, preceded by a prelude from the "Well Tempered Clavier" and a chorale of his own composition. This chorale he had the temerity to insert also as a part of the counterpoint in the fugue. The piece has long and often been played by the Philharmonic Society and other orchestras, but the wonder has not ceased that a modern musician should so crass) attempt to improve upon Bach, who was himself a competent contrapuntist and could have inserted a chorale into his fugue if he had wanted it there. The last part of the program was devoted to Beethoven's Fifth Symphony, of which Mr. Stransky's reading is well known.

Joseph Fuchs's Recital.

The first appearance in public of Joseph Fuchs, which took place yesterday afternoon in Aeolian Hall, showed the talent and accomplishment of a young New York musician who has obtained all his training here, evidently training of the first order. Mr. Fuchs plays with much repose, self-possession and confidence, and with a well-developed command of the mechanism of his instrument; indeed, with an artistic finish of style that is not often possessed by the young appearing for the first time in public.

Mr. Fuchs has musical intelligence as well; without it he could not have played as he did Bach's G minor solo sonata, or have made it approximate so nearly to musical beauty and have kept it so little like a difficult technical exercise. Musical intelligence was much less needed in Wieniawski's first concerto; there he showed something of the brilliancy and dash that alone can give it an excuse for being, or at least for being played in public.

His program began with Brahms's sonata in A for piano and violin and ended with Chausson's "Poème" and Vogrich's arrangement of Paganini's ninth caprice; a program that in itself evinced the young player's high artistic ideals. He still has a distance to travel on the way to artistic maturity; there is something still for him to learn. But it seems clear that the root of the matter is in him, that he will go far and will learn much.

George Reimherr, Tenor, Appears.

George Reimherr, a light tenor, whose polished style has limits of mood within which lies a distinct popular appeal, appeared at Aeolian Hall last evening, singing airs of Mercadante and Verdi, an old Dutch battle song and some Scandinavian pieces, with others in well-enunciated English, from Mendelssohn and Schumann to Cecil Forsyth, Frederick Vanderpool and Dorothy Wilde. Of novel interest were his songs by Koscak Yamada, sung in Japanese, an obvious hint of Puccini in two of them being redeemed by the third, "Fairer Than Moonlight," a rare evocation of slender means in the manner of both poetic and pictorial arts of Japan.

MUSIC NOTES.

James Freeskin will produce an original quintet for strings and piano on Tuesday evening at the Salle des Artistes.

"Trovatore" is the opera for the third week of Hunter College's extension concerts in the city's schools.

Schumann's "Carnival" will be danced by Gambarelli, Oumansky and Leonidow next week at the Capitol.

Louis Ganne's "Arabian Dance" will be staged at the Strand for the coming week by Alexis Kosloff.

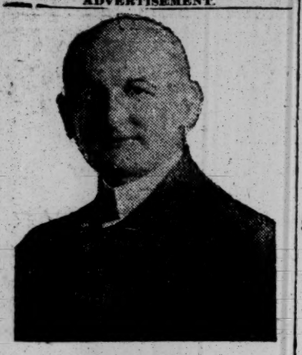
ADVERTISEMENT.



The above is a good likeness of Charles E. Gehring, President of the Gehring Publishing Company, 1,480 Broadway, New York City. Telephone Bryant 9630.

* * *

I have told you quite a lot about him, his associates, and his three publications, the Hotel Review, the Metropolitan Guide, and the Gehring Hotel Directory.

* * *

In this, the fifth and last column of the series of advertisements I promised to write for Mr. Gehring, I insisted that he let me use his picture so that you might see the man who has done so much for the hotel industry, which in turn does so much for all of us, because we certainly could not get along very well without hotels.

* * *

Mr. Gehring (everybody calls him "Charley") is universally regarded as "the human dynamo" of the hotel industry. He seems to be everywhere at the same time. He sleeps oftener in a Pullman berth than he does in a bed. He is the accepted leader at all hotel functions. He probably does more work without pay than any other man in America, but he likes to do it, and that's the secret of his success.

* * *

Without doubt, he has done more than any other man to inaugurate and to keep alive the splendid fraternal spirit that exists among the hotel and restaurant people. He probably has done more also to establish close business relations between hotel people and supply and equipment people than any other man. He has succeeded in a very big way in making all of the interests harmorize and function to mutual advantage.

* * *

His offices at 1,480 Broadway are headquarters for hotel and restaurant men visiting New York. They make themselves at home, because they know they are welcome. Supply and equipment dealers also drop in and visit.

* * *

Does this make friends for the Gehring publications? You bet it does!

* * *

There is another thing pretty close to Mr. Gehring's heart, and that is, he wants to get all the publishers of hotel journals to perfect an organization and meet frequently to frankly discuss all matters of mutual interest and to agree on a policy of progress.

* * *

Mr. Gehring feels so strongly on this subject that at a recent gathering of hotel men, where he was the only hotel publisher invited, he insisted on the other publishers being asked to participate. This was done, and with a very happy result all around.

* * *

Mr. Gehring and his associates do so much for the business men who advertise in the Gehring publications that I think the advertisers make a lot more money than the Gehring Publishing Company does. I think the profit ought to be much nearer to the 50-50 basis than it is.

* * *

The advertisers should say to Mr. Gehring: "Double your rates; we will gladly pay them because we will still make money by having our advertisements printed in your publications. You have more wonderful mediums than you realize."

* * *

Of course, I never heard of advertisers volunteering to pay higher rates to mediums that pull big, but it is time they did, because advertising, when properly employed, is a sure stepping-stone to success.

* * *

Now, Messrs. Manufacturers, Retailers, Dealers, and Advertising Agents—don't you think that the Gehring publications are mediums that you should advertise in regularly? (Sample copies will be gladly sent upon request.)

Don't you think publications that keep in such close touch with their clientele and do so much to serve them are bound to pay advertisers?

* * *

A letter addressed to the Gehring Publishing Company, 1,480 Broadway, New York City, or a telephone call to Bryant 9630, will bring to you a representative who will put all the cards on the table, and you will be astonished to learn how economical it is to advertise in the Gehring publications, and what splendid results you are sure to get if the results obtained by those who do advertise in them regularly are any criterion.

* * *

Do you want to attend the Hotel Men's Exposition at the Grand Central Palace today which is the last day? If so, telephone Bryant 9630 or call at the Gehring offices, 1,480 Broadway, and tickets will be given to you.

Sincerely yours,
WILLIAM C. FREEMAN.

FIVE LINERS BRING 9,391 PASSENGERS

Set New Record for a Day at This Time of Year—Many Notables Among Them.

$12,000,000 GOLD ARRIVES

British Mayflower Delegates Welcomed—Sinn Fein Disturbance on Armistice Day.

Five liners arrived yesterday from European ports with 9,391 passengers, a record for a day at this time of the year. The White Star liner Adriatic brought $12,000,000 in gold from Southampton, $9,000,000 of which was consigned to the Federal Reserve Bank, and the remainder to Kunn, Loeb & Co. and the National City Bank.

Of the passengers, 7,440 arrived in the steerage and the majority had to remain on board because of congestion in the Immigration quarters at Ellis Island.

Among the 357 first-class passengers on the Adriatic was Arthur E. Chew, exporter, of 17 Battery Place, who had been on a business tour in Norway, Sweden, Denmark and England. Depression is the only word which adequately describes the European situation, according to Mr. Chew.

"Nobody is buying," he said. "The adverse exchange hits business firms so hard that they cannot afford to buy here, the result being less export trade in this country than for years. Before the war one dollar would buy roughly two and a half kroner's worth of goods; today the dollar is worth six kroner. Another influence on the situation is the Russian débâcle. The Scandinavian countries hoped to find a market in Russia when the war ended; Russia has bought nothing, and they have their merchandise on their hands. So there is no sale over there. Here none of the Europeans are buying, and so the problem of what to do with the goods has arisen on this side."

Another passenger on the Adriatic was L. M. Boomer, head of the McAlpin Hotels Syndicate, who said that the $2,000 diamond ring stolen from Mrs. Boomer by a deckhand on the voyage to England had been recovered. He said the hotels in the Riviera would be filled this year with wealthy Americans on account of the improved steamship service and added that many millionaires had taken villas at Nice, Cannes and other places.

Mrs. Thomas B. Clark, wife of the Vice President of the Harriman National Bank, who is known to the public as Miss Elsie Ferguson, the actress, returned on the Adriatic from a trip around the world which commenced last May. She was the guest of Governor General Harrison in the Philippines. She said the voyage had given her a good rest and a new angle on life.

Other passengers were the Marquis Pietro Spinola and the Marquise, Mrs. Frederick W. Whitridge, widow of the President of the Third Avenue Railway, and her daughter, Joan; Mrs. E. P. Thomas, Frank D. M. Strachan and H. W. Swift.

Among the 162 passengers on the White Star liner Baltic, from Liverpool and Queenstown, were four British delegates to the American Mayflower Council to celebrate the tercentenary of the landing of the Pilgrim Fathers, E. Harold Spender, English novelist and journalist and official biographer of Premier Lloyd George; the Rev. Alexander Ramsay, D. D., pastor of one of the largest Presbyterian churches in London; the Rev. Canon E. A. Burroughs, Chaplain of Trinity College, Oxford, and the Rev. R. C. Gillie, President of the National Free Church Council of England. The Rev. Alfred W. Anthony headed the Reception Committee at the pier to meet the British delegates.

Another passenger on the Baltic was Miss Peggy Marsh, whose child is a litigant for the Marshall Field millions. She said that whether she went to Chicago or not would depend upon the advice of her lawyer. Other passengers were Rear Admiral W. H. H. Southerland and Mrs. Southerland, Major Owen G. Collins, William J. Morgan, Captain G. E. Lewing, Lady Irene Dean Paul and Lieutenant E. Read.

The Cunarder Kaiserin Augusta Victoria from Liverpool and Queenstown brought 64 cabin and 1,081 steerage passengers and made the passage in seven days, encountering very fine weather for this season. Captain W. I. R. Irvine, R. D. R. N. R. said:

"All British vessels were requested by King George in a wireless message sent out by the Admiralty to stop the engines for two minutes at 11 A. M. on Nov. 11, Armistice Day, and offer a prayer for those who had fallen in the great war."

Captain J. B. Ranson of the Adriatic, Captain A. E. S. Hambelton of the Baltic and Captain Fyrlve of the Kaiserin Augusta Victoria, said they carried out these instructions and that the passengers stood with bared heads after the bugle sounded, except the Sinn Feiners on the Baltic and the Kaiserin Augusta Victoria, who booed and waved flags of the "Irish Republic" during the two minutes of silent prayer.

The Fabre liner Patria from Marseilles and Palermo, had 162 first, 214 second and 1,851 steerage passengers. Among those in the first cabin were Countess Festetics de Tolna, Duchess de Cholseul and her two daughters, the Princess Di Camporeale, formerly Miss Florence Binney, Marquis and Marchese Ferranti Di Ruffano, with their children, and the Countess Elsa M. Di Castelmarino.

MANAGERS WOULD PUT SPECULATORS ON BOND

$10,000 Forfeit for More Than 50 Cents Premium—Check Tax Payments by Stubs.

The activity of the Internal Revenue Department in connection with the alleged non-payment of taxes by theatre ticket speculators is resulting in renewed attempts to curb the speculators on the part of the theatrical managers. The Producing Managers' Association is considering several plans by which the speculators might be held in check, the chief among which is the bonding of each agent for $10,000, this amount to be forfeited in the event that the agent charges more than a fifty-cent premium. This plan has been under discussion at various times in recent years, and was put into effect at one time by Florenz Ziegfeld in connection with the "Follies."

The abolition of the enforced "buy" is also again a possibility. This system, by which the ticket brokers are made responsible for a certain number of seats nightly for a particular show, frequently results in losses, and, according to the agents, renders necessary the charging of higher premiums for the outstanding hits.

The theatres, in accordance with instructions issued by William H. Edwards, Collector of Internal Revenue, will begin today to retain all ticket stubs for inspection. Under the law these must be stamped with the name of the agent and the price charged, and through these Mr. Edwards hopes to check up on those dealers who have been violating the Federal tax law.

WADSWORTH SPENT $2,129.

Thompson Had No Campaign Contributions, and Deficit Remains.

ALBANY, Nov. 12.—United States Senator James W. Wadsworth, Jr., who was re-elected Nov. 2, spent $2,129.30 in support of his candidacy and received contributions totalling $600, according to his personal campaign statement, which was filed with the Secretary of State today.

George F. Thompson, candidate of the Prohibition Party for Governor, spent $75 and received no contributions, he reported. He also reported that the "public will probably be obliged to contribute to the deficit of my campaign committee perhaps $250."

John F. Healey, Democratic candidate for State Treasurer, spent $2,849 and received $2,470, his statement showed.

Judge Emery A. Chase, of the Court of Appeals, who was re-elected, had expenditures of $1,784 89 and no contributions; Jeremiah Wood, elected Lieutenant Governor, spent $399 95 and received nothing; and Edwin Garvin, Democratic candidate for the Supreme Court, expended $1,510..

McGOLDRICK GAINS 45 VOTES

A net gain of 45 votes for Edward J. McGoldrick, Democratic candidate for Supreme Court Justice at the recent election, was discovered yesterday by the Board of County Canvassers. The board found a discrepancy of 100 votes in Mr. McGoldrick's favor in the 18th Election District of the 5th Assembly District. The returns in this district gave Isadore Wasservogel, Republican candidate, 303 votes and McGoldrick 225. The Wasservogel vote should have been 203. Subsequently Mr. Wasservogel picked up 55 votes.

The board yesterday completed the canvass in the 1st Assembly District and part of the 8th and 9th Districts. In some districts the board found only one tally sheet where there should have been two. These cases were reported to the Board of Elections.

GOMPERS FAVORS MORE PRODUCTION

FIGHT ON STEEL WAGE CUT

Attempts to Restore the Open Shop Also to be Considered by Workers.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Organized labor will welcome whatever assistance research and science can offer to modern industry, President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor today told delegates gathered here for a preliminary conference on industrial research. A part of organized labor's own work, he said, had been directed toward the scientific study of conditions surrounding production and to the assemblage of data.

"A persistent effort has been made to saddle upon labor the odium of opposition to improved methods and machinery in production," Mr. Gompers said.

"This is not true as a general statement. What labor has opposed is an effort to exploit them by the use of improvements that are intended as a blessing to mankind. Labor is rightly suspicious of changes which are introduced without explanation and whose effect upon their welfare is not considered.

"Labor is not opposed to increased production or improved methods. Quite the contrary. We recognize there can be no permanent betterment of standards of living for all except by increasing the things that contribute to better and more satisfactory living. But we hold that as a fundamental that material products are not the ultimate of production, but service in a better life for humanity.

"I take it all of us have too much vision and experience to think we can solve the labor problem. That is a life problem that will last as long as life.

"This conference is concerned with the field of industrial government, which we can for convenience divide under two heads, the lawmaking function and the administration. Experience has taught organized labor that we can only maintain opportunity for freedom and well-being when law for industry are made by those directly concerned—the management of the workers.

"Clearly, the formulation of laws to govern industry is not to be the function of any organization suggested by this conference. Science and research may furnish the lawmakers with data and suggestions to assist the lawmakers in reaching the best-considered judgments, but confusion and regression will follow any attempt to usurp prerogatives."

Representatives of practically every international labor union with jurisdiction over organized workers in the steel industry met at the American Federation of Labor here today to discuss reorganization in the labor field made necessary by decreased production in the steel industry following the war. Any reduction of wages in the steel industry will be opposed by the conference, it was stated. Other subjects under discussion were closer co-operation and more harmonious conditions among the workers.

Officers of the Federation, it was said, planned to discuss with the leaders of the steel workers' measures for opposing reductions in wages and attempts to restore the "open shop" in industries where organized labor has succeeded in obtaining a "closed shop."

An examination has been ordered for chief marine engineer (screw propeller), Municipal Ferry service. Candidates must be at least 21 years of age. The subjects and weights of the examination will be: Experience, 4; duties, 3; practical test, 2; citizenship, 1. Candidates must have had at least three years' experience in the operation of screw propeller engines, and a chief marine engineer's license of at least one-year issue. There is a vacancy in the Plant and Structures Department.

United States.

The commission announces an examination for apprentice chart engraver, in le, 16 to 20 years of age, in the Coast and Geodetic Survey, Washington, D. C., at $600 to $1,000 a year. Appointees will be allowed the increase granted by Congress of $20 a month. The appointee will work under instruction until he has completed his apprenticeship, and is then placed on the engraver's roll, where the salaries range from $1,240 to $2,740 a year (including the bonus). Competitors will not be required to report for examination at any place, but will be rated on general education, 50; training, experience and specimens of work, 50. Applicants who have had at least an eighth-grade common school or equivalent education will be considered, as the apprentice engraver continues his education for engraving during his apprenticeship. Applicants will be given credit for any kind of previous training which would tend to qualify them for the position sought such as commercial engraving, drawing, lettering, technical school instruction, or experience in occupations that give training in the handling of tools or machines that require great precision in measuring or adjustment. One serving as apprenticeship or undergoing training as a chart or map engraver may enter the examination without regard to age limits. Age limits do not apply to persons entitled to preference because of military or naval service. Classified employes who have reached the retirement age and have served fifteen years are entitled to retirement with an annuity.

THE WEATHER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The weather conditions over the United States are dominated by an area of high barometer of great magnitude, which centres in the Missouri Valley. It has been attended by the coldest weather of the season to date, generally over the United States east of the Rocky Mountains.

The pressure is relatively low on the Pacific Coast, and it has been attended by rains in the Pacific States, Nevada and Utah.

Rains also have occurred on the South Atlantic and Middle Atlantic coasts and there have been local snows in the North Atlantic States, the region of the Great Lakes and on the east slope of the Rocky Mountains.

The outlook is for fair and continued cold weather Saturday and Sunday generally east of the Mississippi River. It is probable, however, that the temperature will moderate somewhat in the Ohio Valley, Tennessee and the East Gulf States.

FORECAST FOR TODAY AND SUNDAY.

New Jersey: Fair and continued cold Saturday and Sunday.

3 A. M.	44	51	4 P. M.	34	57
6 A. M.	40	52	6 P. M.	32	56
9 A. M.	41	54	9 P. M.	29	56
12 M.	39	56	11 P. M.	29	57

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 36; for the corresponding date last year it was 54; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 45.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 39; at 8 P. M. it was 32. Maximum temperature, 44 degrees at 2 A. M.; minimum, 29 degrees at 10 A. M. Humidity, 81 per cent. at 8 A. M.; 40 per cent. at 8 P. M.

The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 30.08 inches; at 8 P. M. it stood at 30.26 inches.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Persistent and heavy selling was resumed on the Stock Exchange yesterday, and, except for a brief advance at the opening and a very irregular recovery at the last, it continued practically without interruption throughout the day. It brought the total sales again above a million shares. The net declines ranged from 1 to 6 points in active stocks, and on this occasion the railway shares lost ground as heavily as the industrials, with less recovery in the final transactions.

The day's selling was of various kinds. Pressure by speculators for the decline was in evidence, but it could not be doubted that actual liquidation was large; expressing, so far as could be judged, disappointment of speculative holders over the failure of response by Thursday's market to the lower call money rates, and the doubts created by the attitude of the banks. It was to be expected that the Wall Street rumor-monger would be active in such a market, and as a matter of fact the Stock Exchange was favored all day with hints of impending business trouble. There was no reason for supposing that any of them were truthful, but they had unquestionable influence on the market, first because of the action of prices and, second, because of Wall Street's knowledge that more than one mercantile house has been "helped out" by its banks between early Summer and the present month. That, however, was an old story.

After its temporary relapse to 7 per cent. on Thursday the rate for Stock Exchange demand loans opened and ruled throughout yesterday's market at 9 per cent. The Stock Exchange was disposed to ascribe the renewed stringency to the fact that a call for statements by national banks is imminent and that the banks wish to make a good showing at this time. But that explanation goes only a little distance. The attitude of the lending institutions really embodies the fact that the climax of the year in normal requisitions on credit has only now been reached. It was on precisely this day, Nov. 12, that last year's stock market reached its extreme pitch of demoralization as a result of the money stringency. Some stocks went lower afterward, but the 2,600,000-share sales on the Stock Exchange that day, the 30 per cent. call money rate, and the $49,000,000 decrease in surplus bank reserves on the ensuing Saturday, were not repeated afterward.

Commodity markets declined along with the stock market, and in much the same disordered way. In the trading for future delivery, cotton and wheat fell to the lowest prices of the season's movement; wheat going lower than any price since February of 1917. Even on the markets for cash transactions in commodities, more than half a dozen staple articles went to the lowest level of the year. With these markets, as with the Stock Exchange, the money credit situation was the controlling influence. Foreign exchange resisted the pressure from that quarter better than any other market, and the rate on Paris in particular recovered sharply for a time under substantial buying. Most of the other exchange markets, however, yielded again before the close of business.

EXCHANGE RATES FIRM, WITH TRADING DULL

Foreign exchange rates generally were firm yesterday, although the movements were hesitant and disclosed a small flow of business. Sterling advanced from 3.35⅝ to 3.37, ending the day at 3.36¼, for a net gain of ⅝ of a cent. Francs at 5.78 were a trifle higher than the day before, as were the exchanges of Italy, Holland, Germany and Belgium. Greek exchange receded moderately, but others of the Central and South European rates were steady. The market contained no new influences.

CUBAN LOAN PARLEY TO BE HELD MONDAY

Island Emissaries May Obtain $30,000,000 to $50,000,000 Credit Here.

EXPECT BANK GROUP TO ACT

Situation Is Admittedly Precarious, but Improvement Is Looked For by February.

Representatives of Cuban interests and local bankers will meet here on Monday, and as a result of this conference it is expected that some definite plan for rendering immediate assistance to Cuba will be formulated. If a credit is arranged it probably will be in the form of an advance by a group of banks, and not in that of a security issue. Amounts spoken of yesterday as likely to be loaned ranged from $30,000,000 to $50,000,000. The Cubans who will attend the conference are expected to arrive here today.

With regard to the much-talked-of loan to the Cuban Government, nothing new has developed, and expert opinion yesterday was to the effect that nothing would for some days, and probably for a considerably longer period. One reason for the hitch in this transaction is the opinion of the President of Cuba that he has no power to pledge the Republic's credit for a loan and must, before anything final is decided upon, obtain the assent of his Congress.

The Cuban Congress will not convene until early next month, and it will take some little time before it can be organized and get down to business. Added to this necessary delay, there is still some doubt as to how the Cuban Congress will be formed, for the final results of the election are yet to be determined. Thus, with a Congress of unknown complexion, there is the possibility that the Government's application for authorization to issue a big loan may not be approved, or at least that there may be a prolonged discussion and much further delay before the matter finally may be ratified.

Meanwhile, the Cuban situation is admittedly precarious. The moratorium, under the proclamation bringing it into affect, terminates Dec. 1, unless renewed, and those who are in close touch with affairs on the island say that almost surely it will have to be extended indefinitely. With this the case, commercial and agricultural interests in Cuba can expect little assistance from their own banks for the time being and just now they require a great deal of assistance.

It was said yesterday that 60 to 75 per cent. of the sugar mills in Cuba are now dismantled for repairs and replacements and that most of the machinery they require is not available. About 700 carloads of this machinery are somewhere between Jacksonville and Key West awaiting shipment. Another 400 cars are in the custom house yards at Havana and an additional quantity is on ships in the harbor or standing idle on the wharves. Ordinarily, the mills start grinding between Dec. 15 and Jan 1, but there is much work to be done to the mills before this can be accomplished and at the present time there is some question as to how soon funds will be available to move the machinery.

The usual practice is to pay a first instalment of 30 per cent. on the delivery of this machinery, a second equal instalment about the first of the year and the remainder when the crop becomes marketable along about February or March. But the Cubans, or most of them, are without the funds for the first instalment. Also, they need money for freight charges and custom duties. It is to provide for these funds that the conference on Monday has been called.

Most local bankers who have gone into this situation think the state of affairs in Cuba will be infinitely better by the middle of February or early in March. By that time the sugar crop should be marketed and the banking and commercial conditions relieved. The crop prospect is for a final yield of about 3,300,000 tons, as against 3,700,000 tons last year, and, with recent inquiries on a large scale from Europe and elsewhere, it is expected that there will be no difficulty in disposing of the whole crop. The carry-over of approximately 300,000 tons from the last crop, which is the thing that has been causing most of the recent difficulties, is also expected to be taken care of by the new demands and the relatively light crop.

Ford Rail Deal Writ Denied.

The order of Supreme Court Justice Finch denying an injunction in behalf of Leon Tanenbaum and Benjamin M. Strauss, minority stockholders of the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton Railroad, to restrain the purchase of the majority stock in the road by Henry Ford and his son, Edsel, was affirmed yesterday by the Appellate Division. The court held that the lease of the road to the Ford corporation will be beneficial.

HESITATION MARKS INDUSTRIAL BUYING

Reviews Note Growing Unemployment and Lower Production as Demand Lessens.

PRICE DECLINE QUICKENS

Readjustment Continues While Few Signs of Improvement Are Reported.

Trade reports of industrial conditions in the last week record little change from the steady process of readjustment which is taking place, except that the price decline is becoming a bit more accelerated in some instances. More unemployment is noted, and a further slowing up at production points as demand falls away.

"Evidences of improvement are not very broad or deep," says Bradstreet's review, and adds that immediate needs seem to govern most buying." Of the seventy-six commodities quoted by this publication a majority show price declines " with foods, crude materials for manufacture and manufactured articles sharing alike in the reduction." Wheat, flour, other grains, cotton and cotton goods and iron and steel and fuel lines have generally gone lower, it is asserted.

ASKS 'GIGANTIC FUND' TO FIGHT 'INTERESTS'

The Central Federated Union Charges Attempt to Force Pre-War Conditions.

APPEALS TO LABOR COUNCIL

Urges Immediate Defense Against "Big Business"—Bill Against Convict Competition Indorsed.

The creation of a "gigantic defense fund" to resist alleged attempts of "big business" to revert to pre-war conditions of longer hours and lower wages for labor was called for in resolutions adopted last night by the Central Federated Union at a meeting in the Labor Temple, 243 East Eighty-fourth Street. The Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor, now in session at Washington, was called upon to take steps to resist such an attempt with all the power of organized labor. The resolutions follow:

"Whereas it is apparent that the big business of our country has been and is concentrating its efforts in an attempt to reintroduce pre-war conditions, i. e., a reduction of wages and an increase in the hours of labor and a return to the piecework system;

"Resolved, That the Central Federated Union of Greater New York and Vicinity reiterate its former action by again calling upon organized labor to resist any and all such attempts to the utmost by the creation of a gigantic defense fund, and be it further

"Resolved, That the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor, now in session, be requested to propose defensive measures—the formation of a defense fund to be accrued by assessment, appeals for voluntary contributions and by any other method they may devise."

The meeting received a letter from Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, asking support of a bill to prevent the competition of convict labor with free labor, and passed a resolution indorsing the proposed bill.

PROTECTS VALUES IN CHINA.

T. W. Lamont Says Consortium Aims at No Preference.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12. — Speaking for the American group of bankers in the consortium for China, Thomas W. Lamont of New York says in a letter made public here today by the Far East Commercial Intelligence Service that no preference will be extended to any particular business interests in the undertakings that are contemplated.

"I have no authority to speak for the other groups," wrote Mr. Lamont, "but my conferences with them convince me that their attitude is identical with ours. Our aim is to aid China in developing her great basic enterprises ,such as means of communication, &c., and at the same time to protect both China and the foreign investors who purchase her bonds in the underlying and intrinsic value of the projects for which she borrows and the they loan.

"It goes without saying that in order to accomplish our purposes for China we must do our best to see that she secures the benefits, other things being equal, of the lowest possible prices for the material and equipment that finally goes into the upbuilding of her public utilities."

HOIST JEWISH FLAG ON SHIP.

Enthusiasm When Palestine Settlers Sail from Constantinople.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 11 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency). — Scenes of the wildest enthusiasm accompanied the hoisting of the Jewish flag below the British flag on the mast of the steamer Mahmoudi, which sailed today for Jaffa with 550 Jewish emigrants, who are to settle in Palestine.

The emigrants, a number of whom passed through this city, come from many parts, including Rumania, Galicia, Soviet Russia, the Caucasus and the Crimea.

COTTON QUOTATIONS STILL DECLINING

Futures Down 50 to 75 Points and Spots at $97 a Bale.

The cotton market suffered another downward plunge yesterday, and while future contracts did not break to their record lows of Oct. 18 they got very close to those figures, and spots went to a new low for more than three years, being quoted at 19.40 for middling, which is the equivalent of $97 a bale, as against the record high of $218.75 a bale back in late July. Futures were down 65 to 75 points for near months and 50 to 60 points for the distant months.

Selling started with the opening. Liverpool was unexpectedly off before our market got going, and the trade news was as discouraging as it has been lately. The ring started the downward movement, but was closely followed by the South and by Wall Street. The weakness of the stock market and the general uncertainty in financial markets aided the decline in cotton and by early afternoon there appeared to be no buyers at all and everybody trying to sell.

After the low levels had been reached, around 2 o'clock, the market became very irregular, but was confined within rather narrow limits as to price fluctuations. Trading then subsided down to the close there was very little change from the extreme lows. In the last half hour business was dull and most traders seemed to be waiting for something to happen.

The South had a bad day. Spot markets were all heavy and although sales were very light prices were down 25 to 75 points in almost all places. Only one market, that at St. Louis, remained at 20 cents at the close. Most of them were under 19 cents, and Dallas and Fort Worth were down to 17.75.

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Previous Day
Dec.	18.70	18.95	18.40	18.42@18.49	19.10
Jan.	18.25	18.45	17.95	18.00@18.05	18.75
March	18.00	18.23	17.88	17.88@17.84	18.48
May	17.85	18.10	17.70	17.71@17.72	18.32
July	17.70	17.85	17.50	17.50	18.02
Sept.				17.30	17.80

The local market for spot cotton was quiet, down 65 points to 19.40c for middling upland; sales nil.

Southern spot markets were: Galveston, 18.50c, down 50; New Orleans, 18.75c, down 25; Savannah, 19.25c, down 75; Augusta, 18.50c, down 50; Memphis, 19.50c, unchanged; Houston, 18c, down 50; Little Rock, 19c, down 50.

Yesterday's cotton statistics were:

	Yesterday.	Last w'k.	Last y'r.
Exports	9,920	474	70,470

Liverpool cables: Spot cotton was dull at 14.56d for middling. Sales, 3,000 bales, of which American 2,000. Imports, 21,000 bales, of which American 21,000. Futures opened quiet, 7 to 11 points down, and closed easy, 17 to 80 points down on the day. Prices: December, 13.24d; March, 13.54d; May, 13.40d; July, 13.24d. Manchester: Yarns and cloths were dull and quieter.

OFFERS NEW TEXTILE STOCK

Consolidated Corporation to Issue 535,274 Shares for Present Stockholders.

The Consolidated Textile Corporation announced yesterday the offering of 535,274 shares of stock for subscription by stockholders of record Nov. 22 at $21 a share. Some $10,000,000 will be raised for the company by the sale, this to be used for taking over not less than 15 manufacturers of cotton cloth in the world. The company has seventeen mills in Rhode Island and Massachusetts.

In the letter to stockholders of Consolidated Textile it is stated that arrangements have been made for underwriting the offering of additional stock. The time for subscription extends to Dec. 7, on the basis of two shares of new stock for each old share.

COMMODITY PRICES

Sharp Price Concessions in Wholesale Markets—Record Lows in Some Commodities.

There was an especial show of weakness in cash prices in the wholesale markets yesterday. The decline in prices was due almost wholly to the general weakness in all markets—commodities and securities—and in the subjoined table of eighteen articles of foodstuffs, metals and textiles, at least seven of them touched the low prices of the year. Wheat dropped 5½ cents a bushel to a low for the year, corn at a recession of 1½ cents equaled its previous low made on Oct. 21, and oats declined ½ cent a bushel to a new low. Flour, Minneapolis, dropped $1.10 per barrel, to the year's low, and also below the level at which it sold on Armistice Day in 1918. Sugar declined ½ cent, likewise to a record low.

In the dairy products, butter advanced ½ cent, but eggs remained unchanged. In provisions, lard dropped 15 cents, per hundred pounds, with beef and pork unchanged.

In metals, iron, No. 2 x Philadelphia, receded $1 per ton, steel, lead, copper and tin quoted unchanged.

In textiles, spot cotton, following the weak market for futures, declined 65 cents per hundred pounds, to a new low for the year, and printcloths, at a decline of ⅛ per pound, also touched a record low.

WHEAT AT LOW RECORD.

Declines to Lowest Prices Since 1916—Due to Business Uncertainties.

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—All grain smashed down in value today to the lowest record since 1916. Financial and industrial uncertainties were largely responsible. The wheat market closed nervous, 2⅜ to 5c net lower, with December 176 to 177½ and March 169¼ to 169¾. Corn lost 1½ to 2½c and oats ⅜ to 1⅝c. In provisions the outcome varied from 5c decline to 15 cents advance.

General selling started wheat prices down grade right from the outset, with the bears making the most out of unfavorable aspects of the business situation. Besides, word that the British Royal Commission and the Belgian Government were out of the export market counted a good deal as a special depressing factor. Later there were indications of export business with Italy, but the rallies which ensued did not develop much force. It was not known until after the market had closed that the purchasing for Italy was on a large scale, totaling according to some estimates, 3,000,000 bushels, practically all United States grown. Receipts continued light and country offerings small. Corn and oats gave way in sympathy with wheat despite some foreign buying of corn on the decline. Provisions at first were easier owing to grain weakness, but subsequently recovered as a result of talk that packers had been bidding for lard.

STOCK PRICES FALL TO NEW LOW MARKS

Commodities Also Record Declines, but Industrial Shares Are Hit Hardest.

RAILROAD ISSUES RECEDE

Prices in the stock market tumbled precipitately yesterday, many of the leading issues making new low marks for the year after breaks that ran as high as 4 to 5 points.

Accompanying the decline in stock prices, commodities went into new low records. Spot cotton sold at 19.40, as compared with a previous low of 19.85; cash wheat sold for $2.01½ a bushel; corn equaled its previous low at $1.08¾, as compared with a high for the year of $2.31¾, and oats fell to 63½ cents, whereas the high for the year stood at $1.50 a bushel.

The display was the most consistent performance on the declining side of the markets that has been noted in some time. In the stock market the heavy liquidation earlier in the week was considered to have been so severe as to make a further abrupt decline for the moment more or less of an improbability, yet, all through yesterday's session stock was offered freely, and while some of the selling came from the shorts, the volume was so great that it indicated the actual casting over of big blocks of securities.

Wall Street was a bit amazed by the happening. There was nothing in the news developments aside from the weakness in the commodity markets to account for the continued liquidation. Any causes working for the decline had been present all along. On previous days the railroad shares had been standing up well, despite the liquidation elsewhere in the list, but yesterday they, too, joined in the downward revision of prices. Reading dropped to 90, with the net loss for the day 6½ points. Southern Pacific lost 3 points and Northern Pacific a like amount. Great Northern preferred receded 3¾ points, and other shares showed weakness, though perhaps not quite so pronounced.

The industrial shares, however, continued to be hardest hit. American International Corporation lost 4¾ points and ending the day at 56¾. Mexican Petroleum and Atlantic Gulf and West Indies were two of the weakest issues among the oil shares. A new low for United States Steel was made by United States Steel at 82¾, the final price only an eighth above this.

Declines in Many Issues.

As compared with their high prices of the year some issues have now lost from 50 to 100 per cent. The following table shows the declines in many of the leading issues yesterday, the decline from the year's high, and the final price yesterday:

*Company declared stock dividends during year.

Opinions as to Causes.

In many quarters the continued fall in the stock market is held to be a reflection of the curtailment of business which is under way and the price reductions which are taking place in commodities, with a possible heavy impairment of inventories in the case of some of the large industrial companies.

In addition to this the rumor mart has been working overtime and Wall Street during the last few days has been flooded with all sorts of stories of impending trouble, not the least of these hinting that some big concerns were in difficulties. Reports of this sort, however, have been denied, but the flood of liquidation has gone almost unchecked from the first of this week.

There were rumors yesterday that banking support was coming into the market to uphold some issues, but the course of prices generally showed little effect of such support if it was offered. The decline in United States Steel was checked in the late afternoon, and this gave rise to reports that the Steel Corporation was buying in anticipation of the stock offering to employes next year. One version was that the corporation had purchased some 60,000 shares on the way down from 89.

INCENDIARY IN LAUREL HILL.

Residents of Frame Tenements Terrorized by Mysterious Fires.

One fire that destroyed three tenement houses, making homeless eight families, and two attempts to set fire to other frame tenements in the Laurel Hill sectio of Long Island City have created a reign of terror among the Polish residents. Captain Graham said he expected an arrest would be made within a day or two. Last night an extra force of patrolmen was on guard.

The latest incendiary attempt was made after midnight Thursday. Patrolman Vennert discovered a pile of oil soaked waste and clothing burning lively in the rear hallway of the tenement at 122 Montgomery avenue. With the assistance of tenants the fire was extinguished. Two hours later Vennert found another fire burning briskly in the rear of the frame tenement at 141 Montgomery avenue. He put out this fire also.

While at work on this last fire Vennert saw a man running away. He gave chase and fired his revolver. The man fell and Vennert believed he had shot him. The man, however, got up and escaped through a dark alley.

On Tuesday night, Nov. 2, a fire starting mysteriously in the cellar of frame tenements at 151, 151½ and 153 Review avenue, about a block from the location of the fire on Thursday night, completely destroyed the tenements. Two families in 151 Review avenue were rescued as they were about to be suffocated. On Tuesday night of this week the tenement at 122 Montgomery avenue was set on fire and the fire spread to 124 Montgomery avenue. The tenants were driven into the streets.

RECEIVER FOR NEWSPAPER.

S. S. Jobes to Continue Publication of the Kansas City Journal.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 12.—C. S. Jobes, a local bond broker, was today named as receiver for The Kansas City Journal, which has been published as a morning newspaper since 1854. He was directed to continue the operation of the newspaper.

The receivership was granted on application of E. B. Laforgue, a citizen of France, and the Citizens' National Bank of Fort Scott, Kan. The application placed the newspaper's indebtedness at $450,000, and stated that the company owns property and equipment in excess of that amount, but is not in a position to meet current expenses.

In a signed statement representatives of the company said that it is fully solvent and that its assets are far in excess of its liabilities.

CHORUS GIRLS AID SCOUTS.

Eight of Honeydew Company Invade Wall Street for Funds.

Eight pretty girls of the Honeydew company wore Girl Scout sandwich boards in Wall Street yesterday during the noon hour and collected money for the Girl Scouts Fund. Few men passed without contributing, while those who gave $10 and over became Girl Scout Daddies, the gift making it possible for one girl who could not otherwise do so to become a Girl Scout.

The lobbies of the office buildings furnished many new members of the Girl Scout organization, while in the Curb Market the girls were recognized and "Honeydew" songs were called for and rendered. Contributions here were generous and some of the brokers escorted the campaigners through the office buildings for more funds. The girls making the collections were Betty Hill, Victoria Wallace, Adele Sanderson, Helen Gates, Marjorie Phillips, Peggy Leona, Alice Cavanaugh and Dorothy Neill, the latter having been a Girl Scout in Ohio before she went on the stage.

It was reported from Brooklyn that Girl Scouts from Manhattan were soliciting funds in that borough and that the Brooklyn Scouts did not like it. Officials at the National Headquarters, 189 Lexington Avenue, said last night that they had not heard of any such trouble. They added that it was a principle of the organization that each district should have its own money and that when a check came to New York from any part of the country having a Girl Scout organization the gift was immediately turned over to that locality's organization. It was also declared to be contrary to their constitution for Girl Scout troopers to solicit funds on the streets and that only the Scout captains over 20 could receive money.

C. F. U. REBUFFS RED CROSS.

Declines to Aid Drive Unless Nurses Are Sent to Ireland.

The Central Federated Union, which went on record last Spring in opposition to membership of its members in the American Legion, last night adopted a resolution refusing to assist the American Red Cross until it sent its nurses into Ireland to relieve sick and wounded there.

The matter was brought before the meeting by the receipt of an appeal from Miss Elizabeth A. Cullen, Assistand Director of the American Red Cross, who said that a drive for membership in the Red Cross had been begun on Armistice Day and asked the co-operation of the Central Federated Union.

John Sullivan, Treasurer, moved that assistance be refused until the Red Cross sent its nurses into Ireland. "If the English Government has the temerity to prevent the American Red Cross from going into Ireland, the American people ought to know it," said Edward I. Hannan, the President. "If the American Red Cross is true to its principles it will go into Ireland and render whatever aid it can."

The resolution was adopted unanimously.

2 BANKRUPTCY SUITS AGAINST SILK FIRM

Debts of Arthur Emmerich, Inc., Reported as $1,000,000 with $500,000 Assets.

JAPANESE CO. A CREDITOR

Corporation Says Reinvestment Left Funds Insufficient for Liabilities.

Involuntary petitions in bankruptcy were filed in the Federal Court yesterday by two different sets of creditors against Arthur Emmerich, Inc., dealers in raw and thrown silk. Liabilities were stated to be about $1,000,000 and assets more than $500,000. One set of creditors, represented by Maurice L. Shaine, are William Wishnack & Son, whose claim is for $2,202 for rent; B. Siegel, for money advanced, $1,000; and I. Einbund, $50 for services.

The other set, represented by Putney, Twombly & Putney, are Mitsui & Co., Ltd., of Japan, for a trade acceptance for $20,000, which became due Aug. 22 last, and several thousand dollars due on other obligations; Stefano Berizzi Company, Inc., $5,459 on a trade acceptance due Aug. 31, and several thousand dollars besides, and the China, Japan & South American Trading Company, $8,479 on a trade acceptance due Oct. 13, and other amounts.

The company was incorporated on March 27, 1913, with an authorized capital of $600,000. Arthur Emmerich is President of the concern and William Emmerich is its Treasurer.

At the office of the company, 23 East Twenty-sixth Street, it was said that the concern owns mills at Scranton and Pittston, Pa., and that the trouble was due to general conditions. The company, it was explained, had reinvested so much of its profits in the business that it had insufficient funds to meet its debts. It was said that the uncertain outlook had hit the silk business harder than any other industry and that the buying public was on a strike.

The first of a series of seven Current Events lectures by Marion Gaylord Atwell will be given on Tuesday morning in the Hotel Pennsylvania, under the auspices of the New York City Colony National Society of New England Women.

CARPET AND RUG AUCTION.

The auction sale of 45,000 bales of rugs and carpets, conducted by Wilmerding, Morris & Mitchell for the Alexander Smith & Sons Carpet Company, was concluded late yesterday afternoon. The large jobbers got busy, and the remaining lots were quickly disposed of. Prices suffered somewhat in consequence, and bids eased off some 5 per cent. from those of the previous day. There was a day-to-day slump throughout the sale as the larger operators grew more active and the smaller dealers withdrew. No total for the sale was obtainable yesterday, but the aggregate receipts were placed at over $4,000,000. No further auction will be held until April or May. New list prices will probably be issued the first of the week.

The high and low prices for the day compared with the October list prices, which are quotations made to the retailers, are as follows:

The number of changes in foodstuff prices which occurred was a notable feature of the fluctuations in wholesale commodities quotations this week, as reflected by Dun's list. Nearly a third of the revisions in the general list were confined to them. In this list, which embraces more than 300 items, were shown 69 declines and 20 advances this week, against 68 "downs" and 16 "ups" last week. A second feature was the small number of kinds of commodities to which the revisions were confined.

The following table gives the minimum wholesale prices quoted this week on commodities selected from the general list referred to above. They are corrected to yesterday, and with them are given comparative prices for last week and the corresponding week a year ago:

	This Week.	Last Year Week.	Year Ago.

*Nominal.

Among the unusual features of the foodstuffs changes this week were the sharp declines which took place in flour. Spring flour fell off $1 a barrel to a point materially lower than it was at this time last year. To a lesser extent the same thing was true of Winter patents, which dropped 75 cents a barrel. Lard was lower here, but both hams and bacon were higher. At Chicago no advances were shown by provisions. Mess pork did not change, but the live meats, as well as short ribs, all declined. Irish mackerel was lower. Changes in the dairy products lists, which were more numerous than usual, were all upward. The advances in butter were slight. The best cheese went up a cent and a half. The big gains were made in eggs. Fancy nearbys advanced 4 cents a dozen, while the best Westerns jumped 9 cents a dozen. Compared with last year's prices at this time, the latter show a much larger excess than the former.

Common and fancy apples were both quoted 50 cents a barrel higher this week, and evaporated apples went up for the second week in succession. The changes in the other dried fruits, however, were all downward. They occurred in apricots, prunes and peaches. In the vegetables list a couple of declines took place in beans, but potatoes moved up 25 cents a barrel during the week. Substantial declines in raw and refined sugars took place, and the basic Brazilian coffees were cheaper. Teas and spices were unchanged.

All of the fluctuations in the grains were downward. They included wheat, corn, oats, rye and malting barley. Metals were weaker for the most part, with advances in electrolytic copper, spelter and lead contrasting with declines in pig iron, refined iron bars, black and galvanized sheets, furnace and foundry coke, antimony, tin and tinplate.

Twenty-two declines in the combined lists for drugs, chemicals, dyestuffs and oils contrasted with six advances. Many of the declines took place in the finer chemicals, but there were no marked features among the changes. In the hide list there were no advances, but No. 1 heavy cows and No. 1 buffs were quoted lower. No. 1 light belting butts, which declined, supplied the only revision in the leather list. Turpentine dropped during the course of the week, and prices on both Brazilian and Eastern rubbers fell off further.

Burlaps were weaker in price here under the influence of liberal offerings at concessions from second hands, but far and away the feature of the textile markets for the week were the very sharp cuts made in various lines of prints, percales, shirtings, &c. Indigo denims were also substantially reduced in price. No particular developments of interest took place in the silk and woolen trades.

THE BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday .....8 per cent. for the best names
Thursday .....8 per cent. for the best names
The quotations are for six months' paper.

More Gray Goods Prices Drop.

Further declines in standard constructions of gray goods took place in this market yesterday. November delivery business was done in 35½-inch 64-60 print cloths, for instance, at 9 cents. Buyers paid 10 cents for similar shipments of 39-inch 68-72s and 13 cents for November 39-inch 80 squares. The lighter sheetings again came in for some demand, with nearby deliveries of 5 and 5.50 yard cloths sold, respectively, at 8 and 7 cents. Other parts of the market were lacking in feature.

Cuts $100 Suit in Half.

In the opinion of a wholesale clothing representative, next Spring will see the $100 suit cut half in price. "Suits that were marked $100," he said, "and suits that ran as high as $125 will be sold for $50 or close to that figure. There has been constant propaganda to the effect that values were being slashed principally in the cheaper goods, because there was so much merchandise of that sort around. But even the makers of the finest clothing are now cutting their prices as much as 40 per cent., and these revisions are by no means ended. My prediction is that for $50 next Spring a man will be able to get excellent value."

Steam Size Coal Easier.

In the anthracite coal trade, Seward's Journal will say today, the only marked change has been in the steam sizes, which are easier. On the surface the prepared sizes appear about as "tight" as ever, but forces are at work which, it is believed, will result in signs of relaxation making their appearance before very long. In fact, such signs are not altogether lacking even now, for there are fewer buyers willing to pay the extreme top of the market. Recent mild weather has been responsible for the falling off. While the bituminous market is weak and unsettled, the worst of the slump is over for the reason that it cannot go much further without prices reaching a point that would be below the cost of production.

Labor in the Needle Trades.

The local labor situation in the needle trades at present is considered to be parallel to the problem presented by an irresistible force meeting an immovable body. The manufacturers in all branches, but principally of clothing, feel they have everything to win and nothing to lose by attempting to straighten out their long-standing grievances. On the other hand, the unions, aware that strikes have lost public sympathy, believe that the public nevertheless will frown on a too evident effort to bring back conditions approximating the sweat shop. There is war in the air, but just as many manufacturers have no business to lose many employes have no jobs to risk. There are just principles at stake and both sides are confident of winning in event of trouble.

Example in Carpet Auction.

There is an example in the carpet and rug auction, according to a leading resident buyer, that other wholesale lines might do well to follow. It was frankly admitted by the carpet company, he pointed out, that buying hesitancy and price uncertainty were the reasons which led it to offer goods at auction and permit buyers to "make their own prices." The buying representative explained that several other lines are held up for identical reasons, and that it might do those industries good to let purchasers make their own prices and thus fix quotations at which heavy surpluses could be disposed of. More harm, he said, will follow competitive underbidding by manufacturers than if values are established on a firm basis by means of a large sale.

Silk Makers Take Courage.

While no definite improvement has been felt by the silk trade in general nevertheless certain indications are taken to point to a more normal business in the near future. One detail which is considered important in the light of its effect on the trade, is the professed intention of retail stores to give silks more of a place in the holiday business. The manufacturers know that the chief factor holding back sales is the unliquidated portion of high-priced silks carried by the stores. There is also a feeling that such materials are being used to pay the debts of other departments not possessed of such quick-selling merchandise. In considering prospects the silk houses also assert that, as slow as trade is, an intensive effort will secure results, particularly in out-of-town centres not so close to the market and its supplies of "distress merchandise."

To Guarantee Spring Prices.

With a view to affording their retail customers ample protection in placing Spring business now, every Spring order booked before Jan. 1 by Robert Reis & Co. of this city, for delivery not later than April 15, will carry with it a guarantee of prices. In the event of a downward price revision by the Reis firm prior to April 15 on any of its lines the reductions will take effect on the retailer's order regardless of whether it has been filled or remains undelivered. The lines covered by the guarantee will be opened on Monday next. "A letter to be sent to the trade next week announcing the firm's policy says in part: "We are affording the retailer an opportunity to buy without a fear of possible loss and at the same time an opportunity to buy at lowest prices should there be an advance at a later period. In other words, our customers are being covered against a possible decline, as well as against a possible advance."

Winter Fur Sales Dates Set.

With the announcement yesterday that the next auction of Funsten Brothers & Co. would be held in St. Louis as usual, instead of this city, the schedule of Winter fur sale dates for 1921 was completed. The first sale will be that of the New York Fur Auction Sales Corporation, which will be held here on Jan. 17 and days following. Next will come the sale of the Can

CITY, FACING WINTER, APPEALS FOR COAL

Emergency Consignments Promised by Rail and Water to Fill Empty Bins.

With Winter making itself felt for the first time yesterday, the coal shortage in New York City was still acute. Emergency shipments of coal were rushed to the city yesterday through the Committee of Producers to provide consumers who are now completely without coal.

Edward Clark, Chairman, Interstate Commerce Commission, Washington.

First Winter weather has struck New York and found it in woeful condition from lack of coal. For sake of health of people of this great city, I appeal to you to issue priority orders for shipments of domestic sizes to this city for at least next week.

ROYAL S. COPELAND,
Health Commissioner.

President John F. Bermingham of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Coal Company, Chairman of the Committee of Producers, said yesterday that large rail shipments of anthracite and ten cargoes of coal of domestic sizes had been provided to meet the emergency situation in New York City.

"On its arrival," the committee said, the retail dealers in any district will participate in its distribution in small lots to householders, peddlers, &c., and endeavor to meet the most urgent requirements.

"It would be useless for people who are clamoring for coal in large quantities to attempt to get such orders filled out of these special shipments of emergency coal. Such consumers must rely on their regular dealers to keep them going for their immediate needs.

Price Is Not Involved.

"In this matter the question of price is in no way involved, and neither the Department of Justice, the wholesale operators nor the retail dealers are even discussing the price question in this connection, for that is a matter entirely outside of this concerted effort to meet the threatening condition which temporarily, we think, is facing the people here. It is an attempt to get as much coal as possible here quickly, and to have it placed where it is most seriously needed. It has the sanction of the Department of Justice, the co-operation of the large producers and the helpfulness of the retail distributors, and seems to be as good a plan as could be devised to meet the conditions. Consumers who have sufficient coal on hand for their immediate requirements will be of material assistance to those in need if they will refrain from attempting to place orders at this time."

The Car-Service Division of the American Railway Association issued this statement yesterday:

"For the first time in a month the railroads, during the first week in November, report a production of less than 12,000,000 tons of bituminous coal.

"This, however, was not due to any shortage in the car supply, but to Election Day and the celebration of religious holidays in the coal fields. Bituminous production for the week ended Nov. 6 was estimated at 11,800,000 tons, a decrease of 1,038,000 tons, or 8 per cent., below the previous week.

The association reports, however, that on working days coal production reached a high mark and that, but for the holidays, the week's production would have exceeded all past records.

Utilities Stock Lower.

The Public Service Commission made public figures yesterday showing that the reserve coal supply of the public utilities of the city has diminished by 18,464 tons in the last week ending Nov. 8, the supply on that date being 397,494 tons for all utilities. In spite of reports to the contrary, Commissioner Barrett asserted that difficulty was still being found in obtaining coal cars. The coal reserves of the different companies are as follows:

Company.	Tons.	Days' Supply.
Brooklyn Rapid Transit....	5,547	6¼
Interborough Rapid Transit	10,852	5¼
Richmond Light & Railroad	380	2
New York Steam.....	30,455	67¾
New York Edison (including United E. L. & Power)..	125,718	30
Brooklyn Edison.....	57,087	38
Queensboro Gas & Electric.	2,677	48¾
Bronx Gas & Electric.....	70	10
Kings County Lighting....	1,187	73
New York & Richmond Gas	1,404	5¼
Consolidated Gas.....	93,114	41
Brooklyn Union Gas.....	1,342	24
Brooklyn Borough.....	741	107
Flatbush Gas.....	411	59

The Wholesale Coal Trade Association issued a statement yesterday denying that the export of coal had increased coal prices. According to its figures, there was no coal exported from New York from Oct. 6 to Oct. 31. Coal for British ships in that period showed a decline in spite or the British coal strike. The figures do not relate to the situation at Norfolk, the principal port of export.

Philip Alonzo of 44 Starr Street, Brooklyn, was arrested yesterday on the charge of shortweighting Thomas Callage of 768 Hart Street 450 pounds. He was held by Magistrate Brown in $200 bail.

More than 600 families at Newark applied to Mayor Gillen yesterday for a share in the shipment of 250 tons of coal which he bought at the mines through an independent operator. The Mayor is selling the coal in one-ton lots at $12.50, which is 50 cents lower than the prevailing price.

Coal dealers at Lynbrook, L. I., reported the situation there to be very serious, and the Civic League appealed to Congressman Hicks to aid in obtaining anthracite. It is reported that the Rockville Centre municipal light and power plant has been about to close down on several occasions recently for lack of coal and that it has been tided over from time to time by borrowing from the Long Island Railroad.

COLD WAVE ARRIVES.

Temperature Drops to 29 Degrees and Is Expected to Go Lower.

The arrival of the cold wave out of the West sent the temperature steadily down yesterday until 29 degrees was registered, making yesterday the coldest day of the season. It was not unreasonable weather, but the sudden drop of the mercury was accompanied by a forty-mile northwest wind that made it feel colder and cause much discomfort.

The cold here was caused by the passage eastward of an area of high pressure that has been taking a rather leisurely trip across country. It was predicted last night that within twenty-four hours the mercury would go down to "somewhere" between twenty and twenty-five degrees.

The temperature fell fifteen degrees in almost as many hours. At 3 A. M. it was forty-four degrees. At noon it was down to thirty-nine degrees, and the reading at 11 o'clock last night was 29 degrees. At 8 o'clock in the morning the velocity of the wind was twenty-four miles an hour. At 1 P. M. the greatest force, forty miles an hour, was recorded.

Vatican Recognition of Bolivia.

SANTIAGO, Chile, Nov. 12.—Advices from La Paz today announce that Spain and the Vatican have recognized the new Government of Bolivia. (A Madrid dispatch on Nov. 8 announced the recognition of Bolivia by the Spanish Government but a later message indicated that while Spain had decided upon recognition announcement of it was being deferred.)

ASKS ALLIES TO SEND FORCES TO ARMENIA

Geneva Congress Says Only Armies and Fleet Can Prevent Annihilation.

A cable message received by the Armenia-America Society from the International Philarmenian League, now in session in Geneva, was given out yesterday and copies were telegraphed to President Wilson, Secretary of State Colby and Senator Lodge. The message says:

"The latest dispatches show the Bolsheviki moving on Armenia and forming a junction with Mustapha Kemal. Kars has fallen, the Armenian army is crushed, the railroad is cut, preventing relief to the interior. The entire territory of the Armenian Republic is in enemy power, who threaten to hold the inhabitants as hostages for the restoration of Smyrna and modification of the treaty of Sevres. The Turks are flagrantly defying the Allied Governments. The existence of the Armenian Republic is trembling in the balance, while the massacres of Marash and Hadjin clearly indicate the fate of Armenians elsewhere.

"The sole remedy is to send immediately army and naval forces to repel the invasion of Armenian territory and enforce the provision of the Turkish treaty. Delay will end the Armenian problem by the extinction of the Armenian people. There are now in Turkish waters powerful allied fleets and large forces of troops. Other armies are within striking distance. We urge the use of all available resources at once. We realize the embarrassments of the Allied Governments by reason of heavy financial engagements, but we doubt not that an appeal to the United States Congress, which has already appropriated for civic relief, would have a favorable response. * * *

"EDWARD NAVILLE,
"President.
"AUGUSTE DE MORSIER,
"Secretary."

Henry S. Huntington, Secretary of the Armenia-America Society, said:

"For five years America has kept the remnant of the Armenians alive. Have we not a right to insist that they shall be permitted to continue to live? Can we do less than to request the State Department to lay the urgency of the situation, as it sees it, before the League of Nations now assembling in Geneva and to offer its services for the protection of the Armenians against absolute destruction?

"The fact that America has such large personal and material interests, represented by American missionaries, relief workers and supplies, would give the United States the right to intervene for the protection of these interests."

EXPORTS CAUSED COAL RISE

Atlantic Seaboard Chiefly Affected, Says Commerce Commission.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Foreign demand for American coal was an important factor in high domestic coal prices along the Atlantic seaboard during the first nine months of this year but was only a minor factor in the creation of high coal prices for the country as a whole, the Interstate Commerce Commission asserts in a report prepared for the Senate and made public today.

"It would be an error to assume that fundamentally the high prices paid for spot coal are to be ascribed mainly to the large exports," says the report. "There also has been an abnormal domestic situation. The foreign demand intensified the abnormal domestic demand and the several factors together afforded an opportunity for the exacting of prices not justified by the cost of production."

During the period covered the Commission showed that the export and bunker coal passing through New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Hampton Roads and Charleston amounted to more than one-half of the shipments to those ports. Railroads were forced to buy spot coal at exorbitant prices at those ports and were directly affected by the upbidding of prices by foreign buyers.

In July, 1920, the average price per net ton of coal at the mine was $3.25 for contract coal compared with $2.17 per net ton in July, 1919, the Commission said, while spot coal in July was $6.01 per net ton at the mine against $2.38 in July a year ago.

MILLS CUT WAGES AND TIME.

Southern Plant Slashes Pay and New England Mills Hours.

DANVILLE, Va., Nov. 12.—Wage reductions of 25 per cent., effective Nov. 29, were announced today by the Dan River and Riverside Cotton Mill Corporation, one of the largest plants of its kind in the South. The corporation further announced that two groups of its employes, as represented in the plant government system, had voted almost unanimously to accept the reduction.

The reduction, corporation officials explained, affects only the base rate pay, the economy dividend or bonus in force under the plant government system not being affected.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Nov. 12.—The Plymouth Mills management, employing about 400, announced today that beginning Monday the mill will run full time, but that there will be a 10 per cent. cut in wages. The plant, which makes rugs, has been running only three days a week for some time.

HOLYOKE, Mass., Nov. 12. — The Lyman Mills and Farr Alpaca Company, both manufacturers of textiles, today announced reductions in working schedules, effective Monday. The Lyman Mills will reduce from 48 to 30 hours a week and the Farr Alpaca Company, employing several thousand, will further reduce from four to three days a week.

ASTOR CASE FEE CUT UPHELD

Appellate Court Approves Reduction of Wills's $5,000 Claim to $1,000.

The Appellate Division approved yesterday an order of the lower court cutting from $5,000 to $1,000 the fee of Louis D. Wills as guardian for John Jacob Astor, Jr., in the proceedings to partition the Henry Astor estate, from which the young son of the late Colonel John Jacob Astor got $108,134. Counsel for Mr. Wills contended that the allowance claimed was no larger than that of Langdon P. Marvin, guardian for Ava Alice Muriel Astor, in the proceeding. He said:

"I believe this application is made because of a personal feeling of animosity possessed by William K. Dick, husband of the petitioner, the one time Mrs. Madeleine Force Astor, the mother of the infant, and was made at his instance."

Mrs. Dick said that the $5,000 allowance, "tested by the work actually performed, was grossly excessive."

Daylight Bandits Partly Foiled by Ohio Girl of 15.

KINGSTON, Ohio, Nov. 12.—In a daring daylight robbery, three men in an automobile today got $4,000 in currency and $150,000 in Government bonds from the First National Bank here, shooting right and left as they made their escape.

Beatrice Crafthaver, a 15-year-old bank employe, probably saved a large amount by stepping on a burglar alarm, which frightened the bandits away, and brought Marshal Jake Evans. He arrived just as the men were backing out of the door.

About 11 A. M., two of the robbers entered the bank, while the third held the street door open. Their automobile stood with running engine at the curb.

"We are Federal Bank Inspectors and want to look over your records," said one.

GERMAN MONEY PAID FOR STOCK IN MAIL

$800,000 IN PEREZ ACCOUNT

Bank Records Show Payment of $75,000 to S. Walter Kaufman.

Harold Harper, Special Federal Prosecutor, yesterday at the trial in the Federal Court of Dr. Edward R. Rumley, from 1915 to 1917 owner of The Evening Mail, and S. Walter Kaufman and Norvin R. Lindheim, lawyers, on an indictment charging them with withholding the alleged German ownership of the newspaper from the Alien Enemy Custodian, sought to connect the purchase of the newspaper by representatives of the Kaiser through the records of the office of Dr. Heinrich F. Albert, fiscal agent for the German Emperor in this city.

Frederick A. Borgomeister, who was in charge of the financial accounts of Dr. Albert's office, was on the witness stand all day. He told the jury that in the early part of January, 1916, Dr. Albert sent a letter to Lindheim, one of the defendants, which referred to a check for $7,500 "for services in The Mail and Express matter."

Borgomeister also told of a mysterious account, "Perez No. 1," which the prosecutor sought to prove was the account under which money alleged to have been supplied by the Imperial German Government for the purchase of the newspaper was carried. He was blocked, however, by counsel for the defendants, whose objection that nothing had been produced by the Government to show such a connection was sustained by Judge Grubb.

Later in the day, however, Borgomeister was permitted to testify that accounts totaling $800,000 in Dr. Albert's office had been transferred to the accounts of "Perez No. 1" and "Perez No. 2," and he declared these accounts were known as the "Evening Mail account." One item of $75,000 credited to "Perez No. 1," he explained, represented money sent to Leo Wallenstein, who on the stand several days ago testified that Kaufman, one of the defendants, sent the money to him for the purchase of a block of stock in the newspaper after Dr. Rumely obtained control of it. He also said he sent the money back to Kaufman.

Prosecutor Harper then put in evidence records of the Chase National Bank, revealing that $75,000 had been made payable to Kaufman from the account of "Perez No. 1." A check for $,000 made payable to Walter Lyons, a broker, who, the Government contends, acted as a "go-between" for the Kaiser and Dr. Rumely in the purchase of The Evening Mail, also was put in evidence.

Borgomeister was questioned at length by the Federal prosecutor regarding the alleged connection of the late Herman Ridder, known in his time as the "Cash Tee King," with the purchase of the newspaper. Mr. Harper also drew from the witness during the day that Count von Bernstorff, German Ambassador, "O. K'd" a note for $300,000, which was paid by Dr. Albert for the purchase of the steamship Wilhelmina in 1915. The trial will be continued Monday.

THREE FINED AS SLACKERS.

Two Cripples and a New Citizen Caught in Long Island Roundup.

The roundup of war draft slackers, begun recently by the Federal authorities in the Brooklyn-Long Island district, has resulted in the arrest of two cripples and a new citizen, who was working for Uncle Sam at so much per day, but failed to hear the call to the colors. Another man whose name was on the list as a supposed violator of the selective service law was found to have died before the act went into effect.

United States Marshal James M. Power learned about the listed draft evader who had died before the draft when he journeyed out to Baldwin, L. I., with a warrant. The villagers appeared surprised when he explained his errand, and took him out to the local cemetery, where a convincing alibi was established.

The new citizen who failed to get his shoulder behind a gun came over from Poland some years ago and went out on Long Island to begin life anew as a clamdigger. While Camp Upton was being constructed he was employed there as an expert machinist at $17 a day, or something like that. His plea was that he failed to receive a questionnaire. He and the two cripples who were missing from the battle line in the Argonne were fined $1 each. Up to date, as results of the roundup, Uncle Sam is in $3 and Marshal Power is wearing a downcast air.

COLBY TO SAIL NOV. 24.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Details of the ceremonial visit that Secretary Colby will soon make to South America, returning the recent official visits to this country of the Presidents of Brazil and Uruguay, are shaping themselves and will soon be announced. Secretary Colby said today that he expected to sail for South America about Nov. 24. He will be accompanied by a staff which will include a naval and also a military aid.

The first official function in connection with Mr. Colby's mission was a brilliant dinner given this evening in his honor by Dr. Jacobo Varela, the Uruguayan Minister. Dinners at the Brazilian and Argentine Embassies will follow on Monday and Tuesday evenings. Among Dr. Varela's guests tonight were members of the Cabinet and of the Diplomatic Corps, State Department officials, army and naval officers and representatives of the Pan American Union.

In proposing a toast to the guest of honor, the Minister of Uruguay alluded to the trip which Elihu Root made to South America in 1906 and declared that Secretary Colby, who was going "on a similar mission of good-will and deepest friendship, was peculiarly fitted for this great undertaking." He asserted that the Secretary would everywhere find a most hearty welcome. To this toast Secretary Colby replied, emphasising the hope of President Wilson and the Government at Washington that the American and South American Governments would be rapidly drawn together in peace and friendship.

REPORTS AMERICAN HANGED

Story That French Executed Former Armenian Reaches Relief Board.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 12.—The State Department has been asked to verify a dispatch, received here by the Near East Relief officials, stating that Captain John Shismanian of Fresno, Cal., commanding the Relief Armenian Legion at Adena, Turkey, had been arrested and hanged by the French. Captain Shismanian was said to be an American citizen and a former member of the Kentucky National Guard.

The Armenian Legion, which had been organized in Adena to defend the city and relieve besieged Armenians in Marnah and Hadjin, was disbanded by the French after being disarmed, the dispatch said.

SEARCH FOR SLAIN WIFE AT BOTTOM OF WELL

First Day's Work Futile—Son Accuses Missing New Hampshire Farmer.

LANGDON, N. H., Nov. 12.—An all day search by Sullivan County authorities failed today to disclose any trace of the body of Mrs. William B. Whitney, which, her 15-year-old stepson, John Whitney, is alleged to have said he saw his father bury in a well four years ago. The well in the Whitney barnyard, which had been filled in, was dug out in the presence of Henry N. Hurd, County Solicitor, and Sheriff Albert I. Barton. Rocks, sticks, sediment and the skeleton of a small animal were all that were found.

The Sheriff said that tomorrow he would superintend the digging out of another abandoned well on the Whitney property, in a meadow a quarter of a mile from the house. Should this reveal nothing, he added, he would examine three other wells on farms formerly in the possession of Whitney.

Whitney disappeared on Oct. 30 after eight years of residence here, in which he gained a reputation as a solid citizen. After his disappearance came bankruptcy petitions and charges that he had duplicated mortgages on his home.

The family was originally named Doolittle, according to the story said to have been told by his son John, and lived at Madison, Me., where the mother died. The father, leaving his sons after telling them their name was to be Whitney, went to Montana. He came here in 1912 with a second wife, and the family was reunited.

On the night of June 30, 1916, Whitney and his wife went to a lecture in the neighboring town of Alstead, returning late. John, according to the County Solicitor, told friends after their return that he was awakened in his bed over the kitchen by a dispute, and, looking through a hot-air register, saw his father beat his stepmother with a stick of firewood. The woman was apparently killed by the blows. The boy asserted that he saw his father take the body to a haymow in the barn, where it lay for several days. Then he placed it in the well, threw stones and farmyard debris over it, and told his son that if he ever told any person what he had seen he would be killed.

Whitney told neighbors his wife had gone on a visit to relatives in Ohio, but when she failed to arrive, and letters were unanswered, the relatives started official inquiries. In the Summer of 1917 county authorities went to the farm to investigate. After they left, young Whitney said, his father built a haystack over the well.

DECLARES MOONEY A 'FRAME-UP' VICTIM

San Francisco Policeman Said to Have Admitted Plot to Mayor Rolph.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 12.—The conviction and sentencing of Thomas J. Mooney and Warren K. Billings on charges of murder in connection with a preparedness day bomb explosion here, on July 22, 1916, "was a gigantic frame-up from the first to last," said Draper Hand, a policeman and an important figure in the case, in a statement submitted to Mayor James Rolph today, according to a story appearing in The San Francisco Call.

Mayor Rolph said late today that Hand had made a statement to him in regard to the Mooney case but added that he had nothing to say regarding the use he would make of the statement.

Hand, according to The Call, was active in the gathering of witnesses. Several witnesses, he said, were coached for weeks on what they should say on the stand.

Some of the witnesses showed signs of weakness before being called on to give their perjured testimony, the statement continued. They were, however, induced to go through with the plan.

A "corporation detective had an important part in arranging the perjury program," Hand asserted.

GUARDIAN FOR McGUIRE BOY

Aunt and Grandmother of Auto Wreck Survivor Are Applicants.

A legal fight for the guardianship of 13-year-old Francis S. McGuire, heir to an estate estimated between $250,000 and $500,000 and the only survivor of an automobile accident in which seven others were killed, was begun yesterday in the Surrogate's Court in the Bronx. Petitions asking the appointment of a guardian were filed by the Irving National Bank; Mrs. Lillian Hines, the boy's aunt, and Mrs. Marie L. Sullivan, his grandmother.

The boy is now convalescent in St. Luke's Hospital, where he has been since Sept. 11. He was the only surviving member of an automobile party of eight persons, who were hurled into a gravity near Dobbs Ferry when Dr. George G. McGuire, the boy's father, lost his way in a heavy rainstorm. Dr. McGuire, his wife, and two children were killed, leaving Francis as the only surviving member of the family. Two relatives also were killed, with a 15-year-old playmate of Francis.

In its petition the Irving National Bank, which has the funds of the estate, points out that the injured boy now has available for immediate use only about $150 in Liberty bonds and War Savings Stamps, with little cash. It urges the immediate appointment of a guardian. Except for a few bequests to charity, the boy is to inherit the entire estate. About $100,000 is to be held for him, under the terms of the will, until he is 25 years old.

Mrs. Hines, who lives at the old home of the family at 2,519 Creston Avenue, declares that she is better able to care for the boy and that she is better liked by him than other relatives. She opposes the appointment of the grandmother, who, she alleges, at 70 is incapable of the task.

"INTERSTATE" WILL FILED.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., Nov. 12.—The will of John D. Barrett, formerly a New York marine and insurance broker, who was killed by a train at Greenwich station on Oct. 20, was probated yesterday. The will sets forth that "all real and personal estate be divided and apportioned and paid by my executors in accordance with the laws of the State of Connecticut in cases of interstate estates."

This means that the widow and five children of the testator receive the entire estate. Mrs. Nellie Adams Barrett, the widow, Herbert Appleton and Douglas F. Cox are named as executors. The real estate is valued at $55,000 and the personal property, according to the petition, is "upward" of $100,000. The children of the testator are Sarah B. Roberts of Camp Lewis, Wash.; Alice B. Grant and Helen L. Barrett of Greenwich, John David Barrett and Clarence Redington Barrett.

It is said that this is the first will of the kind ever filed in the Probate Court here.

East 42d Street Lease Pending.

Negotiations are pending for leasing by the National City Company to a business concern of the property at 19 East Forty-second Street and 18-20 East Forty-first Street, abutting. It fronts 22 feet on Forty-second Street and 48 feet on Forty-first Street; and it is planned to erect a six or seven-story building on the site. The National City Company recently leased the Hotel Manhattan, adjoining, and these properties were also involved in that lease.

APARTMENT BUYING IN OLD HOME AREA

Apartment house dealing provided an active feature of the realty market yesterday. Of chief importance was a large transaction in the lower Fifth Avenue residential centre, involving the purchase of the two six-story apartment structures known as the Portsmouth and the Hampshire, covering the plot from 38 to 50 West Ninth Street, between Fifth and Sixth Avenues. The property was acquired by Charles R. Faruolo from the Furness-Zimmerman estate, which has owned it for many years. The Portsmouth house has a frontage of 92 feet, and the Hampshire, adjoining on the west, fronts 69 feet, making a total street frontage of 161 feet, by 99.11 in depth. The larger house is assessed at $155,000, of which $80,000 is land value, and the smaller one at $120,000, of which $60,000 is land value, a total of $275,000 for the two buildings, with $140,000 as land value.

The consideration in the deal is said to have been close to $300,000. The buildings accommodate forty-five families, having an annual rent roll of $61,000. The present leases expire in 1922. Lord, Day & Lord represented the executors under the will of Margaret E. Zimmerman, a daughter of Mr. Furness, in his time a wealthy merchant of the city. Middlebrook & Borland acted as attorneys for the buyer.

THE JOY OF LIVING

is materially increased by the feeling of pride and permanency that comes from owning one's home. Tenant ownership has added advantages over the usual home ownership because it eliminates all rent, taxes, assessments and the many worries connected with the care of property. The tenant owner's investment in this new building is only 4½ years' rental.

WILL NOT TELL SIMS AGAIN ABOUT AWARD

Navy Department Holds There Is No Occasion for It Since Original Award Stands.

D. S. M. IS GIVEN TO EDISON

Inventor Is Only Civilian Getting This Honor—Was Head of Consulting Board.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—No formal notification is to be sent to Admiral William S. Sims, president of the Naval War College, that a distinguished service medal has been granted him for the part he played in the war.

The position of Secretary Daniels and the Navy Department is that as Admiral Sims wrote to the department nearly a year ago, declining to accept the medal originally awarded to him, and as there has been no departure from this original award, Mr. Daniels sees no reason why the Admiral should now be informed that there is a medal at the department for him if he wishes to accept it. The department takes the same attitude in regard to Captains Decker and Hasbrouck, who also refused to accept the navy crosses originally awarded to them. The medals to which Admiral Sims and Captains Decker and Hasbrouck are entitled are in the custody of the Bureau of Navigation, and these officers, it is stated, may obtain them by writing to the Department for them, sending a messenger or appearing in person. The department sees no reason why it should now notify these officers that the original award in their cases stands.

The only civilian receiving a distinguished service medal from the department was Thomas A. Edison, who was president of the Naval Consulting Board during the war. The citation in the case of Mr. Edison, made public by Secretary Daniels today, is as follows:

"For exceptionally meritorious and distinguished service in a position of great responsibility as President of the Naval Consultation Board."

Jusserand Sails for America Today.

PARIS, Nov. 12.—Premier and Mme. Leygues gave a farewell luncheon today to Jean Jules Jusserand, French Ambassador to the United States, and Mme. Jusserand. Many notable persons were present. Ambassador and Mme. Jusserand will sail for New York on the steamer La Savoie tomorrow.

MARKEWICH LEAVES SWANN.

Assistant District Attorney Who Criticised Judge Resigns to Join Law Firm.

Samuel Markewich, an Assistant District Attorney, resigned yesterday, effective on Nov. 15. He said he intended to join the law firm of Kopp, Markewich & Perlman. Mr. Markewich had been on the District Attorney's staff since Mr. Swann succeeded Whitman in 1915. Mr. Swann said he accepted the resignation with regret.

Mr. Markewich attracted public attention in September, 1919, when in a speech he criticised Federal Judge Julius M. Mayer concerning an order directing Receiver Job E. Hedges to discontinue four storage battery car lines on the east side. Judge Mayer accepted an apology from Mr. Markewich, after considering the question of contempt, but referred the case to the Bar Association and to the New York County Lawyers' Association. The Appellate Division disposed of these charges with a censure based on his offending statement.

ANNUL MARRIAGE OF GIRL, 12

Youthful Chinese Bride Freed from Ties She Was Forced Into.

The marriage of Anna Wong Kee, 12-year-old Chinese girl, who was forced to wed David Lee Wong, a Binghamton laundryman, by her foster mother, who got $700 for the girl, was annulled yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Davis. The case attracted wide attention when proceedings were brought against the husband in Binghamton. Suit was brought here in behalf of the youthful bride by Miss Banta, a Chinatown missionary.

The child testified that her foster mother dressed her to look older than her years, and brought about her marriage to the elderly laundryman. The case was not defended.

To Rev. Dr. HERBERT SHIPMAN
Rector Church of the Heavenly Rest, Fifth Avenue and 45th Street

PROFITEERS were the subject of your address to the Columbia University Post No. 400, American Legion, last Sunday. You said your say about these ancient and dishonorable harpies in eloquent verses. The N. Y. World published them on its front page on Monday. We admire your verse and your spirit. They show that you are about your Master's business, rather than your own. It does not usually PAY (in dollars) to do this sort of thing. It pays better to preach RIFLES, and LITTLE BIRDS SINGING IN THE AIR, than to wield the scourge against the pew-renting money-changers in the Temple.

Our particular interest in this matter is that we have just published "CAIUS GRACCHUS," by Odlin Gregory. Gracchus objected to PROFITEERS. This cost him his life.

Your modesty may prevent your re-reading your verses about PROFITEERS to your congregation on Sunday. BUT you can read to them the burning words on that subject on pp. 99-101 of "CAIUS GRACCHUS." It has been said of these lines that they will get under the thickest epidermis, and HURT! Try them out. You can get the book at any bookseller's, or from us for $2.

ARE YOU A UNITARIAN?

A stenographer was employed to report the sermon at the West Side Unitarian Church last Sunday. At the close of the service he said: "I left the churches a dozen years ago and worked out a religion of my own, and by George, if I wasn't surprised to hear it preached this morning! I've been a Unitarian for years and didn't know it. I want to join your church if I'm welcome."

Every Sunday strangers tell us that they have found at last the church they have been looking for.

Perhaps you are a Unitarian, too. If interested, come to the West Side Unitarian Church, Broadway at 117th St., tomorrow at 11 A. M. or write.
